CLOSING EXERCISES OF THE COLLEGE.

Commencement of the Atlanta Medical College Last Night.

Those of the Southern Medical College at DeGiv's Opera House Tonight—Honors and Diplomas.

Tonight the graduating exercises of the Southern Medical college will be held at DeGiv's opera house and diplomas will be awarded the successful graduates.

LAST NIGHT'S BANQUET.

Last night the annual banquet of the Southern Medical society, complimentary to the faculty of the Southern Medical college was given in the breakfast room of the Kimball house.

The spread was arranged in a very artistic manner by Mr. Porter, of the Kimball, who gave it his personal attention, and saw that his guests lacked for nothing.

After the menu had been served Dr. D. H. Perry, of Florida, in a few appropriate words, introduced Dr. W. T. Gunter as the toast master of the occasion.

Dr. Gunter filled the place of toast master with credit to himself and his alma mater and had something graceful to say of each speaker.

Dr. Thomas S. Powell, president of the faculty, responded to the first toast, "The New Southern Medical College," and the applause that greeted his remarks was an eloquent testimonial to his ability as a speaker and his kindness as a precursor.

Dr. W. F. Nicolson, dean of the college, responded to the toast, "Modern Surgery," beneath which on the program appeared this quotation:

"Behold this ruin! 'Twas a skull once of ethereal spirits full."

The doctor said it was enough to break any man up to find his name signed to such words as, "Behold this ruin," and then the rest of this quotation. Continuing he made a very bright and interesting speech.

Dr. J. McF. Gaston, in responding to the toast, "Surgery, Past and Present," recalled some interesting reminiscences and paid a high compliment to the graduates by saying that they were better posted on medicine than the professors were at the time of his graduation, long years ago.

"Quackery" was the subject on which Dr. Charles S. Webb made some bright and witty remarks.

Dr. Floyd W. McKee made a most entertaining speech on "The Young Physician." In the absence of Dr. George T. Brown, Dr. J. Mac Dismid made a few remarks in behalf of the student.

Rev. A. R. Holderby made a very brief speech which was heartily applauded on account of its lefty sentiment.

Dr. J. McF. Gaston, Jr. responded to the toast "The class of '98." Mr. T. J. McArthur responded for "The class of '94." Mr. Hamilton Douglas made a plea in behalf of the law department and Dr. L. D. Carpenter gave some good advice to the doctors on the importance of keeping an eye on the dentists.

Mr. Alex W. Bealer and Mr. Lucien L. Knight responded for the press.

Mr. Knight's speech, although the last on the program, was the brightest and most eloquent of the evening, as it was a series of artistic word paintings delivered in a most graceful and captivating manner.

After the reading of the secretary's report by Dr. Hall, the banquet, which had been a most pleasant one, came to an end.

The Atlanta College Exercises.

The graduating exercises of the Atlanta Medical College occurred last night at DeGiv's opera house.

Rev. Dr. Morrison opened the exercises with prayer, after which Dr. W. S. Kendrick, the proctor, read his report.

The degrees were conferred upon the graduates by Col. N. J. Hammond.

The address of the occasion was delivered by Mr. Ben J. Conyers. It was a strong, able and eloquent speech, as Mr. Conyers is one of the brainiest young men at the Georgia bar of today.

Dr. J. M. Thomas, of Atlanta, delivered the valedictory address, one full of brightness and eloquence and originality. Judge W. B. Hammond delivered the prize—the first to Dr. W. M. Mangum, of Alabama, the second to Dr. J. L. Campbell, of Georgia, and the third to Dr. N. W. Gable, of Georgia.

Honorable mention was made of Dr. W. H. Bryan, Dr. J. E. Murray, Dr. W. D. Hicks, Dr. G. L. Alexander, Dr. J. C. Hall and Dr. J. C. Hooten.

This old institution of learning never sent out a better class of graduates than those receiving their diplomas last night.

JUDGE HAMMOND'S REMARKS.

In delivering the prizes at the graduating exercises of the Atlanta Medical college last night, Judge W. B. Hammond said:

You are about to enter upon a professional life. That may mean a great deal, or it may mean little, according to the conception you have formed of what that life should be. One who properly appreciates a profession does not regard it simply as the means of obtaining a livelihood.

...but in a sick and confidential character. Thus he is able to see that there are things in life which interest him more than questions of mere material progress and personal aggrandizement, and he learns to give an affirmative answer to the question of the great teacher:

"Is not the life more than meat, and the body, than raiment?"

The material development of the resources of a great nation is a great thing, and the acquirement of personal independence and wealth is an object of laudable ambition. We ought not to neglect the advice given by Burns to his young friend:

To catch some fortune's golden smile
Assiduous wait upon her,
And gather gear by every wile
That's justified by honor.

But I assert that one of the most alarming evils of the times in which we live, is the over emphasis in the thought of our people, which is being placed upon questions of material development and personal aggrandizement, and I believe that one of the best correctives of this evil is to be found in the life, the thought, the character, the influence of the men who adopt and truly represent the learned professions.

Young gentlemen, may this be your inspiration and your ambition. Do not neglect yourselves or those who may be dependent on you.

Do not forget your state and your country. But above all, do not neglect the higher demands of your profession, because in that you will find the means of best serving yourselves, your home, your state and your country.

I now have the pleasure of delivering the prizes which have been awarded for the excellence which has been attained by three of your class. Take these golden medals and wear them proudly, and may they be to each of you not only a reminder that you have done well in your college career, but a stimulus to much greater excellence in your active professional life.

STOPPED THE BUILDING.

Because he Thinks it is Trespassing on a Street.

Mr. John Parish, who lives near the Wallace street school, and who is building a house on West Third street, between Tumlin and South streets, is about to engage in an interesting legal difficulty with the city.

Yesterday Councilman Rensou discovered that Mr. Parish was building the house, and after investigating the matter decided that the house was on a portion of the street, and asked the police to have the erection of it stopped until the matter could be investigated. Mr. Parish was notified.

He says he purchased the land from Mr. S. T. Bryan and will use the city for damages if they do not let him continue building.

Mr. Birney has made a reputation for himself in Atlanta of which any young attorney should be proud, and his many friends will regret to see him leave.

"THOUGHTS."

Welcome visitors fair and bright
You fill my life with radiant light
O' voices sweet, O' visions rare
Welcome to you from everywhere.

Sweet thoughts wake with morn's glad light
I hear ye off in the sigh of the night
Again ye are here in the eve's calm still
Or ye speak to me in a song bird's trill.

What grace and beauty your forms adorn,
What sad, tender faces, what eyes of morn!
Some speak with voices mournful and sweet,
Some with the gladness of sunshine greet.

You resemble a flight of melodious birds,
For ere in fancy I can catch your words—
Or tune my voice to the note you sing—
You are gone! I hear but the sound of a wing.

The $5 Rate for All Diseases Will Be Continued

DURING MONTH OF MARCH,

And Those Desiring to Avail Themselves of It

Should Do So Now, as Those Placing Themselves Under Treatment Under These Conditions Are to Be Treated Until They Are Cured at the Rate of $5 a Month,

WITH MEDICINE FREE.

When Drs. Copeland, Porter and Milholland, in response to numerous appeals, personal and by letter, agreed to extend their very liberal offer of $5 a month for treatment and medicines for all diseases until cured, they fixed the limit of time of the offer as March 1st, but this was only at the request of a few.

Recognizing this fact, Drs. Copeland, Porter and Milholland made exceptions where the reasons were so good, and where it was shown that injustice would be done. But they considered that making these exceptions in individual cases was unfair to the people at large, and they decided that, in justice to all, the rate must be extended to all equally.

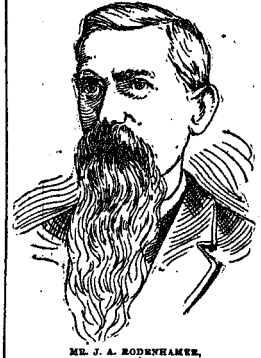

Therefore, during this present month of March, and up until April 1, 1893, the rate of $5 per month for all diseases—medicines furnished free of charge—will be continued by them.

Let there be no mistake about this offer: Drs. Copeland, Porter and Milholland will treat all patients applying during the month of March for the sum of $5 a month for each month's treatment until cured, medicines furnished free. If your case is a curable one and you put yourself under their treatment during this month, the total charge for consultation, advice, examination, medicines, correspondence and everything needed will be but $5 each month. This offer applies to old as well as new patients, and to persons treated by mail. APPLIES TO EVERYBODY AND ALL CURABLE DISEASES.

AN ATLANTA MAN

Tells How His Neglected Catarrh Was Cured and He Was Restored to Health.

Mr. J. A. Rodenhamer, is very well and favorably known, and lives at 377 Fraser street, this city. Mr. Rodenhamer has been recently cured of a very serious and distressing disease, and he naturally feels grateful. This feeling finds vent in a desire to have all who may be suffering to know where he found aid. He says: "I was in a most terrible condition when I applied to Drs. Copeland, Porter and Milholland to see if they could find me relief. I had been suffering for a long time from a most aggravated attack of catarrh. Last winter I began taking bad, heavy colds that would settle in my head and on my chest. I would have the most severe and aggravating pains in my head and was continually suffering from a sense of fullness and heaviness there. I had a bad discharge from my nostrils, and my head was at times much stopped up.

MR. J. A. RODENHAMER, 377 Fraser Street.

"A severe wrenching cough settled on me and I was much troubled with sharp, shooting pains through my chest and under my shoulder blades. This finally brought on catarrh of the head and throat.

"I neglected this until the disease worked its way down into my stomach, and from this arose complications which seriously threatened my life. I suffered all of the minor phases of the disease, and my stomach became so deranged as to give me serious trouble. I suffered much from a feeling of apprehension and fullness after eating, even lightly, and was at times in much misery. My breath was so short even the slightest exertion would exhaust me.

"Palpitation and fluttering of the heart would follow the slightest exertion, and pains and feelings of oppression constantly troubled me.

"In my search for relief I found and consulted Drs. Copeland, Porter and Milholland.

"They knew what they were talking about, as they have now proved. I placed myself under their care and they have cured me. I want to make this statement for the benefit of others who may be suffering as I was and not know where to apply for relief."

THE SOUTHERN MEDICAL.

ITS COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES LAST NIGHT.

THIRTY-SEVEN YOUNG M. D.'S GRADUATE.

Those Who Won the Honors of the Large Class.

Medals Awarded—Recommendations of the Dean's Report—The Interesting Exercises in Detail.

Last night there was a large audience at DeGrove's opera house, gathered there to enjoy the graduating exercises of the Southern Medical College.

The members of the faculty, Dr. T. S. Powell, the president, Dr. W. P. Nicolson, the dean, Dr. J. McF. Gaston, Dr. G. G. Roy, Dr. L. D. Carpenter, of the dental department, and Rev. A. R. Holderby, the chaplain, occupied prominent places on the stage with the members of the graduating class.

The Southern Medical college is now in its fifteenth year, and from its three departments, pharmaceutical, dental and legal, outside the regular medical department it has sent many good men into the state prepared for skillful work in their several professions.

The exercises were opened last night with prayer from Chaplain Holderby.

Dr. Nicolson, dean of the college, made his report to the board of trustees, in which he called attention to the new building that has recently been completed. He spoke of the successful work of the past year, during which time the attendance on the lectures has very perceptibly increased.

He recommended three courses of six months each and said the Southern had co-operated with other colleges to establish an association comprising the schools of this section with these uniform requirements, but as yet the effort had been unsuccessful.

Thirty-seven graduates were then presented with their diplomas.

They were as follows: George O. Allen, Ga.; Harry M. Clarke, Ga.; William B. Brown, Ga.; Alza B. Claughton, Ala.; John R. S. Carr, Ga.; Thomas Z. Clower, Ga.; James D. Creamer, Ala.; Colonel W. Corbett, Ga.; Frank L. Dennis, Ga.; Joseph Corbett, Ga.; George A. Dennis, Ala.; Charles F. Fickling, Ga.; Vatia D. Gay, Ala.; Jesse O. Gray, Ala.; William O. Hancock, Ga.; Waymon T. Gunter, Ga.; Joseph B. Hunter, Ala.; Thomas Hall, Georgia; James W. Long, Florida; Ambrose W. Martin, Georgia; John T. Longino, jr., Georgia; Joseph L. Murdock, Ga.; Charles F. Maddox, Georgia; James E. Overstreet, Georgia; Reuben H. Poole, Georgia; David H. Perry, Florida; Lyman U. Rantz, Georgia; George R. Plummer, Florida; Luke Robinson, Georgia; George Sharpe, Alabama; James A. Sewell, Georgia; Andrew Temples, Georgia; John R. Shannon, Georgia; John W. Watts, Florida; Carl C. Wilson, jr., Georgia; George T. Williamson, Georgia.

Eight graduates from the dental department were as follows: C. J. Alvis, R. A. Caswell, Henry E. Carpenter, I. L. Dodge, E. C. Smith, W. R. Tyler, W. H. Treadwell, C. G. White.

President Powell conferred the degrees upon the graduates in a short but very appropriate address.

Dr. John R. Shannon, the valedictorian, delighted his audience with his address, which was often interrupted by applause.

Dr. R. A. Caswell delivered the valedictory for the dental department, and a beautiful address it was.

The first honor in the medical department was between Dr. J. McF. Gaston, jr., Dr. D. H. Perry and Dr. F. L. Dennis, each of whom received a gold medal.

The second honor medal was awarded to Dr. William C. Hancock, and the third to Dr. George R. Plummer.

Dr. F. L. Dennis won the Crichton medal, and then the medals in the dental department were awarded, the first to Dr. W. R. Tyler, the second to Dr. E. C. Smith.

The medal offered by Dr. Thomas Crenshaw was won by Dr. E. C. Smith, the one offered by Dr. McRae was won by Mr. Bryan, and the one offered by Dr. Brown was won by Mr. George Tignor, and the Jewett medal was won by Mr. S. A. King.

After the prizes were delivered the exercises came to an end.
