SOME MARRIAGES

FROM THE

WHITTLESEY

PARISH REGISTERS.

Reprinted from "Fenland Notes and Queries."

In 1880 a leaf from the Registers of St. Mary's Church, Whittlesey, in the Isle of Ely, Cambridgeshire, was found by Mr. James Coleman, a Tottenham bookseller, amongst a bundle of parchments purchased by him in the ordinary course of his business. This leaf contained upwards of two hundred entries of Marriages solemnized in St. Mary's Church, between the years 1662 and 1672. Mr. Coleman very properly returned the original to the then Vicar of Whittlesey, and issued to a select number of subscribers, a small octavo pamphlet of eight pages, containing copies of these Marriage Registers. This pamphlet, a copy of which is preserved in the College of Arms, is now out of print, and very difficult to procure, but this is not to be regretted, as I find about one-third of the entries have been inaccurately transcribed. It is quite certain that the person employed by Mr. Coleman to copy the Register had a most imperfect acquaintance with the handwriting of the period, and very little experience generally in deciphering parochial records. The errors are not only numerous but in many places grotesque. By the courtesy of the Vicar of Whittlesey St. Mary's (Rev. Colin E. B. Bell, M.A.) I have been permitted to examine the original Register, in order that a more reliable copy may be printed. Every entry in the following transcript has been carefully collated. In a few instances where the parchment is worn, and in one or two places where the names have been carelessly written, I have furnished, in brackets, an alternate rendering, and have indicated in foot-notes, information gleaned from other parts of the Registers and from outside sources, which may give enlightenment on doubtful entries. In all cases of uncertainty I have added a note of interrogation.

From an examination of the Whittlesey Parish Registers I find that all those anterior to 1690 (with the exception of one thin folio volume) are in a most deplorable state, and have suffered sadly not only from neglect, but it is to be feared from wilful ill-usage by some irresponsible meddler. It would also appear that much of this wanton destruction has occurred within comparatively recent times, as in 1868 these Registers were examined by the Rev. W. D. Sweeting, M.A., (the editor of Fenland Notes and Queries), and his report, embodied in his Parish Churches in the Neighbourhood of Peterborough, is worthy of reproduction. In this delightful book, every page of which contains a rich mine of antiquarian lore, he writes on page 99 :—"The oldest Register is dated 1560. For upwards of 100 years the Registers are unbound ; the detached leaves are much worn, and in most cases illegible. Very few pages are quite perfect. In some cases the damage seems to have been wilful, for the page dated 1611 is torn from top to bottom, and this has been done since 1827 for a MS. note by Edward Ground, the churchwarden of that date, is itself torn in half, and one half lost. The Baptisms from 1560 to 1594 are tolerably regular, but only a few entries can be made out. About 1562 the entries ceased to be made in Latin. The first legible Burial Register is 1590, after which it is continuous, except that a leaf of date 1606 is lost, and that there is only a small fragment between the dates 1654—64."

Bad as their condition was 30 years ago, it is infinitely worse to-day.* These early Registers now consist of about 36 loose fragments of portions of the parchment leaves—gall-stained, mildewed, moth-eaten—and almost wholly undecipherable. Not one page is perfect. There is a fragment containing Baptisms from 1560 to 1590; three torn leaves, badly damp-stained, on which can faintly be traced entries of Marriages in the years 1654 and 1655; and a portion of a leaf containing a few Marriages, in what appears to be the year 1679. The remaining 31 torn and decayed fragments have evidently been the Burial Register, commencing in 1563 and extending, with numerous gaps, to 1668. It would appear that at some period an attempt has been made to read the Registers by the indefensible practice of applying a chemical substance to the ink, in order to resuscitate it, with the result that whole pages have been completely obliterated.

From this wreckage I have transcribed such of the Marriage entries as can be deciphered, and also all those Marriages which appear in the thin folio volume. These latter are for the years 1683, 1688, 1689, 1690, 1691, 1692, 1693 and 1694.

* It was mainly through Mr. John Lefevre, the present Parish Clerk of St. Mary's, that my interest in these Registers was awakened. He has been a most careful custodian, as was his father, who held the office before him.

ST. MARY'S IN WITTLESEA 1683.

The following are copies of all the Marriage Registers contained in the long thin folio Register Book (21in. by 8½in.). Many leaves are missing, several are torn across, with only one half of the leaf remaining, and others are detached from the binding, lying quite loose. At the present time this book consists of 18 leaves of paper, bound in leather. It is in a fragile condition and requires careful handling. The volume also contains Registers of Baptisms, 1683 to 1694, and of Burials, 1683 to 1686.

MARRIAGES DURING THE COMMONWEALTH.

The following 43 Registers of Marriages, contracted before a Justice of the Peace during the Commonwealth, are contained on three loose parchment leaves, much worn and defaced. The writing is almost obliterated, and many of the names have only been deciphered after long and patient scrutiny. There are a few entries of which not a single word can be read, and in several others the writing is much defaced, it is therefore possible that a name here and there may, upon further investigation, prove to be incorrectly transcribed :—

Example of form used, set out at length :

April 23, 1655. Daniell Durbooe and Ellena Beehague of Thorney pish were married before Francis Underwood, Esq., one of the Justices of the Peace for this Isle, in the presence of Peter Beehague father of the saide Ellena, William Head and others, y^e contract for marriage being first published on three severall Lordes dayes in and before the open congregation accordinge to the direction of the Law, in and for that case onely made and provided.

The officiating Justice, with two exceptions, was Francis Underwood.

- Oct.....1654. Richard.....and Elizabeth Wright, in p'sence of William Whitmore.
- Oct.....1654. Thomas Hard.....and.....Plowright, both of this pish, in p'sence of John Laxon and Ralph Searle.
