

James Campbell Will

I James Campbell of Leesburg, Washington County State of Tennessee do make and publish this my last will and testament, hereby revoking and making void all other wills by me at any time made.

First, I direct that my funeral expenses, and all my debts (should there be any) be paid as soon after my death, as possible, out of any money that I may die possessed of, or may come first into the hands of my Executor. Secondly - I give and bequeath to each of my daughters, one hundred dollars if there be enough of effects, money or money due me or property at my death belonging to me, to pay the same; but if I should not be worth that much at my death, then my Executor shall pay to each of my said daughters, as nearly one hundred dollars as the assets he come to his hands will enable him. Thirdly, I give and bequeath any remainder of the money, and money due me, and property ^{after paying the above bequests} to all my sons, and daughters, (excluding my son Madison Campbell) Equally, my Executor being required to collect any money that may be due me, and sell my property, of which I may die the owner, before distribution. The reason why my son Madison is excluded from participating in the ^{foregoing} provisions for my children, is, that I love my children, and wish to make them all equally beneficent in the means I have acquired, and my son Madison in a sale of land made to him before the making of this will, received a full, and probably to large, a share of my estate.

The words "money or money due me or property" the words "after paying the above bequests" and the word "foregoing" all interlined before signature.

I nominate and request that my son John Campbell and my son-in-law Jacob Bowman execute this my last will and testament.

In witness whereof I subscribe my name and affix my seal this the twenty fifth of April Eighteen Hundred and Sixty, in the presence of
