

MINISTER TO SWITZERLAND.

at their chateau at Geneva the latch-string is always out to visiting Americans.

Mrs. Clay was Miss Liala Fish, a member of the New York family which has contributed financiers, statesmen, scholars and social leaders to the country. She married first William J. Marsteller, of Cincinnati, and after his death became the second wife of Clay, son of the late General Cassius M. Clay, of Kentucky.

MARIST COLLEGE CLOSES ITS TERM

PRIZES WERE AWARDED SATURDAY MORNING—SENIOR CLASS WILL ENJOY BANQUET MONDAY EVENING.

Informally, and with no speeches, essays or songs, Marist college held its closing Saturday morning, in the college auditorium and on the college campus.

In the auditorium Father Gunn and Father Rapier made brief reviews of the work of the year and awarded the following prizes in the high school and grammar grades.

In the 6th Grade—Charley Allen, David Calkins, Thomas Crenshaw, Willie Hanlon.

In the 7th Grade—Henry Bogman, William C. Dickey, John R. Haverly, Trimble Johnson, Lewis Morrison.

In the 8th Grade—Henry Blacknall, Thomas P. Hancock, Leonard Morrison, In the Commercial Course—John Breen, J. L. Harrison, Earl D. Knight.

In the First Year High School—Harold Amster, Mack Hirshberg, William Hinman.

In the Second Year High School—Pat C. Dinkins carried off all the prizes.

In the Third Year High School—John H. Jentzen won all the prizes.

Class Prizes

The class prizes—the most important of all, were won as follows: John H. Jentzen, 3rd high; Pat C. Dinkins, 2d high; Harold Amster, 1st high; John Breen, commercial; Thomas P. Hancock, 8th grade; Lewis Morrison, 7th grade; William Hanlon, 6th grade.

Leaving the auditorium the people gathered on the terraced lawn above the campus and saw cadet after cadet yield to Sergeant Wingate Battle in the competitive drill for the Silverman medal.

Charles D. Barker was presented the National Rifle association medal, which he had won a few days previous in the rifle contest.

Tuesday morning at 9:15 the cadets and the grammar grades will take special cars at the junction of Ivy and Peachtree for trolley rides and a day at Ponce de Leon park.

Banquet Monday Night

In the collegiate department of the college the members of the senior class have postponed their leave-taking until Monday night, when they will entertain one another at a banquet to be held at the Piedmont hotel. The occasion will be utilized also for the formation of a club uniting the members of the class, a club as free from outward observances as possible and thus more effectually promoting its only purpose, the maintenance of friendship in after life. The guest of the members of the club will be the professor of the college under whom they have formed this friendship they aim to perpetuate. Among the after dinner speeches to be given are, "What I Take from Marist College," by Wingate Battle, who is by alphabetical right club representative this coming year; "College Days," by Ben Candler; "Our Club," by W. P. Nicholson, Jr.; "What the Future May Hold," by T. B. Falvey, and "Southland," by W. E. Daley. After the more formal part of the dinner, the club will give itself up to more familiar conviviality, recalling the ludicrous, exciting and even the painful events of the past year, affecting the club members in particular. The term just finished has been for the senior class in many respects both profitable and pleasant and deserving to end thus in light-stage. Mr. Barlow announced that he would assist in conducting the service at the Church of the Ascension, Greenpoint, tomorrow evening. The news came as a surprise to his friends.

"In my opinion, every actor when he becomes 50 or 60 years old, if he is still in the profession, should become a minister," said Mr. Barlow. "His natural vocation has been appealing to all sorts of women and men, and he has seen all conditions.

"It is perfectly natural, also, that when a man has devoted the greater part of his life to make people laugh, he should want to get down to serious things. There is bound to come a time in the life of every man and woman when he or she must think of serious things."

Influenced by the Rev. Walter Bentley, organizer of the Actors' Church Alliance, Mr. Barlow is planning to enter the general theological seminary in the fall as a resident student, although it is probable that he will undertake "layman" preaching under Bishop Darlington. In the latter position he will start on an annual salary of $700.

Mr. Barlow is 39 years old and made his debut when a boy of 9, in his father's troupe of Barlow, Wilson, Primrose & West. While in Winnipeg, in 1900, he joined the Royal Canadian regiment and served in the Boer war. For his services in rescuing his captain when wounded he received a medal from Queen Victoria.

SEBREE ORDERS PROBE OF TENNESSEE ACCIDENT

Full Report of Explosion on Battleship Will Be Reported to Navy Department

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Admiral Seebree has ordered an investigation of the accident on the cruiser Tennessee, which resulted in the death of five sailors and the injury of others. The president sent the admiral his condolence for the dead and the hope for the recovery of the wounded. It is not expected that a full report of the accident will be received by the navy department until after the investigation by a board of inquiry has been held.

The authorities of the fleet have the right to name the board and to conduct the investigation, but the result must be forwarded to the navy department for final consideration.

The accident on the Tennessee has not been attended with such great loss of life as has attended some other accidents in the navy, but it is especially interesting because the explosion occurred soon after an inspection by competent officers.

The inquiry will, of course, go into the construction of the boiler tubes to determine if there was any defect in their construction.

NEGRO WOMAN IS BADLY BURNED

Barbary Sparks, a negro woman living at 133 Magnolia street, came near being burned to death Saturday night when her house caught on fire. She was asleep at the time and her clothing became ignited before she could get out of the house. She was sent to the Grady hospital.
