

EMORY'S EXERCISES ARE ON IN FULL SWAY

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

EMORY COLLEGE, Oxford, Ga., June 9.

9.—The commencement season is on at Emory, and the town is full of visitors.

The exercises began Saturday night with a gymnasium performance that was highly creditable.

Sunday morning the sermon was preached by Rev. J. M. Butler, of New York. He delivered a splendid sermon, which was attentively listened to by the large crowd in the auditorium.

The evening sermon was preached by Rev. Jenkins, of Atlanta. This sermon was also a fine one and a large crowd heard it.

In the speakers' contest yesterday for the freshmen and sophomore medals, J. Arthur Brown, of Jacksonville, Fla., won the medal for the freshmen, and Asa W. Candler, of Atlanta, won the medal for the sophomores. Mr. Brown's subject was "The Christian Young Men of America." Mr. Candler's subject was "Unjust National Acquisitions."

The champion debate between the Few and Phi Gamma societies will take place this afternoon. Three members from each society will speak.

Macon News Notes.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

MACON, Ga., June 9.—John Henry Forcett, the five-year-old nephew of Mrs. J. I. Brown, had his feet painfully burned Saturday night, stepping into a pile of ashes which he thought had no coals underneath.

The Mercer university baseball team will play the last game of the season at Central City park tomorrow afternoon. The opponents on this occasion will be a team composed of alumni of the college.

C. E. Hapholt (who had his leg broken while operating a big steam hammer at the Central railway shops Thursday, is doing well at the hospital.

News has been received here of the death of Mrs. John R. Irwin, of Dawson. Mrs. Irwin is remembered in Macon as Miss Minnie Findlay, daughter of Major and Mrs. C. D. Findlay, and a niece of Mr.arry Stillwell Edwards. She leaves six children and a husband, the latter is a prominent attorney at Dawson, and was for a number of years solicitor-general of the Pataula circuit. Macon relatives left this morning for Dawson to attend the funeral, which takes place this afternoon.

Macon Sends Eleven Hundred Dollars.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

MACON, Ga., June 9.—Macon's subscription to the Gainesville sufferers has now passed the $1,100 mark and contributions are still coming in, both in money and in clothing. About $50 was realized from the sacred concert at Crump's park last night.

Chairman Wixelbaum, of the local relief committee, says that he is still receiving subscriptions and will forward them as rapidly as they come in.

Havis Murder Trial.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 9.—The state has summoned its witnesses in the Wise-Havis murder case. William Wise and Glenn Havis beat Ellis Latham, a traveling man, with slung shot and billy in the Morris hotel several weeks ago, and Havis shot and killed him. Havis was a friend of Wise, not otherwise connected with the case.

There was a woman in it and Wise took up her cudgels, it is presumed. His sister, Mrs. Joe Ruble, has been summoned for the defense. The trial ensues on June 15. The defendants, who are in jail without bond, have asked for a severance. Havis is a gambler and dope fiend, it is said.

More Slot Machines.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 9.—After many years of prohibition the slot machine has again appeared in Birmingham, the introducer this time being M. G. Bardwell, of Atlanta, who has ascertained that the new law of the state allows their use under payment of a blanket license of $50 for state, city and county use. He has already introduced fifty of the machines and is preparing to throw in two hundred and fifty more. They are liberally patronized.
