Middle names are omitted in these lists, mainly to permit a 2-column arrangement on each page. In the original entries second names are sometimes used, or perhaps only a middle initial, and usually the inclusion of these would not aid in a genealogical study. Many of the girls' names are combinations, such as Mary Ann, or Nancy Jane. Of course, some people were generally known by their second given name, and it would be helpful if we knew when this was done.

All of the marriages in the 1845 list were recorded by J. C. Pittman, who held the office of Clerk and Recorder from April 15, 1845 to October 26, 1846. Then the clerk and recorder was P. R. Smith (Uncle Presley) who served through September 25, 1861 when the recording ceased. Smith is credited with having saved the county records during the more intense war activity in this area, by hiding the books in Finchers Cave, south of Fayetteville.

Postwar recordkeeping was resumed April 15, 1864 when G. W. M. Reed became clerk. He held office until October 20, 1866 and again for a term of years from July 4, 1868. P. R. Smith was clerk during the 1866-1868 term.

Two of these clerks have their own marriages recorded in the books during this 25-year period. G. W. M. Reed and Mary Ferguson were married October 2, 1849. Presley Smith and Mary Daniels were married October 20, 1867. Miss Daniels was a teacher in the Fayetteville Female Seminary. She was a graduate of Mt. Holyoke, class of 1852. Smith handled some of the business affairs of the Seminary, was executor of Miss Sophia Sawyer's will, and later bought the Seminary property.

Consent of parents:

Youthful marriages were quite common in the 1840-1860 years. Many girls especially were wed at 14, 15, 16 and 17 years of age. Apparently, the consent of parents was required for minors, and most ministers and justices were careful to note that the necessary consent had been obtained.

Occasionally parental consent seemed to be of such importance that it was given in writing and the memorandum entered into the court records. One such exchange of consent between parents is illustrated by the following entries:

"This is to certify that I have given my consent for my son, Alfred B Combs to be joined in marriage to Miss Jane Ramey this 4th day of July, 1847.--Levi Combs"

"This is to certify that I have given my consent for my daughter to be joined in marriage to Mr Alfred Combs this 4th day of July, 1847-Margaret Ramey. Attest, Wm Kelly"

Deciphering Record Book Entries: Sometimes a good deal of imagination is required to decipher names, for example to separate handwritten I and J, or L and V, or small e and a. It may be quite impossible to distinguish between Gates and Yates in 1950 style handwriting. When letters are run together, especially m, n, r, i, e, and u, one can only guess at the name, unless it be a very common one. Is the name Shreaves, or Lievers, or "XZ"?

The name SMITH ought to be one of the easiest to recognize, but one entry was transcribed as SNICK. Several trials with variations in handwriting yielded the name Smith. Try it a few times, scribbling the mi rapidly, shortening the t, and exaggerating the loop on the h or k, and you will see the resemblance.

The blanks above are examples of missing or indecipherable names in the marriage record. Although the more common names can usually be identified, one cannot be sure if variations are due to errors in transcribing, or represent different families. The Name of Neal was also found as Neel, Neill, Neels, and Kneel. Also Hughes, Hews, Hues, and Huse. We found both Nunly and Nunnaly; Mars and Marrs, Tramel and Trammell. Oood and Tood may be misspellings of Oodd and Todd. More difficult to identify are Machine for McKinney; Renels for Reynolds; and Michel for Mitchell.

Some names are not familiar to local historians because one or both parties were from out-of-state, especially from Indian Territory-- one of the most interesting bride's names was Mary Sixkiller.

Family Names appearing in the marriage records of the 1850s are the same names that often appear in the history of the county for the next 100 years or more, such names, for example as Lewis, Fine, Carnahan, Buchanan, Edmiston, Holt, Hutchens, Rhea, Mankins, Van Hoose, Neal, Gibson, Reed, Williford, to name just a few.

Early Washington County families were large, there were relatively few families in the county, and early marriage was common, especially for the girls of the family. Within a single year, two or more members of a family might marry.

It seems to me that there were more Crawfords and Wests in the books than any other family. A quick count showed 43 Crawfords and 46 Wests marrying in the 25 years, 1845 to 1869, however, only two Crawford-West marriages were recorded.

As to given names, the Crawfords married off seven Marthas, two Marys, three listed by initials only- K J, B E, and R J. Then Arminta, Laura, Lucinda, Amanda, Eliza, Rebecca, Nancy, Sue, Ellen, Margaret, Susan; while among the Wests were: Two Marthas, Three Marys, Three Rebeccas, Two Julias, Two Elizabeths, M E, and Oseta, Morman, Nancy, Mahala, Susan, Malissa, Sidney, Hattie, Elvira, Matilda, Rosannah, Margaret.

Marriage Contracts, or pre-nuptial agreements are among the less common items entered in the Marriage Books. And yet, such contracts may be necessary to a clear understanding of the wishes of both parties. One fairly early contract concerns a prominent pioneer Washington County family. Since there is no point in identifying the family itself, the typical names of John and Mary have been substituted, otherwise the document is copied exactly:

"An article of agreement made and entered into this 24th day of February in the year of our Lord A D 1849, between John, of the one part and Mary of the other part, both of the County of Washington and State of Arkansas.

"Know ye that whereas the said John and the said Mary, both this day, mutually agreed with each other to join themselves together in the bonds of matrimony as husband and wife,

"Now the understanding is that whereas the said John is at this time seized and possessed of a considerable estate consisting of lands, negroes, and other personal property and the said Mary of but a very small amount of property, and we, the said John and Mary agree that if the said John should depart this life before the said Mary, she is to have the one-third part of his, the said John's whole estate for and during her life or widowhood, and the balance of the said estate to go to his, the said John's children if any; if not to go to the said John's brother and his heirs if any, and if none, then to go to said John's (other) brothers and sisters and their heirs.

"And should the said Mary marry another man then her above-named one third shall revert to said John's heirs as above. All of which we, the said John and Mary have hereunto agreed, and have hereunto subscribed our proper names and affixed our seals the day and date first above written, signed and sealed in the presence of us" (Properly signed and witnessed)
