Marriage Ceremony

United in Marriage: Mr. H. F. Armstrong and Miss Lula W. Adams, at the Residence of Mr. R. H. Waller, Maury Co., Tenn.,
April 27, 1897.

Dear Beloved:--

We are met together to join this union of this woman in holy wedlock. It should not be done thoughtlessly, but with discretion & in the fear of God. If there be any present therefore who know of good reasons why they may not be so united, let them now declare them or for ever hereafter hold their peace.

God, our Maker, intended that we should be happy. He therefore made all things beautiful in their season. To this end he gave to summer a carpet of green & fringed with flowers, to spring its brightness, & to winter a robe of the purest white of snow. To this end he hung the sky with blue, & the heavens with new pictures each day; gave the birds & waters their song, & implanted affection, sympathy & love in our hearts. To this end also he ordained marriage; for whose appreciation, sympathy & love unite to weld two hearts into one, it forms the happiest of earth's relations, as well as the most tender, intimate & endurable.

In the Divine idea, marriage is the union of two hitherto separate paths of life.
