The Profits (if any) on the sale of this Book will be applied towards the repair of the Bells of St. Nicholas' Church, which require rehanging. This is one of the few churches in England which has a ring of Twelve Bells. At the present time their condition is such that only eight of them can be rung with safety.

Preface.

T was formerly the custom in this parish for the churchwardens to make, annually, at Eastertide, an inventory of the church goods, which was then carefully entered in the parish books and duly signed and delivered to their successors in office. The earliest Parish Book we possess commences in the year 1681, from which it appears that this laudable custom was strictly observed down to the year 1794, when it fell into desuetude. From that date—a period of nearly one hundred years—no inventory of the “moveables” deposited in the parish churches has been made.

Ancient Inventories furnish us with exceedingly curious details, and from them we are enabled to form some correct idea of the surpassing beauty and richness of the ornaments—the plate, jewels, shrines, vestments, hangings, books and manuscripts—with which the English Church was so bountifully endowed previous to the Reformation. They give us an insight not only into the rites and ceremonies and the ritual arrangements of the Church, but also into the manners and customs of our ancestors. An Inventory has a special interest for posterity, as well as its utilitarian value in the present. I determined, therefore, before the expiry of my term of churchwardenship of this parish, that at least one more inventory of church goods should be made,—the result has been the present volume. My original intention was simply to print on a few sheets a list of the various pieces of church furniture, and to paste it into one of the vestry books for the use of future churchwardens, and there leave the matter. The work, however, grew on my hands and has assumed more formidable proportions than I anticipated. It has certainly entailed an amount of physical exertion for which I was quite unprepared. To examine upwards of four hundred Register books—many of them very ponderous and massive tomes—is in itself a laborious task, from which my immediate predecessors very reasonably excused themselves.

These Register books, with the exception of the earliest volume, I found in an excellent state of preservation. They have been carefully written, and are models of what parish registers should be. For beautiful specimens of calligraphy, few registers can compare with those at the Old Church. The earliest book has at some period suffered from the ravages of mice—the lower portion of several of the leaves is eaten away—and in many places the writing is completely obliterated, due mainly to age and dust, and the constant friction of the hands and fingers in the process of making searches. I have carefully transcribed this volume, and, by permission of the Rector, printed it with this Inventory. Some of the missing portions have been supplied from the Bishop's Transcripts, which happily exist in the Diocesan Registry at Chester, although in a very imperfect condition. I am convinced that the best way to preserve parish registers is to print them.

At St. Peter's Church I found an unused Library of valuable books. In Smithers' Liverpool, its Commerce, Statistics, and Institutions, published in 1825, there is an account of the formation of this library. He says:—"The first glimpse of a disposition towards literature traceable in Liverpool appears in a donation of £30 given by John Fells, a mariner, in 1715, to found a small theological library in St. Peter's Church. It has since received some additions from one of the rectors; and a few years ago the books were newly bound, repaired, and placed in glass cases, for originally they were on open shelves, and fastened together with rods and chains. The books are in good preservation, and are placed in the vestry of the above church, where they may be consulted any day in proper hours; in number 217 books (107 folios, 50 quartos, and 54 octavoes), consisting principally of ancient Divinity and early Church history."

The glass cases, of which he speaks, were made in 1818, and placed in the vestry at the south-east corner of the church, and the books are still deposited in them. Several additions were made by Archdeacon Brooks and Rector Campbell, and at the present time they number 305 volumes (159 folios, 81 quartos, and 65 octavoes). The existence of this library is almost unknown to the present generation of Liverpool people. Sir James Picton, F.S.A., tells us in his Memorials that he knew of its existence, but that he had never seen it; and Canon Stewart stated publicly, some few months ago, that during the twenty years he had been Rector of Liverpool, no one had applied to him to use any of these books. A very cursory examination of the volumes themselves would convince any one that the greater part had never been opened since the time of John Fells. This is due to some extent to the nature of their contents, and to a very general belief amongst the few parishioners who know of their existence, that the Library is for the exclusive use of the parochial clergy.

Several donations of books and £12 in money are also recorded, with the names of the donors, but with one or two exceptions, these books (120 in number) are now missing. They may, however, be still preserved, as appended to a neatly written list of the books catalogued as donations, is this note:—"The books belonging to the Library in St. Peter's Church were removed to the Clerical Library, adjoining the Savings' Bank, Bold Street, on Wednesday, the 10th day of April 1839, by order of the Rev. J. Brooks, rector, with a promise that they shall be returned whenever required by proper authority.—Wm. Maybrick, P.C."

The 305 volumes now in the library I have carefully catalogued, and have added several "Notes," which I believe will be useful in awakening an interest in some of the volumes. To bibliophiles these notes will appear very common-place; but as this catalogue is intended for the use of the parishioners at large, I have assumed that some of them may not be so well versed in the literature of our theological writers, and I have therefore, at the risk of being considered pedantic, supplied brief references to the various editions of the works, and given a few biographical particulars concerning the authors. The literary sources from which much of my information has been drawn, are in many cases, indicated at the end of the "Note."

This annotated Catalogue; an Inventory of the plate and church goods; a Transcript of the earliest register book; and some Extracts from the Vestry Records, constitute the present volume. An autotype reproduction of Mr. R. E. Morrison's recent painting of the Rector of the parish—Canon A. Stewart, M.A.—forms a pleasing and appropriate frontispiece.

I gladly avail myself of this opportunity to thank my friend, Mr. T. N. Morton, whose paleographic skill is so well-known, for most valuable aid in deciphering and transcribing the early Registers; my thanks are also due to the Rev. Leonard J. Rich, M.A., for assistance in correcting some of the proof-sheets.

The Cathedral Communion Plate.

When the Diocese of Liverpool was formed, a number of valuable gifts, it may be remembered, were offered to the Bishopric Committee for their acceptance, on behalf of the new See. Amongst these was a Communion Service, the munificent offering of the late Mrs. Jane Lawrence, of Mossley Hill, consisting of Two Flagons, Four Chalices, Four Patens, and Four Plates. It was manufactured by Messrs. Elkington and Co., the eminent firm of silversmiths, of Liverpool, who generously added the offer of a magnificent Alms Dish. In point of ecclesiastical art workmanship and design, nothing approaching this Communion Plate has been produced in modern times—the total cost amounting to upwards of £1500.

This elaborate and costly production is waiting to be enshrined in a Cathedral Church which shall be worthy of this important and wealthy city. It is to be hoped that the time is not far distant when the liberality of the inhabitants of the Diocese will enable this necessary work to be undertaken. Until that time arrives, it is probable that this sacred plate will remain unused, unseen, and almost forgotten—securely hidden away in the cavernous vaults of one of the City strong-rooms.

A brief description (supplied by the makers) will, however, bring to remembrance its existence, and may interest a generation which has grown into manhood since it was buried away.

“ It consists of fifteen pieces, and the material employed is solid silver, covered with gold, or what is generally understood as gold plate. This is again studded with jewels, such as carbuncles, amethysts, chalcedonies, and other precious stones used in ecclesiastical art. The process of manufacture is that known as repoussé, all the work having been the actual production of the artist (W. C. Cadman, Esq.) from the flat silver with the hammer, except where the lapidary’s or enameller’s art had to be exercised. The design throughout is Gothic, all the pieces harmonising with each other both in outline and detail.

“ The FLAGONS are 14 inches in height, with richly perforated handles, having foliated ornaments at top and bottom. The bodies are wrought in relief with emblems of ‘The Passion,’ and the necks are ornamented with rich vine work,—the covers typical of the Heavenly Crown, and surmounted with Latin crosses.

“ The CHALICES are 9 inches in height, and are designed in the shape of cups of severe form, supported on Gothic pillars springing from pedestals, on which are represented the ‘Crucifixion’ and other sacred subjects. In the centre of the pillars are jewelled bosses, to offer a firm hold to the hand when in use.

“ The PATENS, 7 inches in diameter, are made in both circular and hexagonal form, the latter being on feet, and the former without feet, to serve as covers for the Chalices. The Sacred Monogram ih̄s is introduced in the centre of each, whilst heads of the four Evangelists, and the four major Prophets are also pourtrayed to show the connection of the Old and the New Testament Dispensations. The borders are chased with ears of wheat, typical of the bread they are to carry.

“ The ALMS PLATES are, like the Patens, both round and hexagonal, 10 inches in diameter. The centres of the round shapes bear the Agnus Dei, surrounded by the Crown of Thorns, and the twelve Apostles are depicted around this. On the hexagonal plates is the emblematical Dove, with the twelve minor Prophets. The borders are ornamented with the Passion flower and the Lily.

“ The ALMS DISH is 24 inches in diameter, the main feature of the design being a Maltese Cross, which springs from a centre shield in Champ-levè enamel, on which are emblazoned the arms of the Diocese in proper heraldic colours. The cross is in high relief, the other work being held subordinate to it. Its arms are formed of enriched vine work—Passion flowers and Fleurs-de-lys being the chief ornaments. In the spaces left vacant by the arms of the cross are eight emblematical panels, in each of which, in low relief, is a beautifully-drawn event from the life of Christ. These include the Annunciation, the Birth, the Baptism, the Temptation, the Agony, the Crucifixion, the Resurrection, and the Ascension. The border is rich in the extreme, being formed of Gothic foliated ornaments, with jewelled bosses at intervals. Around the coat of arms, in ancient English lettering, is the record of the foundation of the See—‘Diocesis Liverpoliensis Condita, A.D. MDCCCLXXX.’ On the hollow formed by the recess of the dish is the text from Hebrews 13. 16:—‘Beneficentiae, autem et communionis nolite oblivisci.’ On the back of the pieces the names of the donors are inscribed, in Latin.”

Catalogue of the Library IN THE VESTRY OF THE Parish Church of St. Peter, Liverpool, 1893.

The books have been Catalogued in Alphabetical order under the names of the Authors; and under the principal catchword of the Title in the case of anonymous works.

It will be noticed that some of these books are admirable specimens of early printing. There will be found books printed by John Petit in 1524; by Frobisher in 1527; by M. Reimbolt in 1527; and a BIBLE printed by Froschover, at Tiguri (i.e., Zurich) in 1543, containing fine initial-letter woodcuts. The works of St. Augustine, printed in Paris, 1531, is another early example. Many of the books were printed during the 16th and 17th centuries, at Antwerp, Geneva, Cologne, Amsterdam, Louvain, Lugd. Batavor (i.e., Leyden), Brussels, and Paris.

ADAMS, THOS, Works of. (Sermons, Meditations, Discourses.)
Folio, calf. London, 1630.

In 1614 he was "preacher of God's Word at Willington, in Bedfordshire," afterwards became Rector of St. Bennet's, Paul's Wharf, London. Dr. Southey, with whom he was a favourite author, says that he had "all the oddity and the felicity of Fuller's manner."

AINSWORTH'S LATIN DICTIONARY, by Carey. 2 vols. 4to, calf.
London, 1816.

Ainsworth was born in 1660, and educated at Bolton, Lancashire, where he afterwards kept a school. He published a "Short Treatise of Grammatical Institution," but he is best known by his "Dictionary," in the compilation of which he spent twenty years.

ALLEN, WILLIAM. Works. Folio, calf.

A tradesman of London, whose works were held in great esteem by Bishops Kidder, Williams, and others. Bishop Kidder preached a sermon at his funeral.

AMBROSII CALEPINI. Lexicon. Folio, calf.

1523.

Calepino was the descendant of a noble Italian family. He embraced the monastic habit of the Augustines, and spent all his life in the compilation of his Lexicon. The first edition appeared in 1503, and the work rapidly passed through a great number of editions.

AMBROSII OPERA. 3 vols. in 1. Folio, calf.

Frobisher, Paris, 1527.

The best edition of the works of St. Ambrose is that published in 2 vols., folio, Paris, 1686 and 1690, by the Benedictine monks. His name is connected with the earliest improvement of church music. He instituted that method of singing known by the name of "Cantus Ambrosianus."

ANABAPTISTS' MISSION DISPROV'D. 8vo, half calf. London, 1705.

ANDREWS (Bishop) on the Ten Commandments; together with Nineteen Sermons upon Prayer; also Seven Sermons upon the Tentations in the Wilderness. Folio, half calf. London, 1642.

Andrews was successively Bishop of Chichester, Ely, and Winchester. He had a share in the translation of the present version of the Bible.

ANTIQUITATES CHRISTIANÆ; or, History of the Life and Death of the Holy Jesus, as also the Lives and Acts and Martyrdoms of His Apostles. In two parts:—the first part by JEREMY TAYLOR; the second part by WM. CAVE. Portrait by R. LAMBERT. Copper-plates. Folio, calf. London, 1675.

Another Copy of the same work. Edition 1742. Frontispiece by Jas. Sartor, and numerous copper-plates by Van der Gucht, Clarke, Pine, &c.

AQUINAS, THOMAS. Summa Theologica. (Copper-plates by Gaultier.) Folio, calf. Paris, 1608.

The authority of Aquinas has always been held in high esteem by the Romish Church, and he was canonized in 1323. His works make 17 vols. folio, and have been printed several times at several places. The edition printed at Rome, 1570, is one of the earliest and best.

ATHANASII OPERA. 2 vols. Folio, calf. Paris, 1627.

The works of St. Athanasius chiefly relate to the Arian controversy. He is considered one of the ablest supporters of the doctrine of the Trinity. The Creed which bears his name is said to have been compiled by one of the African bishops in the fifth century, but it was more probably formulated by a conclave of bishops at a council at Autun, circa A.D. 670.

ATHENÆ OXONIENSES. By Anthony Wood. An exact history of all the Writers and Bishops educated at Oxford. 2 vols in 1. Folio, calf. London, 1691.

ATTERBURY, FRANCIS. English Convocation, Rights, Powers, and Privileges of. 2nd edit. 8vo, half-calf. London, 1701.

The Hon. Charles Boyle (Earl of Orrery), founder of the Boyle Lectures, was the pupil of Atterbury. Atterbury was successively Dean of Carlisle, Christchurch, and Westminster, and Bishop of Rochester. He assisted Dr. Sacheverell in drawing up his defence. On the breaking out of the Rebellion in Scotland he refused to sign the Declaration of the Bishops, and was apprehended on suspicion of being engaged in a plot to bring in the Pretender, and banished the kingdom. "A man of great learning and brilliant talents; as a speaker, a preacher, and a writer, he had few equals."

AUGUSTINI IN SACRAS PAULI EPISTOLAS, cum interpretatione per Venerabilem Bedam. Black Letter. *M. Rembolt (date on cover, 1527); fine initial woodcuts.

His works, particularly "The City of God" and those in defence of the grace of Jesus Christ, have gained him immortal honour. The best edition is that of the Benedictines, 1679.

AUGUSTINI OPERA, cum Indiciis. 10 vols. in 5. Folio, calf. Paris, 1531.

AUTHORITY OF THE HOLY SCRIPTURES, Discourse on the. 8vo, calf. London, 1869.

BACON. History of the Raigne of King Henry VII., written by Francis, Lord Verulam, Viscount St. Alban. Folio, half calf. London, 1622.

Bacon's character has been epigrammatically described by a great poet in the following line—

"The wisest, brightest, meanest of mankind."

It is not generally remembered that Lord Bacon was "Member for Liverpool" in 1588.

* Berthold Rembolt was an associate of Ulric Gering who commenced the art of printing in Paris, 1470.

BAGSHAW, HENRY. Discourses against Papists and Socinians. 8vo, half-calf. London, 1680.

BARCLAY, J. Argenis. 8vo, calf. Lugd. Bat., 1664.

"It absolutely distresses me," says Coleridge, "when I reflect that this work, admired as it has been by great men of all ages, and lately by the poet Cowper, should be unknown to the general reader." It was of Barclay that the learned Grotius said—

"A Scott by blood, and French by birth, this man
At Rome speaks Latin as no Roman can."

He was the author of several ingenious works. He died at Rome in 1621.

BARROW, ISAAC (D.D.). Treatise on the Pope's Supremacy, to which is added a Discourse concerning the Unity of the Church. 4to, calf. London, 1680.

This eminent mathematician and divine was considered in his day the most learned man in England. Newton was his pupil, and succeeded him as Lucasian Professor of Mathematics at Cambridge. He was buried in Westminster Abbey.

BARROW, ISAAC. Works by Tillotson, 2 vols., bound with Barrow on the Pope's Supremacy. Folio, calf. Frontispiece, portrait of Barrow, by D. Loggan. London, 1683.

BATES, WM. (D.D.) Discourses on the Divine Attributes. 2nd edit. 4to, calf. Portrait by Faithorne. London, 1675.

He was one of the Commissioners at the Savoy Conference for Revising the Liturgy. On the passing of the Act of Uniformity, he seceded from the Church.

BIBLIA SACRA FACTI LATINI EX HEBRÆO, illustrata ab TREMELLIO et JUNIO. London, 1593.

BIBLIA SACRA POLYGLOTTA. 6 vols. Edidit BRIANUS WALTONUS,
S.T.D. Folio, calf. London, Imprimebat Thomas Roycroft.
1657.

This is the most complete and correct of all the Polyglot Bibles. Nine languages are given in it. It is a "Royal" copy. The Polyglot was finished in 1657, a year before Cromwell died. He encouraged the work, and by his permission the paper on which it was printed was imported duty free. The Protector was therefore mentioned with peculiar respect at page 10, in the Preface; but when Richard Cromwell resigned, and the restoration of Charles seemed imminent, that passage was cancelled in all the remaining copies—the last two leaves being suppressed and three others substituted. From this has arisen the distinction of "republican" and "royal" copies, the latter being the most numerous. Walton was Bishop of Chester.

BIBLIA TESTAMENTI VETERIS ET Novi, translata in Latinum.
(Fine initial letters.) Folio, tooled calf.

Froschover*, Tiguri, 1543.

BIBLIOTHECA THEOLOGICI—Augustini, Eusebii et aliorum.
Folio, calf. 1581.

* Christopher Froschover was an eminent printer of Zurich. The first edition of the whole Bible in the English language by Miles Coverdale, generally called "Coverdale's Bible," is now, from the appearance of the types, believed to have been printed in his printing office. John Froschover was a printer in the city of Augsburg, 1481.

BILSON, THOMAS. Survey of Christ's Sufferings. Folio, half calf.
London, 1604.

Author of "Difference between Christian Subjection and Unchristian Rebellion"; "Perpetual Government of Christ's Church." This latter is one of the most able treatises in favour of Episcopacy ever written. Bishop Bilson was one of the translators of the present version of the Bible.

BLACKALL, OFSPRING (D.D.) Eight Sermons on Sufficiency of Revelation. (Boyle Lecture.) 4to, half calf. London, 1700.

Bishop Blackall had the reputation of being one of the best preachers of his time.

CALVIN, J. Institutiones Christianæ Religionis. Folio, calf. Geneva, 1568.

Written during his residence at Basle, in 1535.

CAMDEN, WM. (Clarenceux King at Arms.) History of the Princess Elizabeth. Folio, half calf. 4th edition. London, 1688.

Nicholson fitly describes this great antiquary as "The common sun whereat our modern writers have all lighted their little torches." Camden died in 1623, and was buried in Westminster Abbey. He bequeathed all his books and papers to Sir Robert Cotton.

CASTRO, ALPHONSUS DE. ADVERSUS OMNES HÆRESES. Folio, calf. Antwerp, 1556.

Castro was a Franciscan friar, and a very celebrated preacher. This work, which is partly historical and partly polemical, acquired great celebrity. The first edition, 1534, contained a passage against the infallibility of the Pope, which was suppressed in subsequent editions. The latest revised edition by the author was that of 1556. The best edition is that of 1773.

CATECHISM. Exposition of the Catechism of the Church of England. By William, Bishop of Gloucester. 4to, half calf. London, 1678.

CAVE, WM. (D.D.) Dissertation of the Government of the Ancient Church. (With List of Books sold by Rich. Chiswell.) Svo, calf. London, 1683.

CHILLINGWORTH, W. Religion of Protestants. 4th edit. Folio, half calf. London, 1674.

This, his great work, was originally published in 1638. He is reputed to have been "the best reasoner and most acute logician of his age."

CLARENDRON'S HISTORY OF THE REBELLION. 2 vols. Folio, half.calf. 1703.

"His History forms a very valuable source of information; few have exceeded him in the truth and animation of the characters which he draws of his contemporaries."—Darling.

CLARK, SAMUEL (M.A.). Demonstration on the Being and Attributes of God. 2 vols. Svo, calf. London, 1706.

Author of several works upon various subjects, some of them of a doctrinal and others of a deeply philosophical kind. He also published Homer's "Iliad," with a Latin version and annotations.

CLARKE, SAMUEL. Sermons. 2 vols. Folio, calf. Dublin, 1734.

COLLIER, JEREMY. Ecclesiastical History of Great Britain. 2 vols. Folio, calf. London, 1708.

This has become a standard work. His essay on the Stage contributed greatly to reform theatrical representations.

COMBER, THOMAS (D.D.). Divine Right of Tithes. 4to, half-calf. London, 1682.

COMBER, THOS. (D.D.) History of Liturgies. 8vo, half-calf. London, 1690.

Author of "Companion to the Temple," the most complete work extant on the Common Prayer, abounding in learned references and authorities. All succeeding writers on the subject are largely indebted to it.

CONFIRMATION, Discourse of, by Jeremy Taylor, Lord Bishop of Down. 4to, half-calf. Dublin, 1663.

COSIN JOHN (D.D.) Scholastical History of the Canon of Holy Scripture 4to, half-calf. London, 1672.

CYPRIANI OPERA, cum notis Rigaltii. Folio, calf. Paris, 1666.

His works were edited by Bishop Fell, at Oxford, in 1682, and rendered into English by Dr. Marshall, in one vol., folio.

DAVENANT, J. (Bp. of Salisbury.) Determinationes Questionum quarundam Theologicarum. Folio, calf. Cambridge, 1634.

— Another copy. 2nd edit. 1639.

This 2nd edition has several corrections and additions.

DAVENANT, J. (Bishop of Salisbury.) Exposition of the Epistle to the Colossians (in Latin). Folio, calf. Cambridge, 1639.

Originally delivered in a series of lectures before the University. A translation from the original Latin, with Life of the Author, and Notes by Josiah Allport, 2 vols, 8vo, was issued in 1831. "I know no exposition upon a detatched portion of Scripture that will compare with it in all points."—Bridges.

DAWSON, GEORGE. Treatise on the Origin of Laws. Folio, calf. London, 1694.

DIALOGUE BETWEEN TIMOTHY AND PHILAETHIUS. 3 vols. 8vo, calf. London, 1709.

Written by a layman—probably William Oldisworth. This work is a criticism of a contemporary book entitled "The Rights of the Christian Church." Each volume has a separate dedication and preface. At the end of Vol. 3 there is a List of Tracts, all printed in London, for Bernard Lintott.

DICSON, DAVID. Expositio analytica omnium Apostolicarum Epistolarum. 4to, half-calf. Glasgow, 1647.

DUPIN, LEWIS ELLIS. History of Ecclesiastical Writers—Lives and Writings of the Primitive Fathers. 6 vols. in 3. Folio, half-calf. London, 1693.
 DuPin rendered himself conspicuous as an opponent of the "Bull Unigenitus." The above work was much censured by zealous Romanists for some freedom of sentiment, which the author was compelled to retract. By his moderation, however, he gained the friendship of several English divines. He held a long dispute with Archbishop Wake on a projected union between the English and Gallican Churches.

DUPIN, LEWIS ELLIS. History of the Canon and Writers of the Books of the Old and New Testaments. Folio, calf. London, 1699.

DUPORT, JACOB. Metaphrasis Libri Psalmorum, Græcis Versibus Contexta. Engraved title. 4to, half-calf. Cambridge, 1666.
 Duport was a prebend of Lincoln, and Archdeacon of Stow and subsequently Dean of Peterboro'.

DURELLUS, JOHN. Adversus Schismaticorum Criminaciones.
4to, calf. London, 1669.

ECHARD, LAURENCE. Description of the Holy Land, with account of the Government and Constitutions of the Jews. (Title page wanting.) Folio, calf.

Author of "History of Rome"; "General Ecclesiastical History." This latter was long considered the best work of its kind. His "History of England" was written on High Church principles.

EDWARDS, John (D.D.) Discourse concerning the Authority, Stile and Perfection of the Books of the Old and New Testaments. 3 vols. 8vo, half-calf. London, 1694.
(Vol. 1 missing.)

EDWARDS, JOHN (D.D.) Exercitations on Places in the Writings of the Old and New Testament. In 2 parts. 8vo, half-calf. London, 1702.

An eminent Calvinist divine, and the author of numerous theological works. Minister of Trinity Church, Cambridge, 1664, where he attracted some notice as a preacher.

EPIPHANII OPERA cum Vita Petavii ab H. Valesio. Fine copperplates. 2 vols. (Vol. 1 wants title.) Folio, calf. 1682.

This Father of the Christian Church was violently opposed to the writings of Origen; his compositions are, however, more valuable for the fragments of others which they preserve, than for their own intrinsic merit. The edition by Petavius is the best.

EPISTLES—Annotations on the Epistles to the Ephesians, Philippians, Colossians, Thessalonians (in Latin). Imperfect at both ends. Folio, half-calf.

EUCHARIST, HISTORY OF THE, by Monsieur L'Arrogue, Minister of the Protestant Church at Quevilly, near Roan; done into English by J. W. 4to, half-calf. Frontispiece. London, 1684.

This learned work was first published at Amsterdam (Elzevir), 1669.

FELTHAM, OWEN. Resolves. 10th edition. Printed by Harper. Engraved title. Folio, calf. London, 1677.

This famed old author treats of many curious subjects, viz., of Property, of Love, of Marriage or Single Life, of Dreams, of Long and Short Lives, of the Misery of being Old and Ignorant, and many other subjects.

FIELD, RICHARD (Dean of Gloucester). Of the Church, Five Books. 2nd edit. Folio, half-calf. Oxford, 1628.

Originally published in 1606, to which was added a fifth book in 1610.

FLEETWOOD, WILLIAM (Bishop of Ely). Essay on Miracles. 8vo, calf. London, 1701.

He was the best preacher of his time; his sermons were considered models of pulpit eloquence.

FOULIS, HENRY. Plots and Conspiracies of our Pretended Saints,—Jesuits and Presbyterians. 2nd edit. Folio, half-calf. Oxford, 1674.

Originally educated as a Presbyterian, he became a violent opponent of that system.

FRIENDLY DEBATE between a Conformist and a Nonconformist. 8vo, half-calf. London, 1684.

(The Conformist was Symon Patrick.)

GAUDEN, JOHN (D.D.) Hieraspistes: a defence by way of apology for the Ministry and Ministers of the Church of England. Engraved title. 4to, calf. London, 1653.

Gauden was the supposed author of "Ikon Basiliké," a book which had a wonderful effect on the public mind, the authorship of which has frequently been ascribed to Charles I. After the Restoration he was elevated to the See of Exeter, and in 1662 to that of Worcester.

GIBSON'S CODEX JURIS ECCLESIASTICI ANGLICANI. 2 vols. Folio, calf. London, 1713.

The 2nd edition, 1761, was revised, and contains numerous additions. Gibson was Bishop of Lincoln, afterwards translated to London. He published a Latin version of the "Chronicon Saxonicum," and an edition of Camden's "Britannia," &c.

GODOLPHIN, JOHN (LL.D.) Ecclesiastical Laws. 3rd edition. 4to, calf. London, 1687.

In this work the king's supremacy is strenuously and learnedly asserted. Godolphin was a Judge of the Admiralty under Cromwell, and King's Advocate at the Restoration.

GODOLPHIN, JOHN (LL.D.) The Orphan's Legacy. 2nd edit. 4to, calf. London, 1677.

GOODMAN, J. (D.D.) Penitent Pardoned. 4to, half-calf. London, 1670.

He was Archdeacon of Middlesex, and the author of "A Discourse on Auricular Confession," and several sermons.

GREGORII NYSSENI OPERA. 3 vols. Folio, calf. Paris, 1638.

Gregory Nyssen was Bishop of Nyssa, in Cappadocia, in the 4th century, but was deposed by the Arian faction. He drew up the Nicene Creed, by order of the Council of Constantinople. His works were published in Paris in 1615. 2 vols., folio. The edition of 1638 is the best.

GROTIUS (H.) Annotationes in Libros Evangeliorum. Folio, calf. Amsterdam, 1641.

Grotius embraced the doctrine of Arminius. His treatise on the "Truth of the Christian Religion" was a standard book in all universities for students in Divinity. His "Annales et Historiae de Rebus Belgicis," and his "Commentaries on the Scriptures" are "an immortal monument of learning." De Burigny wrote his Life, with a critical account of his works. London, 8vo, 1754.

GROTIUS (H.) De Jure Belli ac Pacis. 8vo, calf. Amsterdam, 1670.

This work has been translated into all the European languages.

GUALTHERI, RODOLPHI. Commentarii in Prophetas xii. Minores. Folio, calf. Tiguri, Froschover, 1582.

One of the early Reformers, born in 1529. His "Commentaries" are highly esteemed and very rare.

HACKET'S MEMORIAL OF BISHOP WILLIAMS. Folio, half-calf.
London, 1693.

"What a delightful and instructive book the Life of Archbishop Williams is; you learn more from it of that which is valuable towards an insight into the times preceding the Civil Wars than from all the ponderous histories and memoirs now composed about that period."—Coleridge. Hacket was Bishop of Lichfield.

HAMMOND, HENRY (D.D.) The works of, with Life of the Author. 2nd edit. 4 vols. Folio, calf. London, 1684.

Dr. Johnson was extremely partial to the writings of Hammond, and sometimes gave them as a present to young men going into Orders. He also bought them for the library at Streatham.

HANMER, MEREDITH (D.D.) Ancient Ecclesiastical History of the first six hundred years after Christ. Folio, half-calf.
4th edit. London, 1636.

HELVICUS, CHRISTOPHER (D.D.) Historical Chronology, faithfully done into English according to the two best editions, viz., Francofurt and Oxford. Folio, half-calf.
London, 1687.

HEYLIN, PETER (D.D.) History of the Sabbath. 4to, calf.
London, 1636.

HEYLIN, PETER (D.D.) Miscellaneous Tracts. Folio, calf.
London, 1681.

He was also the author of "History of the Reformation in England"; "History of the Presbyterians"; and a "Life of Archbishop Laud." Heylyn was equally opposed to Popery and Puritanism.

HODY, HUMPHRY (D.D.) History of English Councils and Convocations, with an account of Ancient Laws. 8vo, half-calf.
London, 1701.

Bishop Marsh says "that among the writers on the Septuagint Version, no one has displayed either more knowledge of the subject, or more critical sagacity than Hody."

HOMILIES, THE BOOK OF. Folio. (Damaged.) 1815.
 HOOKER, RICHARD. Ecclesiastical Polity. Folio, calf.
 London, 1682.

Pope Clement VIII. said of this work, "there are in it such seeds of eternity, as will continue till the last fire shall devour all learning." He was the author of many tracts and sermons in addition to this, his great work. Hooker is generally called "the judicious."

HOTCHKIN, THOMAS. On the Imputation of Christ's Righteousness. 8vo, half-calf. London, 1675.
 HOWEL, LAURENCE (M.A.) Synopsis Canonum S.S. Apostolorum, &c. Folio, calf. London, 1708.

Howel was imprisoned for writing a pamphlet entitled "The Case of Schism in the Church of England truly stated," and died in Newgate in 1720. He was the author of "Desiderius," said to be the original of Patrick's Parable of the Pilgrim. It was first written in Spanish.

HUETII, P. D. Demonstratio Evangelica. (Title wanting.) 4to, calf. 1681.

INETT, JOHN (D.D.) Origines Anglicanæ; or, History of the English Church. Folio, calf. London, 1704.

Begins where Bp. Stillingfleet has ended his History of the British Church. The first volume, covers the period 401 to 1066, was printed in 1704.

INETT, JOHN (D.D.) Origines Anglicanæ; or, History of the English Church. (Volume 2.) Oxford, 1701.

The second volume covers the period 1066 to 1216. Freely quoted in "Wordsworth's Eccl. Biog."

KEITH, GEORGE. Disputes and Speeches between G. Keith and other Quakers. 4to, half-calf. London, 1696.

Keith was a fellow-student with Bishop Burnet. He turned Quaker, afterwards attempted to form a new sect of his own, and finally took orders and entered the Church of England.

KENNICOTT, BENJN. Vetus Testamentum Hebraicum. 2 vols.
(Vol. 1, 1776; Vol. 2, 1780.) Folio, calf.

Clarendon Press, Oxford, 1776.

"A correct edition of the Holy Scriptures, the result of the collation of nearly 600 ancient manuscripts—a work of great patience, industry and learning." £10,000 were subscribed to pay the expense. Kennicott whilst an undergraduate at Oxford published two dissertations,—on the "Tree of Life in Paradise," and on the "Oblations of Cain and Abel," for which the University presented him with his bachelor's degree, without fees, and before he had completed his terms.

KETTLEWELL, JOHN (B.D.) Collection of the Works of. 2 vols.
Folio, calf. London, 1719.

KETTLEWELL, JOHN (B.D.) Discourses of Christian Obedience.
2nd edit. 4to, calf. London, 1687.

LACTANTIUS, L. C. FIRMIANUS. Opera. (Title wanting.) 8vo, calf. 1659.

The works of this eloquent Father of the Church (who lived at the beginning of the 4th century) were published at Gottingen in 1736, but the best edition is that of Paris, 2 vols., 4to, 1748. "The style of Lactantius was formed upon the model of Cicero. He wrote with great purity and force, but he was more of a rhetorician than a theologian."

LAUD. A Relation of the Conference between Archbishop Laud and Mr. Fisher, the Jesuit, by command of King James.
4th edition, revised. Folio, half-calf. London, 1686.

The sixth edition is by far the best, as it contains Fisher's account of the Conference, with his notes.

LAUD. History of the Life and Death of William, Archbishop of Canterbury. Folio, half-calf. London, 1668.

— Another Copy.

LAUD. History of the Troubles and Tryal of the Most Reverend Father in God and Blessed Martyr, William Laud, by himself. Folio, calf. London, 1695.

MALDONATUS, JOHN S. J. Commentarii in Prophetas 4, viz.
Jeremias, &c. 4to, half-calf. Paris, 1610.

MALDONATUS, J. S. J. In Quatuor Evangelistas Commentarii.
2 vols. in 1. Engraved title. Folio, calf. Mogantiae, 1624.

Among all the commentators, few have so happily explained the literal sense of the Four Gospels as this learned Spanish Jesuit. Pope Gregory XIII. called him to Rome, to superintend the publication of the Septuagint. The earliest edition was that of Lugd. 1615.

MARLORATUS, AUGUSTINE. Explicatio Psalmos Davidis. Folio, calf. Geneva, 1585.

Educated in a monastery of Augustine Friars, he embraced Protestantism, and was ordained. Became pastor at Rouen; when that town was taken by the French he was seized and hanged, 1562. His commentaries are well known and much esteemed.

MARSDEN, THOS. N. True Priests; or, Sacraments Uncertain in the Church of Rome. Against Mr. Edward Goodall, of Prescot, Lancashire. 4to, calf. London, 1688.

MARTINI CHEMNICII. Examinis Concilii Tridentini. Folio,
calf. Geneva, 1614.

“Martin Chemnitz,” as he is frequently styled, was a Lutheran divine, and one of the early German Reformers. This work is considered a very masterly performance.

MEDE, JOSEPH. Works. 5 books in 1. Folio, calf. (No date.)

Mede is universally allowed to have led the way to a correct and rational interpretation of the prophecies of Scripture. “A sublime genius arose,” says Bishop Hurd, “in the beginning of the last century, and surprised the world with that great desideratum—a Key to the Revelation.”

MEDE, JOSEPH (B.D.) Works in five books. 2 vols. Folio, calf. London, 1663.

MORE, H. (D.D.) The Grand Mystery of Godliness. Folio, half-calf. London, 1660.

Most of his writings were devoted to the exposition of Christiano-Platonical philosophy. Enfield, in his "History of Philosophy," says, "More was strongly under the opinion, so common among his contemporaries, that the wisdom of the Hebrews had been transmitted to Pythagoras, and from him to Plato; and, consequently, that the true principles of divine philosophy were to be found in the writings of the Platonists; at the same time he was persuaded that the ancient cabalistic philosophy sprung from the same fountain, and therefore endeavoured to lay open the mystery of this philosophy by showing its agreement with the doctrines of Pythagoras and Plato, and pointing out the corruptions which had been introduced by the modern Cabalists The writings of this great man, though not without a tincture of mysticism, are eminently distinguished by profound erudition, an inventive genius, and a liberal spirit." His chief works were "Conjectura Cabalistica"; "A Key to the Revelation"; "An Apology for Descartes"; "The Immortality of the Soul"; and a number of philosophical poems. Born at Grantham, Lincolnshire, 1614.

During the Great Plague in 1665, Patrick was Rector of St. Paul's, Covent Garden, and throughout that terrible visitation he remained at his post and faithfully did his duty in ministering to the sick and dying. His "Parable of the Pilgrim" ranks as one of the best works of practical piety in the English language. It preceded Bunyan's similar work by fifteen years, and has been styled the "Pilgrim's Progress of the educated and reflective." No person has done more by his writings and example to raise up a spirit of devotion in the Church of England than Bishop Patrick. Born at Gainsboro', in Lincolnshire.

London, 1718.

This admirable work was translated into several languages, and passed through numerous editions. He published under the title of "Marmora Oxoniensia" an account of the Arundel Marbles, which gained him great reputation. He was also the author of "Directions to Churchwardens"; "The Life of Mahomet"; and "The Original Right of Tithes." This latter work is the source from which all modern writers upon the subject of Church Endowments have largely drawn their information.

The "Apologies" are writings in defence of Christianity, composed from the beginning of the 2nd to the 6th century, with the view of refuting the doctrines of heathenism and the false accusations against the early Christians, some of which were addressed to heathens, and others to emperors, the latter, in order to convince them of the injustice and folly of persecution. Amongst the many editions and translations, that of Reeves' is generally considered the least trustworthy.

SACHEVERELL. Tryal of Dr. Henry Sacheverell by Impeachment. Folio, calf. London, 1710.

His two famous sermons were preached—the one at the Assize at Derby, August 14th, 1709, and the other at St. Paul's, November 9th, in both of which he vehemently attacked Low Churchmen and Dissenters, and held up the Whig party, which was then in power, to ridicule. His trial occupied the public attention in an extraordinary manner.

SANDERSON, ROBERT (Bishop of Lincoln). Thirty-six Sermons, with Life of the Author. By Isaac Walton. 3rd edit. Folio, half-calf. London, 1686.

Originally a strict Calvinist, but from this he afterwards greatly relaxed. Dr. Hammond says of him, "He conceives all things deliberately, dwells upon them discreetly, discerns things that differ exactly, passeth his judgment rationally, and expresses it aptly, clearly, and honestly." King Charles I. said "that he carried his ears to hear other preachers, but his conscience to hear Mr. Sanderson."

The First Register Book,

IN THE

Parochial Chapel of Our Lady and St. Nicholas, Liverpool.

This Register Book is of parchment, neatly bound in rough calf, and consists of fifty-one leaves, of which twenty-five are blank. It commences January 5th, 1660,—the last entry being May 7th, 1673,—and contains Baptisms, Marriages, and Burials, which are separately entered in different parts of the volume. The entries have, for the most part, been regularly and continuously made. Fourteen of the leaves have been eaten through by mice to the depth of about an inch, with the result that several entries of Baptism are more or less obliterated. There are few entries of very general interest, and there are no notes of current events or of local scandal such as enliven the pages of many of our Parish Registers. The period covered by this Register is one of singular importance in English history—the revellings and excesses of the Restoration ; the widespread jubilation in favour of the “ Merrie Monarch ” ; the subsequent reaction against the extravagances of this worthless king ; the horrors of the Plague ; the far-reaching effects of the Great Fire of London ; the disturbed state of the people ; and the disgraces and misfortunes the nation suffered—great changes, political, religious, and moral were taking place, it is, therefore, somewhat disappointing to find no record or reflection of these events in the pages of this Register. The simple records, however, of the names of persons, places, trades, occupations, and of the numbers baptised, married and buried during each year, are in themselves valuable and interesting. They enable us to form some idea of the nature and extent of the changes which have since taken place, and they are a silent witness to the extraordinary growth and rapid development of this great seaport. From them we can institute a comparison between the Liverpool of two centuries ago and the Liverpool of to-day.

The highest number of baptisms in one year was 75, and the lowest 24, the average being for the twelve years, in round numbers, 54 per annum. The fees received from weddings would not add materially to the emoluments of the clergy, as during the whole period only 69 marriages are recorded. The year 1663 appears to have been the most favourable one, eleven couples venturing into Holy Matrimony, whilst in 1671 only two marriages are entered in the Register.

The death-rate does not appear to have been phenomenally high, despite the ravages of the Plague, which it would seem affected Liverpool but slightly. This was probably due to the timely precautions which were taken. In the Liverpool Records, under date Nov. 2nd, 1665, we find the following minute :—"At an assembly in the Common Hall it was resolved by the Liverpool Corporation that 'upon apprehension of the spreading Contagion of the Plague in divers neighbouring Townes in Cheshire the keeping of the Fair here on St. Martin's day next, the Eve, and other usual days after shall be absolutely forborne and forbidden.' " The burials show an average of 40 per annum, the greatest mortality being in 1667, when 69 persons were interred, and the lowest in 1672, the register recording eleven burials in that year.

Several names which still linger with us, and have become familiar as the designation of many of our streets, occur in this early volume, such as Tarleton, Preeson, Hardman, Lancelot, Parr, Woodside, Fazakerley, Bixteth, Hunter, Williamson, &c.

The variations in spelling confirm the well-known fact that however much names may change as to their spelling, the pronunciation often remains unchanged. The Old English pronunciation of the syllable er as ar is illustrated by the alternate use of names like Derby and Darby, Mertha and Martha, Mercer and and Marcer, Percifall and Parsefall, &c.

In the baptismal and burial entries, the following names have the distinctive prefix of "Mr.":—Pemberton, Fogg, Richman, Leeh, Sandiford, Higginson, Fazakerley, Johnson, Hesketh, Bickistath, Cleaton, Chapman, Seacome, Hunter, Williamson, Jerrom, Atherton, Formby, Allcock, Percefall, Lathom, Warring, Parre, Clark, Briers, Chanler, and Edward Moore of Bank Hall. Leonard Finkes and Lawrence Brownlow are described as "gentlemen," and Thomas Blackmore and Thomas Story as "aldermen." Captain Edward Tarleton, Doctor Richman, Balliffe Higginson, and Richard Garth, Esquire, also occur. Amongst the marriages, two names only have any distinctive prefix, those of Mr. William Squire and Mr. William Olliffe.

Few additional particulars are noted; the occupations being given in only occasional entries. There are seven instances of "seaman"; three of "marriner," "tailor," and "merchant"; two of "roper"; and "mason," "servant," "chyrurgeon," "barber," "shopkeeper," "minister," "sargent," and "draper," once each. In 1667 there is the burial of "a passenger intening for Ireland." In five instances the date of birth is given in addition to the date of baptism. Samwell, Sevall, Parnell, Darcus, and Fortune, are five instances of peculiar Christian names given to females; and Jotham, Hamlett, and Irasmus of those given to males. The following names of places are mentioned:—Toxtath Parke, Morden in Surrey, Dublin, Mossen, Ince Blundell, Hayle Wood, Hyton, Ince in Cheshire, Bromboro, Formbie, Salghall-Massey, Halle, Woulton, Kirkdall, Bebington, Tarbocke in Hyton, Geaton in Worrall, Goeborne, Weschester, Pilling, Renworth in Lancashire, Nether-Walton near Warinton, Dosset, Linne in Norfolk, Bornley in Lanc., Heasome in Prescott, and Measberry in Salopp.

The introduction of double Christian names is a subject which is worthy of more attention than has hitherto been bestowed upon it. In this Register there is not a single instance in which any person has more than one Christian name ; and from the evidence supplied by Parish Registers generally, it is unmistakeably apparent they did not become at all common until the commencement of the present century. Occasionally they are found during the last century, and isolated examples occur in the 17th century, and one early instance—probably the earliest—is recorded in the Register of a Yorkshire parish, under date 1592.

The Bishop's Transcripts have been of small service in filling in the gaps which age and dust and the ravages of mice have occasioned. No Transcripts are to be found for the years 1661, 1662, 1665, 1667, 1670, 1671, and 1672. For the following five years, 1663, 1664, 1666, 1668, and 1669 Transcripts exist, but unfortunately they are in a most ruinous and dilapidated condition—in some cases mere loose strips of parchment, mildewed and torn, and in many places eaten through with dust and decay, which render them, for purposes of comparison, almost worthless.

The value and importance of this Register Book cannot well be overstated, and its safe custody and preservation is a matter which vitally affects the interest of scores of Liverpool people. It is the only public document in existence for determining questions of inheritance, as from no other source can the records of the baptisms, marriages, and burials of their ancestors be obtained.

It may be worthy of note that previous to 1752 the legal and ecclesiastical year commenced on March 25th, instead of on January 1st, so that all entries before March 25th, 1752, are attributed to what we should now reckon as the preceding year. When the Calendar was corrected and the "old style" gave way to the new, eleven days were omitted—September 2nd being followed by September 14th. In many country parishes the "old style" lingered on for several years after the change was made. Old customs and practices proverbially die hard, and the people failing to understand the necessity for change, had their sentiments expressed in a popular ballad of the day—"Give us back our lost eleven days."

Briefs.

These were letters-patent, issued by the Sovereign, directing the collection of alms for the special objects named in them ; they were ordered to be publicly read in churches on some Sunday within two months after they had been received by the churchwardens. In the Book of Common Prayer there is a Rubric following the Nicene Creed which provides for the reading of notices—"Then shall the Curate declare unto the people what Holy Days, or Fasting Days are in the week following to be observed. And then also (if occasion be) shall notice be given of the Communion ; and Briefs, Citations and Excommunications read." The documents called "briefs," read at this place in the Service of the Church, generally contained a detailed statement, setting forth the need of help, and "pathetically penned as the occasion required, to move the people liberally upon so pious and charitable a work."* They were issued for building and repairing churches, for losses occasioned by fire, tempest, or pestilence, and for many other benevolent purposes, which are now provided for by insurance societies or public subscriptions. The system was one open to much abuse, and it is to be feared that the lion's share of the amounts collected found its way into the hands of agents who traded in briefs. Pepys, in his Diary, 1661, remarks : "The trade of briefs is come now to so constant a course every Sunday, that we resolve to give no more to them." To regulate some of the abuses which arose from the issuing of briefs a statute was passed in Queen Anne's reign, but it had little effect on the traffic. Another attempt was made to reform the system in 1821, but with so little success that they were abolished in 1829. The amounts collected were generally entered in the churchwardens' accounts, or in the Register. The following collections under the authority of "briefs" are entered in this Register Book :—

THE "OLD CHURCH," LIVERPOOL, 1893.
Univ Calif - Digitized by Microsoft®

The Old Church.

A brief reference to the “Old Church,” as it is familiarly known, may not be here out of place. The designation “old church” is of comparatively modern origin. It is first found in 1700, when the term is used to distinguish it from St. Peter’s, then in course of erection, which for a time was spoken of as the new church, and as such is frequently alluded to in the parish records; in the accounts for 1709 the following entries occur:—

For brushes for both churches	11	2
For work in the new church	2	4
For work in the old church	7	6

The epithet stuck to St. Nicholas’s, and it is probably better known to-day as the “Old Church” than it is by the name of the Saint in whose honour it is dedicated. Certainly if the double dedication—Our Lady and St. Nicholas—to which it is entitled is used, very few of the parishioners would know the church to which it referred; whereas every cabman in Liverpool would drive his fare without question with no other direction than “to the Old Church.”

No portion of the structure, as we now see it, can boast of any greater antiquity than 1775. The church stands on the site of an earlier building erected in the 14th century. This building—a small chapel-of-ease to the Parish Church at Walton—consisted of a nave with a tower at the West end, and until the beginning of the 18th century was the only church in Liverpool. An “out aisle” was added on the North side in 1697, and the Tower was capped with a Spire in 1746. In most of the early views of the old town it is thus represented, and in this condition it remained for about thirty years. A proposal to repair and enlarge the church did not meet with much favour; it was, however, eventually decided, after considerable discussion at several vestry meetings, to take down the nave and to rebuild it on a more extensive scale. As the result of this decision the present Nave and South aisle were erected in 1775, and five years later the “out-aisle” was pulled down and the present North aisle built in its place. This accounts, to some extent, for the irregularity in the construction, and the one-sided appearance the church presents when viewed from the interior. A rigid formality of composition would in all likelihood have been adopted had two aisles formed part of the original design. The old Tower (with its spire) was not interfered with, although there can be little doubt that the removal of the nave prejudicially affected its stability, and in some measure contributed to the catastrophe of 1810, when the Spire fell with such fatal results. This calamity forms one of the saddest chapters in the annals of Liverpool. The present tower and lantern were completed in 1815 from designs by Mr. Harrison, of Chester, who also made some alterations at the East end, and added the two canopied niches on either side of the East window.

From an architectural point of view, the Nave and Aisles are beneath criticism. Built at that benighted period in our history when Gothic architecture had sunk to its lowest level, it is almost impossible to conceive an ecclesiastical building of inferior design—unless it is the sister church of St. Peter. “Batty Langley” is unmistakably stamped on every stone, on every square foot of plaster, and on every yard of Roman cement. The aisle windows—in two rows, one above the other—must be called “pointed,” because they are neither square-headed nor round. The impost of the arch is omitted in every instance, the mullions are without any trace of moulding, and no portion of the stone-work is enriched with carving. There is no structural Chancel, and its flat roof of paint and plaster, pierced at intervals by octagonal skylights, is supported on columns of the Corinthian order, with cement capitals! To complete this unique building, a cumbrous gallery carried on cast-iron pillars runs round three sides of the interior. Sir Chas. Eastlake in his History of the Gothic Revival, says—“Gothic architecture has had its vicissitudes in this country. There was a time when its principles were universally recognised; there was a time when they were neglected or forgotten. But in the days of its lowest degradation, it may be questioned whether it would not have been better that the cause should have remained unespoused than have been sustained by such a champion as Batty Langley." And in this view all who gaze upon the Church of St. Nicholas will concur.

The one redeeming feature is the Tower, with its graceful open Lantern, which is equal to anything Liverpool can produce, and which in outline and proportion, may fairly challenge a comparison with some of the work of mediæval times. Unhappily, the external effect is much marred by the surrounding buildings which hem it in on three sides ; and the river-front, which until recently was exposed to full view, is now much obstructed by the Overhead Dock Railway, which helps still further to conceal its fine proportions. The illustration which is appended to this chapter renders a description unnecessary.

The Tower contains twelve bells, concerning which a tradition exists that they originally belonged to one of the Religious Houses in Ireland, and that they were brought to Liverpool at the Dissolution of the Monasteries in the time of Henry VIII. It is somewhat surprising that this belief should be so very generally entertained amongst Liverpool people, who could with very little inquiry discover that they were cast by Wm. Dobson, of Downham, Norfolk, in 1813, and that the first peal was rung on June 4th, 1814. There is, however, some foundation for the tradition, as we find that in the year 1628, four bells were brought from Drogheda, and were hung in the tower of the Chapel of Liverpool. After remaining in use for nearly a century they were, in 1724, sent to Bristol to be re-cast, and the number increased to six. It was these six bells which were ringing when the Spire collapsed. After the re-building of the tower in 1813, these bells were sent to the Norfolk foundry, and were in their turn re-cast, with the addition of six new ones. It is, therefore, very probable that the present set of bells contain some of the metal used in the four bells which originally came from Drogheda.

St. Nicholas' is one of the few churches in England which has a ring of twelve bells. It is much to be deplored that at the present time their condition is such that only eight of them can be rung with safety.

The following "Extracts" from the Vestry Books have reference to the bells:—

1724, April 15th. Ordered that two new bells be added to the present sett.

1724, Sep. 15th. The Churchwardens having taken down the old bells in order to send them to Bristol according to their contracts with Mr Rudhall for a new sett of Bells at the Old Church, but considering the charge of sending them and bringing the new ones from Bristol will be cheaper by sea than by land have caus'd this Vestry to be call'd in order to have their opinion thereon. It is now ordered that the Churchwardens may send the old bells by sea and bring the new ones too by sea from Bristol if they think proper, and insure the vallue, and the ffloor upon which the bells hang in the steeple being much decayed the Churchwardens may raise and amend the same if there shall be occasion.

A plain, unvarnished account of the fatal effects of the fall of the Spire is contained in the following "Extract" from the Minute Book of the Old Church Schools:—

"First Quarterly Meeting, April 5th, 1810. Present—Rev. H. Roughsedge, Rector, Mr. Henry Renshaw, Wm. Gibson, Esq., Mr. Bryan Blundell, and Thos. Knowles, Treasurer.

“Resolved—That Ann Bennett, a pupil in this School be appointed a Teacher of the girls in the room of the late Sarah Helsby,—who was unfortunately killed by the falling of the Spire of St. Nicholas’ Church, eleventh of February last, whilst in the act of conducting the girls into the South aisle of said Church to attend Divine service,—at the salary of two guineas for the present year.

“Resolved—That the Treasurer do pay to the parents of the late Sarah Helsby her full quarter’s salary due first instant, and that he express to them the good opinion the Committee entertain of her memory, founded on the excellent example she exhibited to the scholars under her tuition,—of modesty, attention, subordination and Christian duty,—virtues which the Committee desire may be constantly recommended to, and cultivated by, the whole School.

“The dreadful accident here alluded to happened when the girls of this school were entering by the South door into the church, being about twenty minutes past ten o’clock on the morning of Sunday, February 11th, 1810. Probably fifty were in the South aisle seating themselves on the benches there, under the direction of Sarah Helsby, teacher, when the Spire suddenly fell from its base upon the tower, and penetrating the roof over their heads, descended among them with a rapidity that prevented all possibility of escape; the consequence was, that seventeen of these children, with Sarah Helsby (and six or seven others of the congregation), were overwhelmed by the ruins and killed on the spot! Twenty-four more of the children were badly wounded, but were all happily restored to their friends through the assistance of the faculty, and the public medical institutions of the town. The boys had not entered the church, but were proceeding to the East door for that purpose, from which they were at the moment of the accident distant only a few yards.

“NAMES OF THE GIRLS KILLED, WITH THEIR AGES.—Sarah Helsby (14 $\frac{1}{2}$), Margreat Newport (11), Mary May (10), Cath. Pritchard (10), Betsy Williams (8), Mary Ann Parker (8), Mary Ashurst (8), Elizth Barker (9), Elizth Stevenson (10), Ellen Kelshaw (7), Elizth Griffiths (8), Elizth Prenton (6), died in the Infirmary; Sarah Elliott (10), Mary Place (8), Elizth Kaye (9), Ann Kaye (7), Mary Palmer (8), Elizth Palmer (9).

“The above list was furnished me by Mr. Jackson, master of the School, and agrees with another sent to me by Mr. John Cheetham, one of the Overseers of the Poor, to whom all the killed were delivered by the Coroner after his Inquest, which was taken in the Merchants’ Coffee House, in the churchyard.

“THOMAS KNOWLES.”

“Casual Occurrences at St. Nicholas’ Church, happen when they may.”

Under the above heading the following memoranda were made by the parish clerk in one of the cash books, and they give interesting information which is not to be found elsewhere.

1852, Feby. 16th. The Church, undergoing repairs and alterations, was entered by Thieves, who broke through the Vestry door, broke open almost every lock and drawer in the Vestry, tryed hard at the Iron Safe to get to the silver Plate, but the Iron Safe resisted them; the only thing missed on this occasion was one shilling, taken from Mr. Ashbrook, the Sexton’s drawer; the implement used on this occasion was a large screw-driver belonging to Mr. Baxendell, the joiner.

Feby. 17th. This day removed all the silver Plate, consisting of 2 large Flaggons, 2 silver Cups, 1 large silver Dish, 1 smaller silver Dish, 1 silver-gilt Dish, and 2 small silver Dishes, all these were deposited in a box at the Bank of England, under the care of Mr. Fletcher, and the key of the box being left in the custody of Mr. Edward Lovatt, the parish clerk. The next night Thieves came again and stole about 13s. of joiner’s tools belonging to Mr. Baxendell, the joiner, and the White Book belonging to the Baptistry for christening children (12 mos. imprisonment).

March 17th. Mr. Banner wrote a note for the key of the Plate Chest, and it was sent him accordingly.

April 6th. Mr. Banner, the Churchwarden, appropriated Pew No. 80 in St. Nicholas' Church, in the body of the church, to Mr. Lovatt, the parish clerk, and his family.

April 8th. Received from H. W. Banner, Esq., Churchwarden, eight new Surplices for the use of St. Nicholas' Church, the price being 50s. each.

April 11th. Church opened for Divine Service this day, being Easter Sunday, the choir appearing for the first time in Surplices, the Rector Campbell preached the first sermon from the new pulpit, text taken from 1 Corinth. 15 c. 55 & 56 v. The church was crowded to excess, a more beautiful service never was heard in any cathedral. The Rev. J. F. Amos, M.A., and the Rev. A. J. Tomlin, B.A., read the morning prayers, the Rector Campbell and the Rev. Mr. Welsh read at the Communion service, and Mr. Sudlow presided at the organ. The Rev. J. F. Amos, M.A., preached a most exelent (sic) sermon in the afternoon to a most splendid congregation.

April 23rd. Received a note this day from Mr. Churchwarden Banner instructing me to send the old silver Plate to Mr. Quick, and I did so according to his requisition.

May 30th. This being Whit Sunday, the Rev. Aug^s Campbell, Rector, brought the new silver-gilt Sacrament Plate in his carriage to St. Nicholas' Church, consisting of 1 large Dish, 1 Flaggon, 2 small Dis'ies, and 2 Cups in a box made on purpose.

Nov. A new Font presented by Robert Hutchinson, Esq., opposite the South door, the first child christened in it on the 22nd November, by Rev. Mr. Amos, Curate.

1853, July 30th. This day received 4 new surplices, 3 Vergers' Gowns from Mr. French, of Bolton.

Aug. 14th. Two new Vergers commenced acting in their new capacities, in their new robes of office.

January, 1853. A new East Window over the Communion Table, the gift of the Rev. Rector Campbell, erected Jany., 1853. Designed by Frank Howard, Esq.

A Memorial Window, the first from the East end, and South side of the body of the church, to the memory of the late John Wright, Esq., erected August, 1853. Designed by Frank Howard, Esq.

A new Memorial Window, the third from the East end, and South side of the body of the church, to the Furnivall family, erected November, 1853. Designed by Frank Howard, Esq.

1854, April. This Churchyard closed on the 18th April, 1854, by an Act of Parliament.

On Easter Tuesday, a Church Rate refused by the Parishioners in Vestry assembled, April 18th.

May 16th. Died, Mr. Edward Lovatt, 29 years Clerk of this church.

June 5th. Mr. John Ashbrook (Sexton) appointed Clerk and Sexton, assisted by Richard Edwards, late Mr. Lovatt's assistant.

October. A new velvet Cloth, two Lecterns for the Service Books, new white figured Damask linen Cloth, two Napkins, and two Maniples for use at the administration of Holy Communion, presented to the Church by Robert Hutchinson, Esq., Churchwarden.

The old Altar Cloth and the Font, which formerly stood in the Baptistry (now the Vestry) have been Loaned by consent of the Rector and Churchwardens to the Chapel of the Government Emigration Depôt at North Birkenhead—Rev. J. W. Welsh, Chaplain.

1855, January. A new stained-glass Window, the one nearest to the South-West entrance, was erected to the memory of the late Richard Benson Blundell-Hollinshead-Blundell, Esq., by his Widow. It was designed and executed by William Wailes, Esq., of Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

[It appears from the Cash Book that the Weekly Offertory was commenced in 1854.]

Extracts from the Minute Book of the Commissioners for regulating the Night Watch.

1748, Nov. 3rd. Ordered that 240 Tokens made of Brass or Copper be forthwith made with the Liver on one side, for the use of the Watchmen.

Nov. 10th. Ordered that the Watchmen shall be at their several Stations before the Tenth hour of the evening, and when the clock has struck they are to go their several rounds, and continue to do so at the beginning of every hour, till six o'clock in the morning, and when they go from duty to bring their staves to the Watch-house, and receive a ticket for the night's duty from one of the constables or sub-bailiffs. As they go their rounds they are to call the hour of the night, and strike the doors as they pass by; but if any families are disturbed by it on speaking to the Watchman may be omitted.

When sickness is in any family, on notice given, the Watchman to be very careful not to give disturbance.

As a Watchman is to examine Night-Walkers, that is persons strolling about at unreasonable hours, and to bring such persons, as behave either in a disorderly manner, or refuse to give a good account of themselves, to the Watch-house; so on the other hand such Watchman must be careful on his part not to occasion any public disturbance. Any Watchman getting drunk on duty will be absolutely discharged.

Jan. 12th. Alderman Cunliffe fined 5/- for not sweeping before his Wall in Hanover Street.

Mr. John Molyneux fined 5/- for not sweeping before his Warehouse in School Lane.

April 4th, 1754. Ordered that Mr. Thomas Beavans do sweep from opposite Mr. Whalley's house in Castle Street, the Talbot in Water Street, the Fleece in Dale Street, and the North side of the Shambles in High Street, and he be allowed Twenty Shillings out of the money allowed by the Corporation.

June 2nd, 1755. Ordered that the proprietor of the pot-house at the bottom of Lord Street have notice that the Commissioners expect that they pay one pound seven shillings and four pence, being half of the expense of removing from off the ground in Frogg Lane opposite the said pot-house.

1738, April 4.	It being represented to this Vestry that the keeping of a sufficient Watch in the night throughout the the town would be a meanes to prevent many mischiefs, thefts and robberies and greatly tend to the preservation of the lives and properties of the parishioners and inhabitants of this parish and that by custom and usage for time imemorall a Watch hath been kept every night throughout the year and every housekeeper hath been obliged to watch in turn and by house row when sumond by proper officers or to find and provide or pay for a sufficient watchman in his stead, and that the town is become so very large and extensive and the number of houses and inhabitants in this town of late years so much increased that one Watch is not sufficient for the whole town. It is therefore now agreed and assented to and ordered and directed that the town shall be divided into two separate districts that is to say from the Water Street and Dale Street including both sides of the said streets Northwards shall be the one district and be called the North District, and that from those streets Southward shall be the other district and be call'd the South District.

1746. Ordered that a Peal be rung at the Old Church every Sunday both morning and afternoon at the time of going into Church and that the Ringers shall have liberty to sit in the seat next to the Bell-house door, and that the Sexton take care to secure the same for them.

1811, April 16. (Vestry.) Your Com^{te} allude to a Fine of £4320 imposed upon the parish under the powers of the Militia Act for not doing that which it was out of the power of the officers of the parish to do, viz., the raising of 108 men in a short and limited period which was attempted by ballot but failed in consequence of which a fine of £40 per man has been inflicted. Resolved to increase the Poor Rate 3^d for the purpose. Poor Rate 3/ in the pound.

1816. Resolved that no public or private dinners (Visitation dinners not excepted) be had at the expense of the parish.

1825, March 10. Resolved that the Bill for making a Rail Road from Liverpool to Manchester and the report of the sub-committee deputed to consider and report on the Bill were read and considerable discussion took place on the subject when Chas. Lawrence, Esq., the Chairman of the Rail Road Com^{tee} undertook that a clause shall be inserted in the Bill to prevent the locomotive engines being brought within the liberties of the parish.

1846, May 5. Mr Charles Hart elected Vestry Clerk.

1850. Resolved that the Window Tax is unjust in principle and peculiarly oppressive to the inhabitants of Liverpool and other large towns. That the sanitary regulations lately enforced are in some cases nugatory and in all cases inconsistent with a tax on light and air.

1851. Resolved that the Churchwardens be authorized to expend £200 out of the Church Rate for repewing the Church of St. Nicholas.

1853. Paid for Carved Oak Pulpit and Staircase at St. Nicholas' Church, £70; Prayer Desk, £25; Stall Work, £155; Communion Rails, £25; Eight Brass Collecting Plates, £12 12s.

1859, Nov. 29. Mr Henry Joseph Hagger elected Vestry Clerk.

The Presentation Portrait—Jubilee of the Select Vestry.

At the General Meeting of the Select Vestry, held in the Board Room of the Parish Offices, Brownlow Hill, on Tuesday, July 4th, 1893,

The Chairman having formally presented to the Select Vestry the Portrait of himself recently placed in the Board Room, It was moved by Mr. Churchwarden Peet, and seconded by Mr. Woodcock, That the Select Vestry accept with pleasure and satisfaction the Portrait now presented to them, and they beg to congratulate their Chairman upon the evidence it affords of the esteem in which he is held, no less by the parishioners at large, than by his colleagues upon the Board.

It was further resolved that the Vestry Clerk be instructed to place in the Minute Book of the Board's proceedings a statement of the circumstances under which the Portrait was painted and placed in its present position. (As follows.)

“The 50th anniversary of the passing of the Act constituting the Select Vestry of the Parish having been recognised as a fitting occasion for presenting to the Chairman of the Board, the Rev. Canon Stewart, M.A., Rector of Liverpool, some mark of the esteem in which he is held by those with whom he has been associated for the last twenty years, it was decided that the placing in the Board Room of a life-size Portrait of himself, forming a companion picture to those of his two immediate predecessors (the Venerable Archdeacon Brooks and the Reverend Augustus Campbell), would give appropriate and gratifying expression to this feeling.

“In consequence of some of the Rector's friends, clerical and lay, having expressed a desire to take part in this presentation, a general subscription list was opened; and a Committee, of which the Bishop of Liverpool and the Mayor of Liverpool were members, and of which Mr. Churchwarden Peet was the Honorary Secretary, was appointed to make the necessary arrangements.

“The artist selected by the Committee was Mr. R. E. Morrison, of Liverpool, and the commission having been entrusted to him, the Portrait, when finished, was placed in the Board Room, Brownlow Hill.

“The formal presentation took place at a meeting of the Subscribers, held in the Board Room upon the twenty-sixth day of June, 1893, and presided over by Mr. John Brancker, chairman of the Mersey Docks and Harbour Board; the Lord Mayor, who had intended to have been present, having been prevented from attending. At the request of the chairman, the Lord Bishop of Liverpool (the Right Reverend J. C. Ryle, D.D.) unveiled the Portrait, and presented it, together with a list of the subscribers (183 in number), to the Rector, in a highly complimentary speech. The Rector responded in suitable terms.”

Architectural and Ecclesiological NOTES ON HOLBEACH CHURCH, BY HENRY PEET.

In wrappers, tastefully printed, with Five Autotype Illustrations, various Wood Engravings, Ground Plan, Elevations, &c.

PRESS OPINIONS.

"Mr. PEET has conferred a real benefit on Lincolnshire Ecclesiology by the publication of his Paper on the History and Architecture of Holbeach Church. It is an excellent example of the local topographical works which are slowly but steadily supplying the want of a general County History. . . . Mr. PEET is well qualified for his self imposed task, not only by an ardent admiration for the church of his native town, but also by a scientific acquaintance with ecclesiastical architecture, and a reverent appreciation of the sacred character of the edifice. Not the attractiveness only, but the usefulness of the little brochure is increased by the woodcuts of portions of the building, and the autotype illustrations of the exterior and interior, prepared from photographs taken specially for the purpose, with which it is so richly furnished. Every detail of the architecture is so faithfully reproduced in the autotypes that they will reward minute inspection even with a magnifying glass, as pages in a lesson book of architecture."—Lincolnshire Notes and Queries.

"This is a praiseworthy pamphlet, and a good memorial of a noble church. The five autotypes of the exterior, interior, and details of the building are exceptionally good; the other illustrations are from Mr. PEET's pencil. The "Notes" are written in a reverent and able manner. This pamphlet is for the most part good so far as it goes, and Mr. PEET shows that he has qualifications for a more ambitious effort."—The Antiquary.

"Mr. PEET has executed his work with characteristic thoroughness, and has furnished a description of the fine old church which has long been called for but never hitherto produced. He has taken up the subject in his own way, has industriously collected all the information available, has incorporated splendid photographs of the interior and exterior of the church, and effective drawings of particular features of interest; and has, in fact, in this work exhibited a knowledge of archaeology, a persistent industry in pursuing investigation, and a faculty for arranging dry facts and presenting them in an interesting form, which do him credit. Archaeologists and Holbeachians will prize these valuable" Notes on Holbeach Church.—Spalding Free Press.

"A work that should certainly be owned by all who take an interest in the South Lincolnshire churches."—W. E. FOSTER, F.S.A., Esq., writing in Notes and Queries.

"Mr. PEET's illustrations cannot fail to delight. It is quite correct to say 'they are incomparably the most complete and artistic which have yet been made of this venerable edifice.' . . . Holbeach is fortunate in securing the services of a pen so capable as that of Mr. PEET."—Mercury.
