(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
EMORY COLLEGE, Oxford, Ga., June 12.—Five members of the senior class won medals this commencement. Pictures of them accompany this.
Mr. J. Van Hodges, of St. Mark, Ga., entered college as a freshman, and has made a phenomenal record in mathematics during his stay here. He was awarded the mathematics medal here Wednesday morning.
Robert Lemuel Wiggins, of Jakin, was awarded the Boynton essay medal. This medal is given for the best essay written by any member of the junior and senior classes and is generally conceded to be the highest medal awarded in the English department. Mr. Wiggins is also a cum laude graduate and receives an A. B. degree. He is a member of A. T. O. fraternity.

For excellence in biology, a prize of $20 offered by Dr. W. R. Foote, of the North Georgia conference, was awarded Robert H. Gantt, of Macon, Ga. Besides making a perfect record on the term's work in biology, he did a good deal of extra work. He was also on the honor roll senior year. Mr. Gantt is a member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity and Phi Gamma Delta society and takes a Ph. B. degree.
William Nathaniel Banks, of Grantville, Ga., graduated with magna cum laude. Since Mr. Banks has been in college he has won two medals, being awarded last year the junior physics medal offered by

TRAIN KILLS BOY IN PRESENCE OF HIS FATHER

HENRY GRADY HANCOCK MAN-
GLED BY FREIGHT CARS NEAR THE FORSYTH ST. BRIDGE
YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

With his father looking on but powerless to lend assistance Henry Grady Hancock, aged 12 years of 5 Jennings street, was yesterday afternoon crushed to death beneath the wheels of a freight car. The accident occurred between 5 and 6 o'clock in the railroad yards near the Forsyth street bridge.

There are many people who have had their dear ones taken from them, but few are called upon to stand by and witness such a tragedy as that which transpired yesterday afternoon. Laughing and talking of things in general young Hancock and his father wended their way homeward, over the railroad tracks in the yard. Without thought of danger and little knowing that death was even then stalking by their sides and between them, the two continued on.

A short distance from the Forsyth street bridge were five freight cars standing upon a siding. Upon this track the father and son were walking but just before the string of cars were reached the father left the track. He was just in time for in another moment switch engine No. 7, of the Atlanta and West Point railroad, in charge of Engineer J. W. Wade, pushed another line of cars into those standing upon the track and in the twinkling of an eye young Henry Grady was a crushed heap beneath the cars. The train was in charge of Conductor W. T. Hamilton, of 190 Oakland avenue. The engineer lived at 131 Gilmer street.

The son was an employe of the Capital City Chair company and his father worked at the gas plant nearby.

Together they had walked home many an afternoon without a thought that one of them was so soon to be taken from the other in so ruthless a fashion.

Neither the conductor nor the engineer is said to have witnessed the accident, and naturally both regretted exceedingly that such a thing should have occurred.

The remains of the boy were taken to the undertaking establishment of W. H. Meyer & Co., and prepared for burial. There was no inquest held over the body as there was no doubt as to how the youth came to his death.

HEPHZIBAH HIGH SCHOOL HAS CLOSING EXERCISES

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
HEPHZIBAH, Ga., June 12.—Today witnessed the closing exercises for the spring term of the Hephzibah High school which, under the management of Professor J. H. Sanford and his able assistant, has attained a degree of popularity and prosperity seldom if ever equalled by any school in the state. The exercises at this commencement have been unusually good, measuring fully up to any that have ever been held here. Every one did the part assigned them with spirit and applause followed applause at the close of quite a number of the attractions. The music under direction of Miss Eva Howell was very fine. Rev. E. J. Forrester, D.D., of Washington, Ga., delivered the commencement sermon Sunday morning. The sermon was very fine and was listened to by a very large house, the academy being filled to its utmost seating capacity.

In the evening Dr. Forrester preached an able sermon in the Baptist church. The church was crowded. Professor Sanford has resigned the principalship of the Hephzibah school, it is probable he will go to the Woodlawn school in Augusta. The professor is very popular and has done much good here and it is with many regrets that the people give him up.

The graduating class this season was composed of the following: Miss Ethel Turner, Miss Derralle Kilpatrick, Miss Sydney Turner, Miss Belle Fryer, Miss Margie Fryer, Miss Ethel Holcomb, Miss Pearl Wiggins and Miss Annie Weatherbee and Mr. Eugene Hamilton, Miss Harry Galloway, Mr. Simpson, Mr. J. H. Jones
