

INSTITUTE CLOSES TERM AT STATESBORO

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

STATESBORO, Ga., May 25.—After one of the most successful years of its history, Statesboro Institute will close its spring term with appropriate exercises May 27th, 28th and 29th.

On Sunday, 27th, the baccalaureate sermon will be delivered by Rev. Walter Anthony, Vienna, Ga. On Monday, 28th, the literary address will be delivered by Prof. J. Walter Hendricks, of Douglas, Ga. Monday evening there will be a declamation contest. Tuesday morning the graduating essays will be read. The following young ladies compose the finishing class: Miss Mary Cone, Miss Annie Moore, Miss Katie McDougald, Miss Maude Brannen and Miss Tilla Hughes. The certificates of graduation will be delivered at this session. Tuesday evening the exercises will be concluded with a recital by the music and expression classes, an elocution contest by the girls and the delivery of prizes.

Professors Franklin and Brinson and the entire corps of teachers, with the exception of Mr. Banks and Miss Smith, resigned, have been re-elected for the next year.
