

The State of South Carolina — In the name of God Amen, I Eliza Flinn of Charleston, Widow, being oppressed with age and blindness, but of sound and disposing mind and memory, make this my last will and testament, intending hereby to dispose of all the worldly estate with which God has blessed me, as well as all, that by any power I may have the right to devise or bequeath: That is to say: To the Presbyterian Church at Wilton, I give Five Hundred Dollars, to be paid within four years after my decease, with interest from the first day of January next after my decease, and if it can be done, I desire the principal of this legacy to be invested, and the interest applied to the maintenance of Divine Worship: Item, To the Ladies Benevolent Society of Charleston, Two Hundred Dollars, to be paid within three years after my decease without interest; Item, To Miss Ann Garrett Two hundred Dollars, as a memorial of my friendship; Item, To Miss Jane O'Daniel, Two hundred and fifty Dollars, to be paid two years after my decease; Item, To the children of the late Mrs. Mary Lickson, one Hundred Dollars each to be paid for their use into the hands of their father: Item To my Son in law Martin L. Wilkins four thousand Dollars: Item, To my dear daughter Eliza Berkeley Wilkins my Carriage and all my plate, and all my furniture and household goods in Town, to her sole and separate use forever to dispose of as she may think proper.
 Also I give to my said daughter, one half of my share of the purchase money or interest in the Bonds of the purchaser of the lot on South Bay sold to Mr. Stevens; also I give to my said daughter the following negroes, that is to say: Amy, Susan and her three children Sarah Jane and Morris Nancy and her children Thomas and Eleanor, Bella Joan, Patty and her child Lizzy, and Betty thirteen in all, with their future issue, and also one Moiety of all the rest and residue of my Estate not otherwise disposed of, less the amount or value of four thousand Dollars, in which sum my sons share is to exceed hers; to her sole and separate use during her natural life, and after her decease to her children or grandchildren in such shares as to her shall seem fit.

hers; to her sole and separate use during her natural life, and after her decease to her children or grandchildren, in such shares, or to such one or more of them, and to and for such estate and estates; and subject to such limitations, as she by her last will and testament, or any writing in nature thereof notwithstanding her coverture may limit and appoint: and in failure of such appointment, to her children living at the time of her decease, and to the issue then living of such as may have died in her life time, the issue of a deceased child to take the parents' share and no more: Item, To my dear son John Berkley Grimball I give the following Negroes, that is to say: Rose and her son William, Cripple Rose, and her four children, Bristol, Carpenter Hit, his wife Binah and their child or children, Robert the Driver, Syrah, (Binah's sister) and her son, with their future issue; also all my furniture and household goods in the country, and one half of my share of the purchase money or interest in the Bonds of the purchaser of the lot on South Bay, sold to Mr. Stevens, and all the rest and residue of my estate not herein otherwise disposed of, and I appoint my Son John Berkley Grimball, my daughter Eliza Berkley Wilkins and my son in law Martin L. Wilkins Executors and Executrix of this my last will and testament. And for the purpose of dividing my estate, I direct them or such of them as may prove my Will to sell all my lands not specifically devised, either at public or private sale, and on such terms as they may think fit: And if they should think proper to do so, I authorize and empower them to sell the whole or any part of the Negroes not specifically bequeathed, as well as any other part of the residue of my estate for a fair and equal division. And it is my will that each and every of them my Executors and Executrix shall be accountable for his or her own acts or receipts only, and not for the acts and receipts of one another: And that each of every of them my son and daughter and son in law shall have full power and authority to give a full and final release to the other or others for his or her share or legacy, so as to exonerate one another effectually to all intents and purposes.
