The first of these are the Chlorophyta, which are the most numerous and most important of the green algae. They are found in all parts of the world, from the tropics to the poles, and in all kinds of water, from the open sea to the most stagnant pools. They are also found on land, where they grow on rocks, soil, and other surfaces. The Chlorophyta are characterized by their green color, which is due to the presence of chlorophyll, the substance that enables them to perform photosynthesis. They are also characterized by the presence of a cell wall, which is made of cellulose. The Chlorophyta are divided into several orders, including the Chlorophyta, Chlorophyta, and Chlorophyta.
