In the Name of the Holy Trinity. I suspect old Stuart will make a false account against me, but I declare I owe him nothing - I suspect the same of M^r. Martin but I owe him nothing - I suspect one constable mack - an Irishman, will say I owe him seventy dollars, this is false.
I wish the benevolent ladies will receive as a gift all what is in this House of mine for the care they took of me. I owe to wish and bullock about ten dollars. I grant 6 dollars to Mary with in the house I reside in now, for the care she had of me, and nine to M^r. Leat for my stay in his House and kindness to me; I owe to my Baker three dollars. I owe to a bundle maker in King Street, close where I used to keep my shop, about five dollars. The remainder of my property I leave to the benevolent Ladies, in order to defray the expenses of my funeral. M^r. Leat August
