By these presents greetings to all men, that they may know this to be my last will and testament, that I hereby give and bequeath to my wife Caroline Virginia Campbell all personal real estate, and expectation of proceeds of real estate of whatever kind, to be here at my death, to use and do with as she sees best.

And I furthermore will to my wife Caroline Virginia Campbell the policies of all Insurance I have on my life.

I do hereby state that I am now in good health, and in my right mind, and that if any of my heirs contest this will, it is my last wish they may be debarred from having any part thereof.

Thanking God for all of his mercies, I will further state that if the estate now in Court is not finally settled before my death that when settlement is made by Mr. Paul Garrett that he will pay all money from such settlement in case of my death over to my wife Caroline Virginia Campbell to be use as she sees best, and in no settlement shall she be required to give a bond to account for any money she may receive from my estate, she has been a true and faithful wife to me and I can trust her more than any one else to look after our children.
God is my witness that this is my last wish.
