THE BOZEMAN FAMILY.

It is thought that the Bozeman ancestry came from Holland. That, however is not authentic. The form of the name and some characteristics of the family indicate that origin. The name is written Bozeman, and Bozman, and Bosman. On the eastern shore of North Carolina were three brothers, Levin and Joseph and John, who wrote their name Bozman, without an "e," as did John Leeds Bozman, author of a History of Maryland. As to the name itself, we have the following information:

The famous surgeon, Dr. Nathan Bozeman, says: "In 1858, when I went to the office of the Dutch Consul in London, to get my passport vised, he at once recognized my name as Dutch, and said the English of it was angry man. After leaving England I traveled through Belgium and Holland, and in Brussels, where there are many Dutch, I even saw our name, though spelled without an 'e.'" Dr. Bozeman thinks they came over with the Knickerbockers to New York, and emigrated thence to Carolina. His son, Dr. Nathan Gross Bozeman, says that an accomplished lady told him she knew a gentleman in China, from Holland, whose name was Bozeman. The celebrated philologist, Matthias De Vries, Professor in the Univer-

"That your honored name, Bozeman, drawn its origin from the Dutch Bosman, is more than probable, the English pronunciation of our B being rather Bozman from which Bozeman is a different form of writing.

"The Dutch name Bosman was originally, without any doubt, written Boschman; but as a final s is dropped in our pronunciation, (we write Bösch, but pronounce Bos), it is easy to conclude that the name Boschman, in course of time, has been written without ch, as is now the case.

"Boschman corresponds with Buschman, (a common name in Germany), and with the English Bushman. The original meaning must have been Woodman, one who dwells in a wood.

"The interpretation which, as you write me, the Dutch Consul gave of the name as signifying man—angry-man—was clearly a joke, but needs no explanation.

"The name Bosman is even to-day (October 1882) not uncommon in Holland. After receiving your letter I found it twice mentioned in our newspapers—once as belonging to a shopkeeper in Amsterdam, and the second time as the name of a tax collector who made a promotion.

"As to historical persons of the name, born at Utrecht, January 12, 1672, who entered into the service of the Dutch East India Company, and was named Chief Commercial Agent at Axim, and afterwards of the castle in St. George d'Elmina. There he lived fourteen years, and after his return to his native country he published a description of those foreign lands under the title: "An Accurate Description of the Gold, Tooth and Slave Coast of Guinea." The book was published at Amsterdam in 1704, and was reprinted in 1809.

MATTHIAS DEVRIES "

To return to my own narrative. There were Bozemans in various sections of North Carolina before the Revolutionary war, in the counties of Halifax, Chowan, Washington, Richmond, Bladen, Columbus, Brunswick, and probably Montgomery. Col. John Bozeman, of Georgia, used to say that the best portion of the city of Raleigh, N. C., rightfully belonged to the Bozemans. I infer from that saying that some of the family once owned land in Wake county, or might have done so, if they could have seen far enough ahead. A goodly number of the Bozemans of North Carolina were brave soldiers in the Revolution, all of them on the side of the Colonies. Doubtless the Bozeman family were among the earliest permanent colonists of the old North State. They may have come direct from Europe to North Carolina, but from several traditions I conclude that they settled first in Maryland. A list of immigrants to that State would no doubt confirm this conclusion. Will not some one consult the roll? John D. Bozeman, of Quitman, Ga., writes me, Nov. 5, 1882, that his great grandfather was Joseph E. Bozeman, and that he and Nathan Bozeman were emigrants from Europe to Maryland. The Meady Bozeman branch say that their ancestors came first to Maryland. Those who spell their name Bozman, say that their fore-fathers came over to Maryland with Lord Baltimore. James E. Bozeman, of Dawson, Ga., Nov. 26, 1882, writes: "Our great uncle Etheldred Bozeman's eldest daughter, Mrs. Sarah Market, lives near me now, and she says that her grandfather's name was Joseph Edward Bozeman, and that her great grandfather's name was Nathan Bozeman. My grandmother on my mother's side said that he was called. Nat. Bozeman, and that he was of the family that emigrated from Germany or Scotland and settled in Maryland. I can not tell the colony they came with."

Mrs. Maj. Baxter, of Memphis, Tenn., writes, Oct. 1882, that her first husband, Col. John Bozeman, of Ga., had relatives in Maryland, at Port Tobacco, whom he used to visit on his trips North. Their name was Maddox, or Mattox.

Samuel Bozeman, of Lauderdale County, Miss., says, in 1882, that his father, Meady Bozeman, brother of Col. John Bozeman, used to speak often of Maryland, as though his ancestors had lived in that State.

In 1878, a young man named Armstrong called on Dr. Nathan Bozeman, of New York city, and said that his mother's name was Bozeman, and that his grandfather, Peter Bozeman, emigrated from Maryland to the West many years ago, and was still living at Bay City Michigan.

And we all know that John Leeds Bozman, who wrote a history of Maryland, was born at Oxford, Talbot County, Maryland, August 25, 1753, and that he lived and died in that State.

Thus a number of traditional lines and one historic all point to Maryland as the original home of the Bozeman family in America. I repeat that a list of the European emigrants to Maryland would probably confirm this conclusion. George W. Marshall, L. L. D., F. L. A., of England, editor of the Genealogist, writes me in 1883: "I suppose you have consulted Hotten's list of emigrants, and the Indexes of Whitmore & Durrie." No, I have no access to them.

My own American ancestors were possibly as follows: Great, great, great grandfather, probably Nathan Bozeman, emigrant to Maryland; great, great grandfather, probably Joseph Edward Bozeman, of Maryland; great grandfather, certainly Samuel Bozeman, of North Carolina; grandfather, Joseph Bozeman, of N. C., Ga., and Ala.; father, Jefferson Richardson Bozeman, of Ga., Ala., and Mississippi.

SAMUEL BOZEMAN.—1730, BLADEN CO., N. C.

My great grandfather, born about the year 1730, married Ann Richardson, as I know from authentic family records kept in the Bible, and given me by Mrs. Mary Louisa Bozeman Baird, his grand daughter, of Atlanta, Ga., in 1883. My father's name was Jefferson Richardson Bozeman. The Richardsons were prominent people in Bladen county, North Carolina. Nathaniel Richardson, of that county was a member of the noted Provincial Congress of N. C., that met at Halifax, April 4, 1776, before the Declaration of Independence. He was also in the Assembly of 1775 at Hillsboro, N. C. James Richardson was appointed in 1775, Second Major of troops in Bladen county. He was in the Legislature in 1785. Samuel N. Richardson was in the Legislature in 1801, and in the State Senate in 1802-1803, a member from Bladen. Amos Richardson, from the same county, was a member of the Legislature five years from 1802 to 1806, inclusive.

I. JOSEPH BOZEMAN, 1756—1821.

First child of Samuel and Ann Richardson Bozeman, and grand father of the writer of these sketches, born in North Carolina April, 1756, and raised in the southern part of that State, was a soldier in the Revolutionary war, and took part in the siege of Augusta, Ga. At the close of the Revolution, he with his brothers and sisters emigrated to Georgia, not far from Savannah. His first wife was a Miss Wood, sister of Rev. David Wood, a Baptist minister. They were married about the year 1784, whether in North Carolina or Georgia, I am not informed. I do not know her given name. She died young leaving one child, Nathan Bozeman, father of the celebrated surgeon Dr. Nathan Bozeman, of New York. Joseph Bozeman's second wife, my grand mother, was Elizabeth Pendleton, born in Pennsylvania. This union took place in 1797, in Georgia. Joseph Bozeman and family with his youngest brother Etheldred Bozeman, left Louisville, Ga., March 13th, 1806 for Kaskaskia, Ill., which they reached May 16. 1806. The stages were from Louisville to Sparta, to Greensboro, to Cove Shoals on Oconee river, thence up the Ridge Road to near High Shoals on the Apalachee, then up the Apalachee to near Hogg Mountain, then along the Federal Road, heading the Apalachee and crossing the Chattahoochee at Vann's Ferry, then to Hightower River, forded it, then to Coosawattee River and Indian Town, forded, then to Hiawassee River, crossed at Walker's Ferry, then to Tennessee River, crossed at King's Ferry, then to turnpike road 3 miles, then to Spencer's Hill, to Crab Orchard, to Cumberland River, crossed at Fort Blount, to Gallatin, to Red River, Whipperwill River, Christian Court House, Centreville (Livingston Co.), Ford's Ferry on Ohio River, Big Muddy River, Little Muddy River, Buckoo River, Mary's River, then Kaskaskia. There they remained and made a crop, but the ague and fever was so severe that they returned to Georgia, at the end of the year 1806. Their return was made on pack horses. The next twelve years were spent in Twiggs county, Ga. In January 1818 Joseph Bozeman moved to Alabama, Monroe county, afterwards to Conecuh county, and then to Covington county where he died September 21, 1821, in the 66th year of his age. His death was caused by the falling of a tree on him, which some men were cutting down for timber. He lived two days after he received the fatal injury. His grave is two miles a little east of south from Montezuma, "on a pine ridge, under a pretty hickory," near the falls of the Conecuh River.

Joseph Bozeman had mechanical talent, being a skilled workman in wood and iron, a good gunsmith and a fine marksman. He was fond of hunting and fishing, and loved to change his places of abode. He was a farmer, a Democrat and a Baptist. His complexion, hair and eyes were dark; his stature short, about five feet six inches, and his weight 165 lbs. His widow Elizabeth Pendleton Bozeman and children moved to Butler and then to Lowndes county, where she died in 1832. Her grave is at New Bethel Baptist church in Lowndes county, Ala.

I have entertained my little children with the following incident in my grand father Joseph Bozeman's sporting life. One day while he and two other men were fishing in Conecuh River, Ala., they heard a hog squealing not far away in the swamp. They had no guns or weapons of any kind, except fishing poles and pocket knives. All went to see what was the trouble with the hog, grand father leading the way through the cane. Coming right upon the hog, they found it in the grasp of a bear, which turned and chased the men. They fled by the way they came, thus leaving grand father in the rear. Away they ran, men and bear, making the woods crash and crackle with their head long speed. The two in front passed the butt end of a tree that had fallen and lodged forming a "horsing log." Grand father said—"boys let's go up here," and they obeyed. He was now in front, and they in the rear, as they scrambled away out toward the other end of the log. It was so near the ground that the bear saw them and ran out to the point directly under them. With hair on end and horrid growls and frantic efforts to reach them, he kept them treed till they had ample time to rest from their race. Finally he went back to look after his hog, and when the way was clear the fishermen struck a bee line for home. They'd had enough for one day.

NATHAN BOZEMAN, 1785—1848.

The eldest son of Joseph Bozeman, and the only child by his first wife, who was a Miss Wood, was born October 7, 1785, I presume in North Carolina. He was 21 years old when his father moved to Illinois in 1806. From his diary of the trip which I have seen in the possession of his son Dr. Nathan Bozeman of New York, I got the stations of that journey which I have previously given. On the first day of November, 1807, he married Miss Harriet Knotts of Burke county, Ga., near Waynesboro, a lady of Scotch extraction, whose father was born in South Carolina about 1745, and served with the colonies in the Revolutionary War. Harriet was born in Georgia, September 19, 1788, and died in Coosa county, Ala., June 22, 1874, in the 86th year of her age. Her brother Nathaniel Knotts of Georgia, married Mrs. King, of Jones county, Ga., in 1817, a lady of noble family, who had two brothers in Congress. Harriet Knotts was a woman of fine personal appearance, of solid character, of great industry, and was a devout christian of the Primitive Baptist faith. I saw her often between the years of 1855 and 1860, and enjoyed the hospitality of her well-ordered home. Nathan Bozeman moved to Alabama, Covington County, near Montezuma, where his father lived, in the year 1819. He afterwards in 1825, moved to Butler County, near Greenville. While there he secured a contract from the government to transport supplies from Penscola, Fla., to Marshall's Ferry on Flint River, Ga. The same year he entered 100 acres of land on Panther Creek in Lowndes county, Ala., and the following year moved there with his family. In 1831 he moved to another place near Churchhill. In 1836 to find a more healthful locality, he moved to Tallapoosa county. The year 1838, he removed to Coosa county, near Sockapatoy. Finally in 1844, he settled near Nixburg in the same county, where he resided at the time of his sudden death, October 11, 1848, in his 64th year. He died of apoplexy, fell out of his buggy one mile south of Kingston in Autauga county, on his way to visit his son Nathaniel. In an hour this son came along the same road in the opposite direction, twenty miles from home, and found his father in an unconscious state from which he soon died. He was carried back to Coosa county to be buried at Liberty Baptist church of which he was an honored member, near his home on the old Plank Road, five miles south of Nixburg.

Nathan Bozeman was a farmer, a Democrat, and a Primitive Baptist, a man of great industry and public spirit. He served his neighbors as Magistrate, made money rapidly by improving places and then selling them at a profit. One of his sayings was that "the sound of many axes in the forest and field was the sweetest music he ever heard," as reported by my father. His discipline with servants and children was very strict. He believed in all members of the household being profitably employed. His stature was short. An honest man, industrious, temperate, capable, and successful, he accumulated a good property, and won a high place in public esteem as a valuable and honorable citizen, whose unsullied character is a rich legacy to his family, themselves noted leaders in their communities, worthy sons and daughters of a worthy sire.

MICHAEL BOZEMAN, 1803—1883.

The first child of Nathan and Harriet Knotts Bozeman.

IN MEMORIAM.

Col. Michael Bozeman, the subject of this notice, was born in Jones county, Georgia, August 16, 1808. At four years of age his parents moved to Twiggs county. In 1819 they removed with him to the territory of Alabama, Henry county, now Covington county, Alabama. He was united in marriage with Lucy Ann Browning, in Lowndes county, Alabama, September 27, 1827.

He professed faith in Christ and was baptized into the fellowship of Mount Gilead church, Lowndes county, Alabama, June 9, 1830. In 1835 he removed with his young family to the territory of Arkansas, and settled in Clark county, where he resided on the same farm until his death, May 26, 1883.

He served his district in the senate of Arkansas in 1853.

In August, 1836, he and his wife went into the constitution of Mount Bethel church, Clark county, Arkansas, and in October of the same year he was the messenger from his church to a convention which was held at the residence of David Dodd, in Saline county, Arkansas, upon which occasion the Saline Regular Baptist association was organized, it being on "Saturday before the first Lord's day in October, A. D. 1836."

Col. Bozeman was clerk of the convention and also of four subsequent annual meetings of the association.

This was the first Baptist association in the State south of the Arkansas river. It was composed of five small churches with an aggregate of seventy-eight members. But "the wilderness and solitary place was glad for them;" and Col. Bozeman, perhaps the last survivor of the constitutional members of the Saline Regular Baptist association, lived to see the territory densely populated and occupied by about fifteen associations and twenty thousand members, besides the mighty host who preceded him to the heavenly Canaan in the intervening years. He leaves his aged companion, children, friends, to mourn their loss. But they sorrow not as those who have no hope. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord; yea, saith the Spirit, from henceforth they rest from their labors and their works do follow them."

R. M. THRASHER.

Most of his married life was spent in Arkansas, Clark county, near Arkadelphia, where he owned a large estate, on which he resided 48 years in succession. He lived 56 years with the wife of his young manhood. He was a prominent and leading citizen in his community, honest, temperate, industrious and enterprising, a farmer, a Democrat and a Baptist, an honor to his calling, his party and his denomination. Not till he was 74 years old did he give up the management of his farm. He took great interest in the Bozeman family, and stored his mind with much useful information about its older members. From him the author of these sketches obtained through correspondence many valuable items. A noble man in every sense, he merited the honor and affection manifested by the immense concourse of people that followed him to his grave. The family that bears the name of Bozeman may well feel a just pride in this strong and true christian gentleman. The Brownings of whom his wife was a member were first class people in all respects. They lived in Alabama, Lowndes county.

DAVID WOOD BOZEMAN—1814.

Fourth child of Nathan and Harriet Knotts Bozeman was born in Georgia, February 16, 1814, married Ann English Browning of Lowndes county, Ala., April 12, 1832, when he was 18 and she 15.

He lived near Benton, and afterwards in Coosa county, for many years, 12 miles north-east of Wetumpka. After the war he moved to Milledgeville, Georgia. He owned a large estate of lands and negroes, and was an excellent financier. Positions of trust in moneyed corporations, and of honor in State sought his valuable services. He was a Representative in the Alabama Legislature in 1861. In 1853 he was beaten for the State Senate only by the chicanery it is said, of his wily opponent who hired a man to run for the same office that received only the votes which would have been given to Col. Bozeman. In 1860 he was a delegate from Alabama to the noted Baltimore Democratic Convention that nominated John C. Breckenridge for President of the United States. On going to and returning from that Convention he called on me then a student at the University of Virginia. During the years 1856-'57 he located large tracts of land in Texas, to some of which he moved after the war. Though not a member of any church he is a thorough Baptist in sentiment, and loves to attend the house of God. He is temperate, moral, industrious, public-spirited, tall, having very black hair and eyes, an olive complexion, a model foot, and is very popular with the ladies. Great firmness and quietness marks his dealings with children, servants and men. I lived in his house four years and never saw him angry or heard him talk loud. But what he said he meant, and what he required he had done. He sets special value upon manual labor, yet he has generously extended financial aid to young men striving to get an education, among whom is the writer of these sketches. For this noble service to young men Col. David W. Bozeman reaps their lasting respect and gratitude. He is now, June 29, 1885, living in Franklin, Robertson county, Texas, in the 72nd year of his age.

Son of David W. and Ann Browning Bozeman died at the age of 18, in Coosa county, Ala., May 26, 1855, on a beautiful Sunday evening, surrounded by many weeping friends. He was a young man of very bright mind, of great ambition, studious habits, noble impulses, handsome person, and splendid promise. Over his open grave at Union Baptist church, of which he was a member, Mr. Walkley his teacher, delivered a touching eulogy. For three months before his death, the writer of these sketches was his constant companion, being his class-mate and room-mate, and nurse through his last sickness. He deserved the love and honor due to a kind and noble spirit. He abides an object of esteem and affection in my heart.

He is a valuable citizen, a Democrat, and a Baptist, like most of his name.

Though very reticent he possessed a vein of sportive mischief. His talent and skill lie mostly in the line of mechanical work. He married Miss Lucy L. Gary, his uncle Michael Bozeman's grand daughter, in Clarke county, Ark., July 24, 1878, and afterwards moved to Texas.

They lived in Dadeville, Tallapoosa county, Alabama.

Another son, William Bulger, was for a time after the war, a cadet at West Point, N. Y. He is a young man of marked ability, and was a prominent candidate for the nomination for Congressman from his District in Alabama.

Tenth child of Nathan and Harriet Knotts Bozeman, married Mr. Jordan, and died a few years after, leaving two sons in Coosa county Alabama.

DR. NATHAN BOZEMAN—1825.

Ninth child of Nathan and Harriet Knotts Bozeman, born March 26th, 1825, in Butler county, Alabama. After graduating in medicine in Louisville, Ky., he located in Montgomery, Ala., as a physician, and soon became a noted surgeon, especially in cases of vesico vaginal fistula. He married Miss Fannie Lamar, cousin of L. Q. C. Lamar, Oct. 25, 1852. In 1858 he visited Europe and operated with great success in the hospitals of England, Scotland and Ireland. One year later he located in New Orleans, where he increased his reputation. There in 1860 he lost his wife, Fannie Lamar Bozeman. When the war of 1861 came he was chosen as surgeon in Gen. Beauregard's army, and so continued till his health failed. After the war he moved to New York City. Subsequently, two or three years were spent by him in France and Germany, during which time, his surgical operations with Prof. Gustav Simon in Heidelberg, gave him more than national fame. One of the reports of the cases from Germany, denominated Dr. Nathan Bozeman "the greatest gynecologist in the world."

At that time the European correspondent of a St. Louis German paper, speaks of American medical and surgical matters abroad thus, which is a translation:

"The drooping spirits of the Americans at Heidelberg have been revived by the appearance of the eminent American gynecologist, Dr. Nathan Bozeman of New York, formerly of Montgomery, Alabama, who was invited here by Prof. Gustav Simon, his colleague, to a sort of scientific duel in the operation for vesico vaginal fistula. The American surgeon was the undisputed victor. He operated with the greatest firmness and with a manual dexterity and correct individualization of the particular case which has never before been witnessed here. Dr. Bozeman is at present in Coburg, and at the close of the winter after a completed triumphal tour through North Germany, he will return to Heidelberg."—Mobile Register, 1875.

While at Coburg in 1874, Dr. Bozeman was honored by the Duke with an invitation to shoot wild boars with him in his hunting grounds. Having reached the forest, they took their stand upon slightly elevated scaffolds with spearmen on the steps to keep off the infuriated boars. Men scoured the woods, driving the boars out by the stands, at great speed. Dr. Bozeman after killing his fifth boar, leveled his gun upon the sixth that came dashing by, but the spear man hissed, "no, no, no," and the doctor let it pass on for the Duke to shoot, learning that it was a part of etiquette for an invited guest to allow the Duke to kill the greatest number. So Dr. Bozeman killed five, and the Duke seven. A painting of this interesting scene hangs in Dr. Bozeman's dining room in New York. I have seen it, and heard him narrate the incident, as we sat at table.

After his return to New York, Dr. Bozeman was elected Surgeon of the Woman's Hospital to fill the place made vacant by the death of the celebrated Dr. Peaslee. The following is from the New York Herald of 1878.

THE WOMAN'S HOSPITAL.

The Woman's Hospital, an institution which since its establishment has done an incalculable amount of good, recently experienced a great loss in the death of Dr. Peaslee, one of the eminent members of its surgical staff. There were many applicants for the vacancy, and the Board of Managers have at last decided upon Dr. N. Bozeman, of this city, who has made the particular diseases treated at the Woman's Hospital the study of a lifetime. The appointment is considered by the medical faculty generally as one of the very best that could have been made.

Dr. Bozeman is a tall, portly, fine looking man with large head, open, ruddy face, and dark brown eyes. When I saw him in 1882 he wore a mustache which was gray, and he looked like a Prussian Magnate. His medical practice is very large and lucrative. His writings in the Medical Journals would fill many volumes.

AN INCIDENT.—THE POWER OF A WORD.

While on a visit to Dr. Nathan Bozeman in New York, May 1882, he told me substantially the following incident in his life. One day, when he was a school boy without any fixed plan for the future, his teacher, Rev. Mr. McAlpin, a Presbyterian minister, said to him on the play ground, "Nathan, wouldn't you like to be a doctor?" The question put a new thought into his mind and an abiding aspiration into his heart. It set up a definite object before him. It was the beginning and impulse of his career as a physician.

Here we see how much a word can do for a boy. It may open the door to a new world of thought, ambition and possibilities. Dr. Nathan Bozeman has for years been famous as a surgeon both in America and Europe. The fountain of this deep, broad, clear stream of his renown, bubbled up that day on the school yard of a remote country neighborhood, in Coosa county, Alabama.

It calls to mind the case of Thomas Wolsey. He was a butcher's son designed by his father to that business. One day the bishop of the diocese attended the village school and heard Thomas deliver the complimentary Latin oration. The prelate patted the boy on the head and said, "Sooken like a cardinal, my little man." The thought of becoming a cardinal took possession of the boy. A cardinal he would be in spite of all his father's opposition, and his own unfavorable circumstances. A cardinal he became, with his name and fame written in all the histories of England.

It calls to mind the case of Ambrose bishop of Milan. One day when there was no bishop there, and no thought of becoming one himself had ever entered Ambrose's mind, there was a public meeting with reference to the election of a new bishop. When Ambrose ascended the rostrum and took the chair to preside, a child in the assembly whispered, "Ambrose is bishop." Those who heard it repeated to others, "Ambrose is bishop." Soon the multitude took up the cry, "Ambrose is bishop." And such he was made as the result of that child's spontaneous thought and utterance.

It calls to mind an incident in the history of Rome. There came to be at one period a strong sentiment in favor of leaving the City of Seven Hills and locating the departments of State elsewhere. The question had been discussed in the Senate, a large majority favoring it. The vote was just on the point of being taken, when a company of soldiers were marched into an open space near the Capitol, and their officer gave the command, "Halt, here." The clear, loud tones floated up through the windows into the ears of the assembly. They took it as an omen,—as a voice from the gods. "Halt, here." The vote was against removal. Rome was saved, and there she stands to-day in all her glory.

Dr. Nathan Bozeman married his second wife after the war of 1861, in Macon, Ga., a cousin of his first wife. She lived only a few years after their marriage. This union had no issue.

CHILDREN OF DR. NATHAN AND FANNIE LAMAR BOZEMAN.

Three children reached maturity.

1. Geraldine Bozeman, a beautiful young lady, died in Newark, New Jersey, in 1873, when about 18.
2. Nathan Gross Bozeman, named after his father's special friend the celebrated Dr. Gross, was educated in Coburg Germany where he and his sister Fannie had the kind attentions of Mr. and Mrs. Winsor, United States Consul. Nathan afterwards was a student at the University of Virginia, and then at Yale where he finished his literary and scientific course in 1882. Subsequently he studied medicine at the College of Physicians in New York city, the home of his father. In May, 1885, I received the following card and invitation:

"MR. NATHAN G. BOZEMAN, 296 Fifth Avenue."

"CLASS OF '85.
The Graduating Class of the College of Physicians and Surgeons requests the pleasure of your presence at Commencement,

Tuesday evening, May twelfth,
at eight o'clock,
Steinway Hall."

3. Fannie Lamar Bozeman, petit and fascinating, educated in Germany and New York city, traveled extensively in Europe, visited me in Meridian, Miss., March, 1881, was married April 26, 1882, in New York city to Joseph H. Rylance a young lawyer. The following are some accounts of the marriage as given in the New York papers:

TO-DAY'S WEDDINGS.

Bridal Couples at the Flower-Decked Altar of Hymen.—
"Whoso God Hath Joined."—Orange Blossoms, White
Satin Robes and Bridal Veils.—Hearts and Hands Joined Together.

The church is crowded and as the deep tones of the organ fill the air there is a hush of expectation over the throng of wedding guests, and necks are craned and eyes are turned toward the door of the middle aisle. The surpliced clergyman and his assistant is in the chancel, and the huge floral bell sways gently over his head in the vibrations caused by the deep organ tones. Up the aisle comes the long-looked-for procession, the ushers in their sombre dress suits, the merry faced bridesmaids with their bouquets of various roses, the little misses with baskets of flowers, and lastly that vision of loveliness, white satin, orange blossoms, pearls, diamonds and point lace, the bride herself, leaning on her father's arm. The brief but impressive ceremony is over, and down the aisle returns again bride and bridegroom, meeting the point blank fire of criticism and remark with smiles and bows. Then comes the reception, and the young couple are off on their wedding tour, with many slippers thrown after them for luck. Such is a wedding a la mode. And of such are the following.

RYLANCE—BOZEMAN.

RYLANCE.

Mr. Joseph H. Rylance, Jr., whom Fannie Lamar Bozeman married, was a handsome young man of polished manners, and most excellent christian character, a lawyer by profession, son of the distinguished writer and preacher, Rev. Dr. Joseph H. Rylance, Rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church, New York city, and related to some of the noblest families of that great metropolis, the Livingstons, Stayvesants and Hammersleys. Their marriage took place April 26, 1882. He died of pneumonia December 10, 1883. A son was born January 10, 1884, and received the name Joseph Bozeman Rylance.

LAMAR.

The Lamar family, into which Dr. Nathan Bozeman married, is one of the most distinguished in the Southern States. In Georgia, Mississippi and Texas the name is illustrious. The Hon. L. Q. C. Lamar, United States Senator from Mississippi, is a first cousin of Dr. Bozeman's wife, and has no superior in America as an orator and a statesman.

Since writing the above Senator Lamar has been chosen by President Grover Cleveland to enter his cabinet as Secretary of the Interior, a choice that gives the greatest satisfaction to all sections of the country.

ETHELDRED PENDLETON BOZEMAN—1798—1872.

Son of Joseph and Elizabeth Pendleton Bozeman; born in Georgia in 1798; married Miss Jane Daniel, of Lowndes county, Alabama, in 1824, a noble woman of a talented family, sister of Joseph Daniel, the surveyor. His married life of 48 years was spent near Hickory Grove. Soon after the war he moved to Butler county. He raised a large family. His stature was short, and weight about 150 pounds. His eyes were brown and hair black. He was a farmer, a Democrat and a Primitive Baptist. Death came suddenly to him in the church where his membership had been for fifty years. It was on Saturday, August, 1872, between the sermon and conference: he took a pitcher from the pulpit, walked to the spring, returned with it full of water, set it on the stand, and took his seat, in perfect health. In a few minutes he leaned over on the pew, and was dead—gone in a moment—translated from the church on earth to the church in heaven. As to place, manner and age, it was a departure to be coveted. He was in his 75th year. He was a good man, entirely without worldly ambition. The only civil office he ever held was Justice of the Peace. His crown is in heaven.

JEFFERSON RICHARDSON BOZEMAN—1802—1881.

My father, third son of Joseph and Elizabeth Pendleton Bozeman, was born in Jefferson county, Georgia, October 18, 1802. One of his earliest recollections is the trip of his father and family to Kaskaskia, on the Mississippi river in Illinois, A. D. 1806, and their return on pack horses to Twiggs county, Georgia, at the end of the year. In 1818 he went with his father to Alabama, Monroe, Conecuh and Covington counties. After his father's death he moved with his mother and her children to Butler county, and then to Lowndes, Alabama. There, at the age of 27, he married Ann Mahala Woodruff, daughter of Josiah and Margaret Woodruff, from Spartansburg district, South Carolina. My grandmother, Margaret Woodruff, was a McGraw, of an Irish family, a woman of bright intellect and great force of character.

In 1829 Jefferson R. Bozeman moved from Alabama to Winston county, Mississippi, and spent the year with his father-in-law, eight miles south of Louisville, the county site. That winter he returned to Alabama, and after making a crop and selling his home there in 1840, moved back to Winston county, Mississippi, and settled permanently twelve miles southeast of Louisville. The name of his place was Coopwood. There he lived thirty years. In February, 1870, he moved to Panola county, Mississippi, and bought land near Pope's Station, on the Mississippi and Tennessee railroad. His wife died February 15, 1871, of pneumonia, and was buried at Antioch church, three miles west of Courtland. He died August 1, 1881, in his 79th year, and was laid away by the side of his wife, with whom he had lived forty-two years. His death, like that of his brothers, Nathan and Etheldred, was sudden. Thirty minutes after his first attack he was lying in his bed engaged in cheerful conversation, when he quickly laid his right hand upon his breast, and was gone in a moment.

Jefferson R. Bozeman was baptized by Alexander Watson in Middle Creek, New Bethel church, Lowndes county, Alabama, in 1830. Next year the church made him a Deacon. He served also as Clerk several years. He was Justice of the Peace for his beat. In Mississippi he was Deacon and Clerk of Enon church. The records kept by him were noted for neatness and clearness. In 1846-7 he was Clerk of the Louisville Association in Mississippi, in which capacity his name appears in Benedict's History of Baptists. He was Probate Clerk of Winston county in 1866-7.

His stature was short, complexion dark, hair wavy, nose Grecian. A man of clear, vigorous mind he read a good deal, and thought accurately. He was a fine singer, an adept in wood and iron work, a noted penman, a farmer, a Democrat and a Baptist, a lover of hospitality, a natural physician, a cultivator of bees, fruits and vegetables, an admirer of nature, an honest man and a devoted Christian.

The WOODRUFF family of Spartanburg county, South Carolina, of whom Jefferson Bozeman's wife, my mother, was a member, possessed marked traits of character. Under a rough exterior they had strong and acute minds, much inclined to polemics. Some of them would take any side of a question just for argument's sake. They loved knowledge, and were well educated for the times in which they lived. They were staunch Baptists throughout. Four of them were useful Baptist preachers—Dick Woodruff, of South Carolina, Gideon, Nathaniel E. and Robert Woodruff, of Mississippi. Nathaniel was my mother's brother, under whom I was converted and by whom I was baptized. Gideon Woodruff was a man of great native power as a speaker. He had a son, a brilliant young lawyer in Greensboro, Mississippi, Willis Woodruff by name, who died in 1853, just as he had begun his promising career. Hiram G. Woodruff, another of my mother's brothers, was a polished, popular man, and held the office of Chancery Clerk of Winston county many years. His son, Robert, is the Baptist preacher abovenamed. Capt. A. B. Woodruff, of South Carolina, is a man of ability and influence, one of the Secretaries of the Southern Baptist Convention.

I. JOSEPH WOODRUFF BOZEMAN—1833.

The writer of these Sketches, born in Lowndes county, Alabama, November 1, 1833. Spent my boyhood from six years old in Winston county, Mississippi, at Coopwood, my father's homestead, 12 miles south-east of Louisville, and grew up there upon the farm, in a remote rural district, where I had but limited opportunities for getting an education. I did regularly the labor of a farmer's son until the year 1854, when, in my twenty-first year, I began a course of education that continued several years in schools and colleges. My boyhood teachers were three uncles, Perry Woodruff, Rev. Nathaniel E. Woodruff, and Isaac Leatherwood; also, Elliott Watkins, Noah P. Beaman, and Rev. C. C. Lee. In the Fall and Winter of 1854 I took a course of elocution under Prof. Samuel Copeland.

During 1855—1857—inclusive—I attended school in Coosa county, Alabama, taught by Professors Walkley, Michael Savage, Revs. B. T. Smith and A. T. Holmes, at Central Institute. My noble kinsman, Col. David W. Bozeman, furnished me the means of getting an education as though I were his son. The Spring of 1858 I spent with my father, and taught a school at Enon church in Winston county, Mississippi. In October I entered the University of Virginia, where I was a student three years in the literary departments. In August, 1861, I took a school at Ebenezer, Holmes county, Mississippi. Next year I taught near Goodman in the same county. March 5, 1862, I married Miss Mary Ella Sneed, of Richmond, Virginia, and returned at once to Goodman, Mississippi. In 1863 I taught at Plattsburg, in Winston county, Mississippi, and afterwards in Richmond, Virginia. In 1864, April 24th, I was ordained a Baptist preacher by Drs. J. B. Jeter, J. L. Burrows, D. Shaver, W. E. Hatcher, J. B. Solomon, and Henry Watkins, and took charge of the Belvidere—now Pine Street—church, Richmond. Toward the close of the year I returned to Mississippi, and in March, 1865, became pastor of the Baptist church in Lexington, where I remained nearly six years, serving Lexington with Oregon all the time, and with Acona and Harland's Creek part of the time.

October 1, 1870, I took the pastorate of the Baptist church in Aberdeen, Mississippi, where I served till December 1, 1879, nearly ten years. A part of my time there I was also engaged in school teaching—three sessions as Principal of Public Schools, and one year as Professor of Languages in the Mississippi Military Institute. A short time I was Superintendent of Public Schools for Monroe county. Several years, while pastor of the Aberdeen church, I preached once a month at Maldon, afterwards at Trinity and Bethel. In 1878 I preached once a month, as pastor, at West Point, Mississippi.

While in Aberdeen I lost my first wife, who died of peritonitis August 25, 1872, leaving four children. On the 19th day of August, 1875, I married my second wife, Miss Julia A. Evans, of Aberdeen, daughter of Wm. G. Evans.

December 1, 1879, I became pastor of the First Baptist church in Meridian, Mississippi, where I still serve at this date, August 12, 1885.

I have attended Southern Baptist Conventions as follows: in Richmond, 1859; Memphis, 1867; St. Louis, 1871; Mobile, 1873; Nashville, 1878; Lexington, Ky., 1880; Columbus, Miss., 1881. I have attended the Northern Baptist Anniversaries in Chicago, 1871, New York in 1882. My attendance upon Mississippi Baptist State Conventions was in Jackson, 1866; Holly Springs, 1867; Meridian, 1868; Canton, 1869; West Point, 1870, where I preached the Introductory Sermon; Meridian again, 1872; Aberdeen, 1873, where I was pastor Starkville, 1877; Okolona, 1880; Meridian, the third time, 1881, where I was pastor; Sardis, 1882, where I preached the Introductory Sermon; Crystal Springs, 1883; Kosciusko, 1884; Aberdeen, again, 1885. I have preached College Commencement sermons in Jackson, Tennessee, 1872; Marion, Alabama, for the Howard and the Judson combined, 1873; Starkville, Mississippi, 1875; Aberdeen, 1877; Oxford, 1878, for the University of Mississippi, at which time that institution conferred upon me the degree of Doctor of Divinity; Meridian, 1871, the Missionary Sermon at Mississippi College, 1880; also an address, in place of L. Q. C. Lamar, who failed to come, as expected; Commencement Sermon, Clinton, 1883, before Mississippi College and Central Institute combined; Shuqualak, 1885; also, Rose Hill, 1885.

I was baptized at Enon church, Winston county, Mississippi, October, 1849, by my uncle, Rev. Nathaniel E. Woodruff; married first by Rev. Dr. L. W. Seeley, in Richmond, Virginia, March 5, 1862; second, by Rev. R. N. Hall in Aberdeen, Mississippi, August 19, 1875. My stature is small, 5 feet 6 inches in height, 150 pounds in weight; complexion, dark; hair, black; eyes, brown; blood, Dutch English, and Irish.

MERIDIAN, MISS.

"The closing exercises of Meridian Female College, the oldest educational institution in the city, under the patronage of the Baptist denomination, has been the theme of society gossip this week.

"The M. F. C. has been in charge of Miss Mannie Woods, now Mrs. Dr. J. R. Phillips, for the past few years, and has continued to maintain its long established reputation as one of the best female institutions of learning in the State. The Commencement exercises began last Sunday, when the annual sermon was delivered in the First Baptist church in this city by Rev. E. E. King, of Starkville.

"There was but one graduate this year, Miss Jessie Bozeman, daughter of Rev. Dr. Bozeman, pastor of the First Baptist church in this city, and her essay entitled 'Truth the Cardinal Point of History,' gave evidence of a well-trained and thoughtful mind.

"It should be mentioned to the credit of the young lady that Miss Bozeman, in addition to her diploma, also received a medal, which was awarded to her for the purity of her language, she never having been known, either at home, in the school, or on the play-ground, to have indulged in the use of 'slang' words."

3. Joseph Woodruff Bozeman, born in Lexington, Mississippi, November 8, 1869; joined the First Baptist church in Meridian, Miss., September, 1883; has won distinctions in his school as a good scholar; has gained some reputation in art, especially crayon portraits. 4. Mary Ella Bozeman, born in Aberdeen, Mississippi, August 25, 1872; a small delicate child; lost her mother when three days old; joined the First Baptist church in Meridian September, 1883, at the age of 11. She has black hair and eyes, and is the best reader of all my children.

CHILDREN OF JOSEPH W. AND JULIA EVANS
BOZEMAN.

1. William Evans Bozeman, born in Aberdeen, Mississippi, October 15, 1878. He is now nearly seven years old, a healthy, intelligent boy, with much promise of being a fine man. His hair and eyes are black. We call him Evans. He was named after his grandfather, Wm. G. Evans, of Aberdeen, Mississippi, who died the 18th of March, 1885.

2. James Bozeman, born in Meridian, Mississippi, September 23, 1883, on Sunday at 11 o'clock A. M.—a beautiful child, with black hair and eyes. He was dedicated in infancy by his father to the Foreign Mission work of the Baptists. He is very much like his grandfather Bozeman in personal appearance; has a bright mind and remarkable command of language for a child 22 months old.

The SNEAD family of Virginia, to which J. W. Bozeman's first wife belonged, were people of sterling character, acknowledged prominence and large influence. They were for the most part firm, active Baptists. Her father, Maj. Jesse Snead, and her uncle, Dr. Albert Snead, both of Richmond, were noted men in their callings and in their denomination. For talent, integrity and robust piety they had no superiors. Her brother, Thos. L. Snead, was a lawyer in St. Louis, Missouri, till the Confederate war; then he was Gen. Sterling Price's chief of staff, and afterwards a member of the Confederate Congress. When the war closed he chose New York city for his future home, and resumed the practice of law. He adjusted the debts of Arkansas and Georgia with great honor to himself and satisfaction to the States. It is a little remarkable that in his case with Georgia, Dr. James F. Bozeman represented the State. Another brother, Robert B. Snead, is one of the best known and most loved men in Richmond, Virginia, where he has spent his life in positions of trust. Others of the name have won distinction in Virginia, Tennessee and Texas. Dr. Albert Snead, of Waco, Texas, is a prominent man and talented physician. More than two hundred years ago Nathaniel Snead was a leading member of the Broadmead Baptist church, Bristol, England.

The EVANS family of Aberdeen, Mississippi, of whom J. W. Bozeman's second wife was a member, came from Georgia, and are noble leaders in all the higher attainments and enterprises of their community, possessing wealth, culture, position, energy and the finest family connexions. They, too, are Baptists of the very best type. Two of her brothers, Drs. F. H. and W. A. Evans, are eminent physicians. The first studied medicine in Paris, France. Two others, Thos. R. and Capt. J. J. Evans, are large planters. The last holds the office of Chancery Clerk of Monroe county, and is a prominent Democrat in the State politics of Mississippi. At the close of the war he was on the staff of Gen. Joseph Davis, with the rank of Captain. Drs. F. H. and W. A. Evans were post surgeons in the Confederate army. The family are of Welsh extraction. In stature they are very tall, and fine looking, with dark hair and eyes. These are children of William Gilbert and Adeline Heard Evans.

2. JOSIAH NATHAN BOZEMAN—1836—1860.

Second son of Jefferson R. and Mahala Woodruff Bozeman, born in Lowndes county, Alabama, April 10, 1836, was the daily youthful companion of the writer. He was no lover of books, but fond of the chase, industrious and honest. He married Miss Catharine Ayer, of Choctaw county, Mississippi, and died soon afterwards at our father's house in Winston county, May, 1860, at the age of 24. His son was born after his decease, on the 4th day of July, 1860. The widow, with her son, returned to Choctaw county, where she raised him in habits of industry and sobriety, but without much education. The son bears his father's name. His mother died in 1883, and he married in 1884 in Choctaw county, where he now lives. Nathan was tall, with dark hair and grey eyes. He was a farmer, a Democrat, and a Baptist. His grave is at Enon church, near Coopwood, Miss.

3. MARGARET E. BOZEMAN

Married Spencer Leatherwood, who died while a soldier of the Confederate army. Their only child, a little girl, died about the close of the war. Margaret died of congestion September 1, 1885, in Panola county, Mississippi, in her 47th year.

4. JEFFERSON R. BOZEMAN, JR.—1842.

Was always of delicate health, small stature, and of very dark complexion. He suffered much as a soldier in the 36th Mississippi Regiment, C. S. A., commanded by the brilliant and beloved Col. Barry, of Columbus. Jeff. was captured at the battle of Corinth, in the Fall of 1863, and endured fearful hardships before his return. The writer found him in a hospital in Jackson, Mississippi, December, 1863, nearly dead from exposure and slow fever. By careful nursing he recovered. When able he returned to the army and served in Gen. Joseph E. Johnston's campaign from Tennessee to Atlanta, Georgia. He was previously in the siege of Vicksburg, and afterwards in Gen. Hood's fatal march to Tennessee in the Winter of 1864. Just at the close of the war he was captured at Blakely and carried a prisoner to Ship Island, where he was subjected to horrible indignities from Negro guards. When the war ended he returned to his father's home in Winston county, Mississippi, where he remained till February, 1870; then they all moved to Panola county and bought a home near Pope's Station. He is a farmer, a Democrat, an active Baptist, and a bachelor. This year—1885—he is spending in Louisiana, St. Landry parish.

5. A. CAMPBELL BOZEMAN—1844.

Served in the U. S. Army, 36th Mississippi Regiment, in the same company with his brother Jeff., and endured similar hardships, except the capture at Corinth. In 1866 he moved to Bastrop county, Texas, and married Miss Cornelia Ferguson. He had no taste for books, but was a brave soldier, an industrious man, a farmer, a Democrat, and a Baptist. His eyes are grey, and his complexion fairer than others of the family. His children are: Viola Venada, born 1868, married G. W. Hamilton, of Texas, December 20, 1882; William Jefferson, born 1871; Joseph Woodruff, 1875; James N., 1878, and Thomas Ewing, 1881. His postoffice is Caldwell's Store, Bastrop county, Texas.

6. ETHELDRED WORTH BOZEMAN—1847.

Served part of the time of the C. S. war as a Mississippi cavalryman. He married Miss Nannie Franklin, of Noxubee county, Mississippi, and moved to Texas, Collin county. In 1869 he returned to Mississippi and spent four years, and then went back to Texas. He never loved books, yet was a great talker. He was taller than his brothers, much stooped, and with very little beard; of swarthy complexion, with brown eyes and hair. His children are: Jefferson Franklin, born 1869; Joseph Worth, 1871; James A., 1872; William E. 1876, and Margaret Arnett, 1877. Worth is a farmer, a Democrat, and a Baptist. He lives in Collin county, Texas, Farmerville postoffice.

7. MARY YARBROUGH BOZEMAN.

Short, plump, and a brunette, married William E. King, a grandson of Mrs. Mary Yarbrough, after whom she was named. He died in 1883. She lives in Panola county, Mississippi, and has three children—Joseph, May and Ella.

8. ELISHA DAVID BOZEMAN—1857.

The last child of Jefferson R. and Mahala Woodruff Bozeman, married Miss Mattie Ward, of Panola county, and bought his father's homestead. He was one of the handsomest of the family, with fine black eyes, but in 1880 one of them became diseased and lost its sight. His height is 5 feet and 7 inches. He is a farmer, a Democrat, and a Baptist. Their first child, a son, was born December 13, 1884, and named Thurman.

ELISHA THOMPSON BOZEMAN—1810.

Born in Twiggs county, Georgia, April 8, 1810, the youngest child of Joseph and Elizabeth Pendleton Bozeman, married Miss Jane Leatherwood in Lowndes county, Alabama, January 31, 1832, the daughter of James and Jane Leatherwood, from Spartanburg district, South Carolina. Their son, David Lee Bozeman, born February 18, 1834, was my childhood playmate and first cousin. Elisha T. Bozeman lost his first wife October 24, 1847. He married his second wife, Miss Parthena Leatherwood, November 23, 1848. She died in Dallas county, Alabama, December 19, 1874, leaving two children, James Holland Bozeman, born September 3, 1852, and Sarah Margaret Bozeman, born October 28, 1857. E. T. Bozeman joined the Baptist church at New Bethel, Lowndes county, Alabama, and was baptized with his first wife by Alex. Watson July, 1833. His second wife and his son David were baptized at the above church by M. L. McWilliams September, 1848. E. T. Bozeman lived in Lowndes county, Alabama, nearly thirty years. About the year 1856 he moved to Dallas county, and resided at Cambridge fifteen or eighteen years, and prospered in business. He then removed to Cahaba, and resided there a few years. He spent 1880 near Uniontown, Perry county, with his son-in-law, A. B. Harwood. Afterwards he returned to Dallas county, where he now lives, May 18, 1885, at Gulf Junction. In form he is slender, 5 feet 9 inches in height. When young his hair was black, his eyes black and sparkling, his complexion ruddy. He is a Baptist, and has served his church as Deacon, Sunday School Superintendent, and leading member in various capacities. He has been a lifelong Democrat, but no office-seeker. His district had his services as magistrate. Farming and merchandise have been his chief pursuits. In these he had gratifying success, and possessed a comfortable estate at the time of the war. His home was one of competence and hospitality. All his life he has been a wise, good, and useful man, respected and beloved by his neighbors. I had a delightful visit to his house in July, 1883. Dear uncle, the only survivor of his father's children.

There he received a slight wound. They were in Hood's Division, Longstreet's Corps. On another occasion, with his own company alone he fought two Yankee gun-boats on the James river until the Yankees landed, surrounded him with their great numbers, and captured him with his entire company. The commander of the gun-boats complimented him very highly for his bravery in fighting so persistently against such odds, though the promised reinforcements failed to come to his aid. Carried a prisoner of war to Norfolk he was soon exchanged, and in the Confederate service again. During the terrible conflict at Chickamauga Capt. Bozeman was severely wounded in the thigh. Thus disabled he went home to regain strength for the service of his country. At the earliest opportunity he rejoined his command. When the awful struggle of the Wilderness opened at Spottsylvania Court House, May 2, 1864, he, though very lame, was with his company, and against their earnest and loving entreaties he would lead them into the tempest of leaden hail. There he received a mortal wound through the left hip, from which he died on the 10th day of May, eight days after his hurt. He was buried under a cedar tree at Spottsylvania Court-House, Virginia. Thus ended the career of one of the bravest and best beloved of Confederate soldiers. He was an ornament to his family and church, and an honor to his native South. A wife and three children were left to mourn their great loss. The children were Walter-Lee, born in 1858, and died in 1872; Janie and Jeanette, twins, born in 1860. Jeanette married Daniel F. Crum. They all live at Farmersville, Ala.

OBITUARY.

DIED, at Farmersville, Lowndes county, March 28th, 1885, Mrs. Mary I. Bozeman, in the 46th year of her age. She was the widow of the late Capt. D. L. Bozeman, of the 44th Alabama regiment. She had long been a member of our church, and gave constant evidence of the refining and softening influence of grace in the heart. Kind and gentle in spirit, she was not accustomed to speaking unkindly of others; and having an abiding faith in God, she was cheerful and hopeful amid surroundings calculated to produce despondency. The general expression of the feelings of her neighbors and of the members of her church that "she will be so much missed," showed that although quiet and modest in demeanor, she had lived to make herself felt for good in the community in which most of her life had been spent. Expecting to die she showed no sign of fear or distress, but spoke of it calmly and uncomplainingly, and when death came quietly yielded up her spirit to her Lord and Savior. One by one "God's children are gathering home." May we all so live that like our sister, we shall be missed when we die.

ELISHA T. AND PARTHENA LEATHERWOOD
BOZEMAN'S CHILDREN.

1. JAMES HOLLAND BOZEMAN.

Born in Lowndes county, Alabama, September 3, 1852. He married Miss Fannie Davidson, of Clark county, Alabama, February, 1879, an excellent lady of fine family. They moved to Texas, where they now live. Their children are two little girls—Bessie, born 1880, and Anna Calhoun, born 1883.

2. SALLIE MARGARET BOZEMAN.

Born in Dallas county, Alabama, October 28, 1857; married A. B. Harwood October 28, 1875; baptized by W. B. Crumpton; has one child, Mary Elizabeth. Cousin Sallie is one of my most esteemed correspondents. She lives with her father at Gulf Junction, eight or ten miles east of Selma. She has black hair and eyes, small stature, a good education, and fine musical talent. It was my privilege to visit them in July, 1883, and enjoy the company of Uncle Elisha, Cousin Sallie and bright little Mary for several days. I set great value upon her as a cultivated Christian lady, the stay and comfort of her father in his declining years. She is a good performer on the piano, and a successful teacher.

ELIZA BOZEMAN—1805.

Daughter of Joseph and Elizabeth Pendleton Bozeman, born 1805, married Adley Alexander, and died young, leaving one or two children.

EVELINE BOZEMAN—1808.

Sister of Eliza, born 1808, married Jack Robertson, had five sons, James, William, Andrew, Jefferson, and Elisha. All are dead.

Here ends the Sketches of my grandfather, Joseph Bozeman, and his descendants.

CHAPTER II.

II. SAMUEL BOZEMAN—1758.

Son of Samuel and Ann Richardson Bozeman, was born, as my father thought, about the year 1758, probably in Bladen county, North Carolina. He and his family went with his brother Joseph, my grandfather, to Illinois in the year 1806, and returned to Dublin, Laurens county, Georgia, a little court-house town on the Oconee river. There my father visited them when a small boy. More than this I have not been able to learn of him or his descendants.

III. CELIA BOZEMAN—1761.

Daughter of Samuel and Ann Richardson Bozeman, born, as I suppose, in Bladen county, North Carolina, about 1761, and married to Stephen Stephens, of Georgia. Their children were Alipha, or Elipha, James, Thomas, Milledge, Luke, and Burriel, or Burwell. They live in Georgia at this date, 1885.

IV. JACOB BOZEMAN—1763.

Third son of Samuel and Ann Richardson Bozeman, born in Bladen county, North Carolina, about the year 1763, served in the Revolution on the side of the Colonies. At an early day he moved to Kentucky, near Bowling Green, and subsequently to Indiana, where he died in 1837, and was buried at New Harmony. His first wife was Miss Fannie Allen, his second Miss Sarah Patrick. He was a man of integrity and enterprise, and stood high with his fellow-citizens. His height was about 5 feet 7 inches, his build thick, complexion dark. He was a farmer, a Democrat, and a Baptist.

CHILDREN OF JACOB BOZEMAN.

1. Elizabeth, who married a Mr. Russell—all I know of her.
2. Fannie married Mr. Rhone, and lived near Bowling Green, Kentucky, where George Rhone, one of her sons, and other descendants still reside.
3. Sina, or Lina, married Mr. Barnhill—all my information.
4. William. This name was sent me in the list of his children. If there was such a son I cannot learn more of him.
5. Phineas moved to Mississippi and lived near Natchez. One of his sons was named Levi. This is the sum of my information about them.
6. Samuel, born about 1795, married Miss Parma Cherry in Kentucky in 1815, was killed by being thrown from a horse. His home was in southern Illinois or Indiana. The children of Samuel and Parma Cherry Bozeman were three sons and two daughters.

(a) William Cherry Bozeman, born in White county, Illinois, 1816, died in Poseyville, Indiana, 1872. His hair was very black, eyes blue. He was a man of fine business talent, a banker, a Methodist, and a strong Republican. He married Miss Rebecca A. Phillips near Phillipstown, Illinois. Their children were three sons:

VIRGIL PHILLIPS BOZEMAN,

Born in Illinois, 1840, a resident of Poseyville, Indiana, a banker, and one of the largest land holders in his part of the State, a man of first-class business talent, of most excellent character, a Christian gentleman of worth and prominence. Several letters have passed between him and the author. His wife, Miss Sarah E. Jaquess—pronounced Jake-us, I believe—is a beautiful lady of an influential family in Southern Indiana and Illinois. They were married in 1872, but have no children. My information is that they are Methodists and Republicans. Fountain and William, the other two sons, died young, before marriage. It is to be hoped that Virgil will not be the last of his honored branch of the Bozeman family.

(b) Leonard, son of Samuel and Parma Cherry Bozeman, was born 1821, and died 1862. His complexion was dark, and weight 135 pounds. He owned and managed the Poseyville, Indiana, Cotton Mills. The maiden name of his wife was Jane R. Jaquess, born 1829, married 1852, died in 1869.

Two children were born to them. SCOBIE S. BOZEMAN, their son, lives at Poseyville, Indiana, and is engaged in the grain business. He has traveled over all the western States and Territories, having been with the United States Army, as a civilian, on account of his health, though in the government employ in the Quartermaster department. He was with Lieut. Clark in the battle of Powder River, and with the command that buried Gen. Custer and his men that were killed in the battle of the Little Big Horn. He helped to locate and build Forts Custer, Keogh and Assinaboin. He has never married. IDA B. BOZEMAN, the daughter of Leonard and Jane Jaquess Bozeman, married J. E. Anderson, a merchant of Poseyville, in October, 1882.

(c) Julia A. Bozeman, daughter of Samuel and Parma Cherry Bozeman, married Mr. Clark Rose, and died in 1872, leaving two children, George and Mary.

(d) Washington Bozeman died when a young man.

(e) Matilda, daughter of Samuel Bozeman, married Mr. Willis Council and moved to Iowa, where she died.

7. James, son of Jacob Bozeman, born about 1800, married Miss Rebecca Hubbard in Shawnee town, Illinois, in 1820. She was born in Green county, Kentucky, August, 1800, and died in Illinois December 6, 1857. James Bozeman was farmer and a flat-boat pilot on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers to New Orleans. On one of their trips, while at Vicksburg, he arose early in the morning, as usual, examined the boat and river, conversed cheerfully with friends, and then lay down again to rest awhile. A nephew on board, surprised at his sleeping later than was his custom, went to awake him, and found him dead. He had not been sick. They buried him at Vicksburg. That was about the year 1835, in probably the 36th year of his age. Mr. Blackford, the owner of the boat, was with him. James Bozeman left three living children.

(a) Matson, born in Illinois about 1820, died in 1840, and was buried in the clothes he had purchased for his expected wedding.

(b) Elizabeth, born June 11, 1828, married Jas. Fackney, a gentleman from Scotland, a merchant and mill man, September 24, 1850, who was Captain of Company L, 87th Regiment Illinois Infantry, Federal army, and was at Vicksburg when the city was captured. The writer of these Sketches had two brothers, with many kindred and friends, there in the Confederate army. Mrs. Elizabeth Bozeman Fackney went twice with her husband to England, Scotland and Ireland, in the years 1870 and 1873. She writes interesting accounts of these tours. After the death of her first husband she married his cousin, a Scotchman, Mr. C. L. McViear, September 22, 1880, a man of fine moral character and business habits. They live in comfortable circumstances in Carmi, Illinois. She is a woman of fine character; a valued correspondent of the author, an active member of the Methodist church, a lover of righteousness, and a hater of iniquity.

(b) Phineas Bozeman, born July 13, 1830, was in the Mexican war in 1848; married Miss Cassa Cochran, and died in 1875, left six children, as follows: James R., born 1851; Presbyterian; miller by trade, Carmi, Illinois; owns half of the Iona flour mills; married Mary Jane Graham, and has one living child, a son, born October 9, 1883, and named Ernest. Annie, born April 24, 1856, married Mr. Taylor February 23, 1877, a machinist. They live in Keokuk, Iowa, and are doing well. She is a fine, intelligent woman. Their family consists of two boys and one girl, Claude, Eugene and Grace. Henry S., born September 24, 1860, a miller, married young; has charge of a large merchant mill in Lincoln, Nebraska; married Clara P. Miller, and has one child, Irena, born July 30, 1883. Eva, born July 24, 1863, married Mr. Hays October, 1878, a miller, in Carmi, Illinois. Alice, born February 4, 1865; as a child she was bright and pretty, stood head in her classes, but rheumatism and neuralgia, after twelve years of age, obliged her to go on crutches, and then she lost her eyesight. She was educated partly at St. Joseph's Academy at Corlent, Missouri, near St. Louis, and afterwards at Jacksonville, Illinois. She is a fine musician, vocal and instrumental, and a member of the Methodist church. Isaac, born May 18, 1867, lives with his brother James in Carmi, Illinois, and is learning the mill business.

8. Silvia, daughter of Jacob Bozeman, married a Mr. Randolph.

9. Sallie married a Mr. Conn.

10. Irena, daughter of Jacob Bozeman, born in Kentucky in 1809, married James M. Heard, who died about 1871. He was a son of Charles Heard, and a grandson of Stephen Heard, who went from Tennessee. The Bozemans and Heards have been connected by marriage in several instances. Mrs. Irena Bozeman Heard died in McLeansboro, Illinois, August, 1884, leaving a son, Joseph A. Heard, and three daughters. She had been a Baptist fifty-seven years. One of her daughters, Mrs. Elmira Frazier, resides in Bozeman City, Montana. The original Heard of this family came from county Tyrone, Ireland, to South Carolina, and was a Captain in the Revolution, on the side of American independence. This branch of the Heard family contains a number of prominent men, lawyers, judges and Congressmen, in Kentucky, Missouri and Indiana.

11. Serena, daughter of Jacob Bozeman, married Mr. Rogers.

12. Luke Jackson Bozeman married Miss Nancy Crofts, a lady of fine business tact. He resided in Carmi, Illinois, where he died August 28, 1876, a member of the Baptist church. They had five children. Their eldest daughter married Richard McKinney; the second, Ann, married Josiah Cruse; Caroline, Yerby Land; Fidelia, Homer Floyd; Prudence, born 1860, a young lady of good education, devoted before her marriage to the noble work of teaching, married Morris Frieker in 1883, and lives in New Haven, Illinois. I have obtained many valuable items from her interesting letters to me. Thomas, the only son of Jackson and Nancy Crofts Bozeman, married Miss Mollie Kelly, and lived in Arkansas at Batesville for a time, and then in Illinois.

13. Elmira, daughter of Jacob Bozeman, married Mr. Haynes.

14. Wimpy married Bailly Anderson and lived near Memphis, Tennessee, where he was murdered by his negroes. Not a member of any church, but a true believer in Christ and a Baptist in sentiment. She departed this life in 1865.

This closes what I know of Jacob Bozeman and his descendants.

The eighth child of Samuel and Ann Bozeman was born, according to the record family Bible, in Bladen county, North Carolina, March 27, 1774. He came to Georgia when about fourteen years of age, say in 1788, and was christened in that State by the distinguished Hope Hull, of the Methodist church, in 1790. Mrs. Waterman, who knew him when a lad of seventeen or eighteen as a student in his father's law office in Louisville, Georgia, at that time the capital of the State, says he was handsome, and noted even then for his great amiability of character. When his father's office was moved to Milledgeville, James took up his residence there, in 1804, and remained a citizen of that place until his death in the summer of 1834, at the village of Seconia, about ten miles from Milledgeville, where he died September 3, 1834, in the 61st year of his age. VIII. JAMES BOZEMAN—1774—1834.

The eighth child of Samuel and Ann Richardson Bozeman was born, according to the record in family Bible, in Bladen county, North Carolina, March 27, 1774. He came to Georgia when he was about fourteen years of age, say in 1778, and was christened in that State by the distinguished P. Hope Hull, of the Methodist church, in the year 1790. Mrs. Waterman, who knew him when he was a lad of seventeen or eighteen as a student in his father's law office in Louisville, Georgia, at that time the capital of the State, says he was tall, handsome, and noted even then for his intelligence and great amiability of character. When the family was moved to Milledgeville, James Bozeman took up his residence there, in 1804, and remained a citizen of that place until his death. He had his summer home at the village of Scottsboro, 30 miles from Milledgeville, where he died of pneumonia September 3, 1834, in the 61st year of his age. He was twice married. His first wife was Miss Mounger, a lady of rare loveliness of person.

character, and who was connected with some of the first families in the State. She was a cousin of William Crosby Dawson, who for many years represented his district in Congress.

His second wife was Mrs. Margaret Shelton, of Greensborough, Georgia, whom he married February 20, 1820. Her maiden name was Trant, of King William county, Virginia, born December 22, 1787. Her father, Laurence Trant, was an Irishman, the younger son of a titled family. She was one of the noblest, wisest, and loveliest of women.

James Bozeman was over, six feet tall, and weighed in later life more than two hundred pounds, yet well proportioned. He had black hair, full, mild, dark blue eyes, with heavy eye-brows and lashes, dark complexion, and very heavy beard, always clean shaven. He was honest, truthful, high-toned, and generous to a fault, full of hospitality and kindness. For the last thirty years of his life he was connected with the State government in the Comptroller's department. The State entrusted to him the transfer of the records from Louisville to Milledgeville, in 1804, when the capital was moved. He was afterwards cashier of the State bank, called at that time the Central Bank of Georgia.

Among his most intimate friends were Dr. Tomlinson Fort, a distinguished physician of Milledgeville and a member of Congress; John Clarke, one of the best Governors Georgia ever had; Farish Carter, Esq., Seaton Grantland, editor and member of Congress, and Richard Orme, with many other prominent men of the State. From a letter of James Bozeman to Dr. Tomlinson Fort, member of Congress, written in January, 1828, and now in my possession, we see that he was a leader in Georgia politics, in a private way, and had much weight in the appointment of officers, both in the State and the general government.

DR. JAMES FORT BOZEMAN—1824—1877.

Son of James and Margaret Trant Bozeman, married Miss Evelina Chambers, daughter of Col. James M. Chambers, of Columbus, Georgia, February 5, 1851, a lady of piety, intelligence and culture, who now—1885—resides in Atlanta. The following obituary notices of Dr. Bozeman speak of his greatness and goodness in glowing terms. They are from the Atlanta Constitution, the Savannah News, and the Christian Index.

DR. JAMES F. BOZEMAN.

The unexpected death of this gentleman, which occurred yesterday morning, threw the city of Atlanta into grief. He was in our office on last Saturday evening, apparently in perfect health. We had a pleasant talk with him, and did not dream that his long career of honor and usefulness was about to be cut short in so summary a manner.

Dr. Bozeman was 53 years of age at the time of his death, having been born in Milledgeville in May, 1824. He was educated in Oglethorpe University, and then went to the Pennsylvania Medical College, graduating there in 1845. He went to Columbus in 1847 and engaged in the practice of Medicine. In 1846 he was made Assistant Surgeon in the United States army and went to Mexico with the Georgia mounted volunteers. He served through the Mexican war, and then returned to Columbus, where a career of profit and honor arose before him. In 1861 he was elected Mayor of Columbus. He was for many years president of the Home Insurance Company, and was at the time of his death director of the Central railroad, and Financial Agent of the State of Georgia, and President of the Board of Trustees of the Lunatic Asylum.

Dr. Bozeman has always been a sagacious financier, and a prudent man. His fortune has grown steadily but surely, and his administration of commercial affairs was uniformly successful. When the legislature ordered Governor Smith to appoint a financial agent to enquire into the bonded debt of the State, and report upon it, Dr. Bozeman was selected for this place. The choice was a wise one, and Dr. B. did the State immense service. Dr. Bozeman was a kind and courteous gentleman, a sincere Christian and devoted friend, an enlightened capitalist, and a faithful officer. Atlanta rises to commend his life and do honor to his memory.

THE LATE DR. JAMES F. BOZEMAN.

A letter from our Atlanta correspondent, "Chatham," furnishes the following additional particulars of the death of Dr. Bozeman, to which we briefly alluded yesterday. The writer says:

"Dr. Bozeman was best known, of late, as a capitalist and financier, having been connected, in Columbus, with the Georgia Home Insurance Company, and other enterprises, and after his removal to Atlanta, he became identified with the finances of the State, in the proper arrangement of the bonds. This complicated work extended through a period of some two years.

"His last service was of a public character, and from it, no doubt, resulted his death. On Friday he returned from Milledgeville, where as President of the Board of Trustees, he had been on an official visit to the Insane Asylum. The trip had somewhat deranged his system, but not until 2 o'clock on Sunday morning did his illness become serious, at which time he had a severe attack of cholera morbus. All medical skill proved unavailing, and at 9 o'clock on Monday morning his spirit winged its flight heavenward.

"We believe the deceased had but one child, Mrs. W. H. Parsons, of Sandersville, whom he last week visited while on his way to Milledgeville. Yet he leaves a wife and a large circle of relations and friends to mourn his sudden death in the prime of life, and in the midst of his best services for the State he loved so well. On Sunday morning, just as the crisis came upon him, our people were reading Dr. Bozeman's able and clear statement of Georgia's true indebtedness, which the News recently copied from the New York Journal of Commerce in which influential paper it bore the simple signature of 'A Georgian.' This grand and unanswerable defense of the credit and honor of our State by one who had studied the subject more fully and with greater minuteness than any one else could have done without occupying his official standpoint, will remain a noble monument to his memory, as well as serve to show how important it is that such services should never be delayed. Had Dr. Bozeman postponed the writing of this important letter until his return from Milledgeville, as might have been the case, the State would suddenly lost in the silence of death a voice that could speak in clear and undeniable tones in defense of her honor and integrity. As his dying legacy to the people of Georgia this letter should gather many a grateful tribute to his new-made grave in Oakland Cemetery, Atlanta, where his once commanding figure now lies cold in death."

[From the Christian Index]

DR. JAMES F. BOZEMAN.

General sorrow prevailed in our city at the announcement of the death of Dr. Bozeman, which occurred in this city on Monday, the 10th inst., after an illness of only two days. The funeral services took place on Tuesday at 4 o'clock, in the Second Baptist church of which church he was a deacon.

A great concourse of the friends of the deceased, and of citizens, had gathered to pay the last tribute of affection to the remains of one whom all had learned to honor, and whose memory will ever remain bright and fresh in the heart of every Christian, and of every lover of the Commonwealth for whose welfare and fame Dr. Bozeman had labored zealously and successfully.

The representatives of our State government, and many of the leading physicians of the State, were present. The coffin, beautifully decorated with flowers, was borne into the church by Hon. John H. James, Mayor Angier, John Milledge, Esq., Col. W. A. Bedell, Mr. C. I. Brown and Prof. John Isham.

The opening prayer was offered by Rev. J. H. DeVotie, D. D., who in a touching supplication besought a sanctification of the terrible blow to the afflicted family and community.

The pastor, Dr. Spalding, delivered a touching address on the life and character of the deceased. It was full of pathos and simple eloquence. Our readers will find this beautiful tribute to the virtues of our departed brother given in full below.

Dr. Spalding was followed by Dr. DeVotie. His remarks brought tears to many eyes as he told with simple fervor the story of a devoted, true life, and illustrated it with incidents of his own personal knowledge. DeVotie had known Dr. Bozeman from his youth. He received him into the church and baptized him.

The fine choir rendered several beautiful and appropriate hymns. The procession that followed the remains to the cemetery was very imposing, and the services at the grave affected the multitude present with their impressive solemnity.

REV. DR. SPALDING'S REMARKS ON THE LIFE AND CHARACTER OF DR. BOZEMAN.

Dr. Bozeman was no ordinary man. His natural qualities were undoubtedly superior. He had elements of true greatness and power. Nature did more for him than most men. His training was adapted to such a nature.

At Oglethorpe University he laid the basis of his scholastic culture, and in the Medical Department of the University of Pennsylvania made the preparation for a professional career unsurpassed in our State. His mind was an original one. He was no copyist. He thought for himself. He relied on his own resources. He was always himself—independent in his investigations, clear in analysis, with broad powers of discernment. His spirit was an independent one. While prudent and conservative, he nevertheless had a judgement of his own, and, if necessary, he shrank not from declaring it. But mere natural ability and advanced culture do not constitute true nobility. Character has as much to do as intellect and training in making a man, and in constituting usefulness. It is not always that mind and character go together. Many a splendid intellect has been associated with moral imbecility, or with what is worse, moral deformity. The history of genius, of talent, of gifts, is oftentimes exceedingly sad, because of moral blightings. Many strong men have been cast down by a dissolute life. Many an intellectual Samson has been shorn of his locks. The loftiest intellect is a curse rather than a blessing, when its guiding star is evil. It is only where mind is sanctified by the spirit of God, where learning and culture are subordinate to holy living, that intellectual power becomes a blessing. So essential is character—true character—to man's best life, that there are found many, even of good men, who pass through the world as cyphers, weak and inefficient, and destitute of honor. Dr. Bozeman possessed character—character as strong and superior as were his intellectual gifts. As his faculties were cultivated, so his character was cultivated. As his mind was original, self-reliant, so his character possessed a self-determining power. As his spirit was independent, so his character was one of independence.

These natural qualities and aptitudes became more marked because of superadded moral and religious culture and attainment. As with open and uncovered face, beholding as in a glass the divine image of the glorious Lord, he was progressively changed into the same image, ascending from one degree of glory to another. There will be no place more fit than this for me to say to-day, he loved the word of God. It was his constant study. We knew him as "a strict constructionist," desiring the Word to be allowed to mean just what legitimately it said—with no gloss or comment or explanation that would blunt the edge of its own native, divine simplicity, beauty and power. It was this that lent the charm of simplicity to his own views of Christian doctrine, and ethics, and worship. His desires were for the plain, unostentatious, earnest, spiritual. He loved rather the united songs of the brethren than the most finished and artistic performances in which a few alone could participate, though against these he had no perplexing conscientious scruple. He loved rather the plain burial, where a few sincere words of just tribute were spoken, than the more formal service where the elaborate discourse was formally pronounced. He loved the old familiar hymns of the fathers, of which two to-day are sung, rather than much of recent make, associated with modern psalmody. Another element of his character was his sincerity and candor. If he held an opinion, he was not ashamed to declare it. If he believed a doctrine, he was not unwilling to advocate it. What he did, he did openly. His positions were deliberately taken, and when they were once taken he was ready to maintain them. No one could complain of him that he was not understood. "He was known and read of all men."

Dr. Bozeman was an humble man. He possessed that true humility of soul that has respect to God. He was lowly in heart. He had no spiritual pride. He was not a Pharisee. He knew the plan of salvation. He discerned the Lord's body. He knew the Lord Jesus. It was because of this clear discernment of God's way of life that he had an abiding peace. He told his sister that from the time he first confessed Christ he had never had a doubt of his salvation.

On last Sunday, in his dying illness, when he stated to her that he had very peculiar feelings, (referring to his bodily condition), she said, cheerfully, "You must not be low-spirited." "Low-spirited!" he replied, "I have nothing to be depressed about. I have nothing to fear. I made my preparation long ago. I have faced death too often to be afraid now." To a friend of his early and of his latest days he was recently presenting the claims of religion, and that friend testifies that Dr. Bozeman assured him that "he was ready every day for death." He was a very patient man—in duty, in service, in suffering. It was known to few how much he suffered physically, and especially because he uttered no complaining or impatient words. He was an industrious man; systematic, regular, punctilious in the discharge of public and private trusts. He was a man of unimpeachable integrity. There comes from the records of a long life no witness against his morality, his honesty, his fidelity. Handling large financial interests for private parties and for the State, and building up his own princely estate as well, he goes down to the grave with an unspotted honor.

To this congregation and community the death of Dr. Bozeman speaks as in trumpet tones of the uncertainty of life. At 10 o'clock on Saturday night no member of his family dreamed that the messenger was at the door and that before another sun would set his last words would be spoken. On Sunday afternoon, as he returned from his official duties to his home, the friends who saw his familiar form upon the streets little thought that the next vision would be that of death. We who worshipped here in the room on last Sabbath, even while we were praying for a beloved deacon then lying on what we thought might be the bed of death, little knew that another honored deacon had received the summons, "Come up higher." "Be ye also ready!" How slight the tenure on earthly things! How needful that we have a hope of heaven!

To the members of this church I would say, our brother fulfilled the conditions of salvation. He believed and was baptized. He did more. He has won the welcome, "Well done, good and faithful servant! enter thou into the joy of thy Lord." If death must needs have come, we are honored to-day in being permitted to bury the body of one of whom the universal judgment is HE SLEEPS IN JESUS.

To his stricken family I commend that chapter of his choice which was read to-day—the 15th of 1st Corinthians. The dead shall rise. The dead in Christ shall rise in incorruption, in glory and in power. He shall bear the image of the heavenly. And when he shall have put on immortality, then you shall again behold him. Till then, into the hand of God we commit his sacred dust.

ACTION OF THE ATLANTA ACADEMY OF MEDICINE UPON THE DEATH OF DR. JAMES F. BOZEMAN.

It is with deep regret that we record the death of one of our honorary members, Dr. James Fort Bozeman, of this city, which sad event occurred on the 10th of September last, after a very brief illness.

The deceased was born May 16th, 1824, in the city of Milledgeville, Ga., received his collegiate education at Oglethorpe University, and graduated from the Medical Department of the University of Pennsylvania in 1845. The following year he commenced the practice of his profession at Columbus, Ga., but in 1846 was appointed Assistant Surgeon in the United States army, and was ordered to duty in Mexico with the Georgia Mounted Volunteers. At the close of the Mexican war Dr. Bozeman returned to Columbus, resumed his private practice, and continued it until 1862, when ill health compelled him to retire from the duties of his profession. In 1866 they were again resumed, but again abandoned for the same reason in a few months.

He removed to Atlanta in 1871 and again returned to his profession, but after a year, owing to feeble health, it was permanently abandoned.

From that period to the time of his death Dr. Bozeman was engaged in financial operations.

For several years previous to this he was President of the Georgia Home Insurance Company of Columbus, of which city he was at one time Mayor. He was at the time of his death President of the Board of Trustees of the State Insane Asylum at Milledgeville, a Director of the Central and other railroads, and Financial Agent of the State of Georgia.

Varied as were his professional and public services, the deceased has left behind him a record for faithfulness in the discharge of duty that should commend itself to all who desire to attain and deserve positions of honor and usefulness.

Dr. Bozeman held no public or private trust, assumed no obligation, during his long and active career, that was ever betrayed, or discharged without credit to himself.

His last public service was an able and unanswerable defence of his native State from the base charge of having repudiated a portion of her just obligations.

In view, therefore, of his private worth, professional acquirements and public services, it is hereby

Resolved, That in the death of Dr. James F. Bozeman society, the church, the medical profession and the State have lost a valued, honored and eminently useful man, whose private and public career is worthy of emulation.

Resolved, That the Atlanta Academy of Medicine, of which the deceased was an honorary member, while deploring its own loss, extend to the bereaved family the most sincere sympathy in their deep and sudden affliction.

The report was unanimously adopted, and, on motion, was ordered spread upon the Minutes. The Secretary was instructed to send a copy to the family of the deceased, and a copy each to the Atlanta Medical and Surgical Journal and the Atlanta Constitution for publication.—Extract from the minutes of October 9, 1877.

V. H. TALIAFERRO, M. D., PRESIDENT.
JAS. B. BAIRD, M. D., Secretary.

By the death of Dr. James Fort Bozeman the male members of his branch of our family became extinct. Let us ponder his noble character and follow his shining example. He left one child,

MATTIE EVELINA BOZEMAN,

Born December 16, 1852, and married to W. F. Parsons, of Washington county, Georgia. They live on their plantation, in a delightful country home, and have three interesting children at this date, May 9, 1885. She is a member of the Baptist church. W. F. Parsons is a man of prominence in Georgia, and was a leader in the Democratic Convention in Chicago that nominated Grover Cleveland for President of the United States, 1884.

MARRY LOUISA BOZEMAN.

Daughter of James and Margaret Trant Bozeman, and sister of Dr. James Fort Bozeman, born in Milledgeville, Georgia, June 20, 1828, married Dr. John B. Baird November 28, 1846. They lived in Columbus, Georgia, where Dr. Baird died June 24, 1871, leaving two sons, James Bozeman Baird and John Benjamin Baird. Both live in Atlanta. The former is a prominent physician, and editor of the Atlanta Medical Journal. The latter is a lawyer, and was on the staff of Gov. Colquitt during his term of office. The Bairds are an honor to their family, their profession, and their State. The following is from the National Democrat, of Washington City, May 27, 1885:

JOHN B. BAIRD, Esq.

Chief of Dead Letter Office of the Post-Office Department.

Perhaps the most prominent feature of President Cleveland's record since his inauguration has been his purpose to make his administration emphatically a business one. He has surrounded himself with energetic, practical young men whose career has demonstrated their aptitude for administrative duties and upon whose shoulders he has placed the responsibility of the success of Democratic government. We have heretofore referred with commendations to several of these appointments, and we to-day add to the number the name of John B. Baird, the chief of the Dead Letter Office of the Post-Office Department.

Mr. Baird is a native of Georgia, and was born in 1850 at Columbus in that State. He was educated at the University of Georgia, at Athens, and graduated from that institution. He also fitted himself for the position of civil engineer, and has followed that profession at intervals now and then. In 1871 he began the practice of law at Atlanta, and in 1877 was appointed Adjutant-General and Superintendent of Public Works of the State, the duties of the two offices being combined in one. He held this position for six years, and his resignation at that time was reluctantly accepted, by the incoming Governor of that State. He accepted for a time the position of Auditor of the Georgia Pacific railroad, and was shortly appointed Superintendent of Construction under Gen. Gordon of the International Steamship Company of Florida, and filled the position in a most satisfactory manner. He has also acted as superintendent in building several lines of railroads, and has had that experience with men which develops the ability to control and manage them successfully.

Mr. Baird was recommended for his present position by all the executive officers of the State, Senators Colquitt and Brown, and the Congressional delegation. To his other qualifications he adds the qualities of a well-informed gentleman, thoroughly posted in matters of general interest, and with a Democratic record of which he may well be proud.

At the age of thirty-five he enters upon its duties with all the vigor of early manhood, and will doubtless make a most efficient officer. We publish in another column an account of the workings of his department, which will be read with interest.

IX. ETHELDRED BOZEMAN.

Ninth child of Samuel and Ann Richardson Bozeman, was born in Bladen county, North Carolina, about 1776, and married Amy Carter, of Georgia, about the year 1807. He went with my grandfather, Joseph Bozeman, his oldest brother, to Illinois in 1806. While returning to Georgia the following incident occurred: One afternoon he was overtaken by a man who asked to examine his rifle. It was handed to the stranger, who claimed to be a fellow traveler, and who went on with Bozeman. They spent the night together at a settler's house. The next morning the stranger went and saddled his horse, and mounted to start, and urged Bozeman to hurry and get his horse. Bozeman went to get his horse, but found the peg of the stable door driven in so tight that he was a long time getting the door open. When he returned to the house he found that the stranger had taken Bozeman's saddle-bags, which contained his clothes and money, and had fled, to be seen by him no more.

On his return to Georgia Etheldred Bozeman lived in Twiggs county many years. He was a Primitive Baptist.

End of the Sketches of my great-grandfather, Samuel Bozeman, and his descendants.

CHAPTER IV.

MEADY BOZEMAN—1745—1809.

Born in 1745, was eleven years older than my grandfather, Joseph Bozeman, and was his first cousin. After the Revolution they moved to Georgia. Between the years 1807 and 1809 they both lived in Twiggs county. Meady Bozeman died in 1809, at the age of 64.

Notice this name, "Meady." I find it in many branches of the Bozeman family. "Meady"—where did they get this name? It may yet be a clew to trace the lineage far back into the past.

It is said that the above Meady Bozeman married twice. The name of one of his wives was Chloe Nelson. His children were: 1. Howell, born 1780; 2. Meady, born 1784; 3. Luke, born 1791; 4. John, born 1793; 5. Sally, born 1795; 6. James, born 1796; 7. Nancy, born 1798; 8. Elizabeth, born 1799.

1. Howell, born 1780, moved to Georgia, south-east part, and married Miss Nancy Cook, say in the year 1803, and lived not far from Savannah, and afterwards in Milledgeville until 1810, when he moved to Mississippi, Amite or Pike county. He was a brave soldier in the war of 1812, and was mortally wounded at Pensacola, Florida. His name is on the Pension list at Washington city.

CHILDREN OF HOWELL AND NANCY COOK BOZEMAN.

1. Meady, born in Georgia 1804; 2. Howell, born in Georgia 1805; 3. James, born in Georgia 1806; 4. Thomas, born in Georgia 1808; 5. Margaret, born in Georgia 1810.

1. Meady, son of Howell and Nancy Cook Bozeman, born in Georgia about 1804, married Miss Rachel Sanders in Mississippi, by whom he had three children—Ezekiel, born 1832, and died in C. S. army; Nancy, born 1834, who married Mr. Roberts and moved to Texas, where his sons are wealthy stock men; Joseph, born 1836, died in C. S. army. Meady Bozeman's second wife was Miss Huldah Trefau, of Hinds county, Mississippi, whom he married in 1839. There were no children by this marriage. He died near Edwards' Depot, in Hinds county, in 1840. His widow married Mr. Brooks.

2. Howell, of whom I have no further information.

3. James, born in Georgia in 1806, married Miss Mary Crider in 1826; resided in Hinds county, Mississippi, till his death, April 8, 1848. He was a man of great energy, and esteemed by all as a noble citizen and elegant gentleman.

JAMES AND MARY CRIDER BOZEMAN'S CHILDREN.

(a) Howell—the name given me, and no more.

(b) Louisa A., born in Hinds county, Mississippi, October 29, 1829, where she married Andrew J. Cassity, a most excellent gentleman of Irish descent, whose kindred generally spell the name "Cassidy," as did his family in former days. He is a man of talent, influence, enterprise, energy, striking personnel and large business success, a planter on the Mississippi river, a Methodist and a Christian. His wife, Louisa A. Bozeman, was reputed to be the most beautiful woman in Hinds county at the time of her marriage. In addition to beauty she possessed marked business tact, combined with pleasing manners. She is a Baptist, and a devout Christian, baptized by the saintly Holloway, of Jackson. While I write these lines she lingers upon a bed of extreme illness in this city of Meridian, a patient, heroic, resigned sufferer. An extraordinary woman.

IN MEMORIAM.

At the residence of Mr. Wm. D. Hurlbutt, Meridian, Miss., died Mrs. Louisa A. Bozeman Cassity, Dec. 10th, 1885, aged fifty-six years, two months, and one day.

She was the daughter of James and Mary Crider Bozeman, the wife of Andrew Cassity, and the mother of Mrs. Eugene C. Hurlbutt and Mrs. Jennie C. Dixon, a blessing and an honor to them all, to her sex, and her race. Her life was a benediction to this earth. Her departure was to us a hallowed scene, to her an end of suffering, a triumph of faith, and an entrance into paradise.

The funeral next morning from the First Baptist Church was conducted by the pastor, her kinsman, and the author of these sketches. Hymn by the Choir: "I would not live away." Scripture read: Rev. viii: 9-17. Prayer. Remarks: Hymn by the Choir; "There is rest for the weary." Then tenderly and reverently we bore her body to Rose Hill Cemetery in the western suburbs of Meridian, and laid it away in her grave on the southern slope of the hill, to rest till the morning of the resurrection. The following chaste and elegant lines written upon her death by her daughter Mrs. Eugenie C. Hurlbutt, are published at the author's request.

"Like a frail though beautiful bark tossed upon the heaving bosom of the mighty deep, with no rudder or pilot to guide it, is the soul freighted and tortured with the sins of accumulating years launching into the great mysterious Beyond, or like a worn and burdened pilgrim passing through the valley of the shadow of death with no gentle Shepherd's rod or staff to guide, no Savior's loving arm to comfort and uphold, is the unbeliever's departure from earth, but not so the Christian. My precious mother was a true child of God. Though weighed down by the heavy hand of wasting affliction, yet she bore the excruciating pain of long, weary months with a Christian fortitude that was sublime. What patience, what cheerfulness! To her were most fitly applicable the words of the patriarch: "But He knoweth the way that I take; when He hath tried me I shall come forth as gold."

"As we stood by her side in that last extreme hour, and beheld her countenance radiant with hope, beaming with an intelligence surpassing human understanding, and armed with a faith that knows no daunting, waiting, eagerly waiting for the last fleeting breath that would sever the brittle thread that bound her to earth, we could but exclaim, "O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory?" We love to dwell upon the hallowed scene with all its sacred memories. There is no wish in my heart to make memorable her death by an exaggerated eulogy upon the many noble traits of her character, but it is no more than truth to say she was a very superior woman. Kind, true, faithful, and endowed with marvellous energy she found it a delight to minister lavishly to the comfort of her family and especially to those whom fortune had not favored, "distributing to the necessity of saints, given to hospitality."

"Her image so beautiful, so Christly, is ineffably carved upon the tablets of our memory, and will ever remain a monument of her noble virtues, and as a beacon light to guide us to heaven. The recollection of her does not come back to us as a wail, but rather like the echos of a sweet cheerful song saying, "Come up higher," or like the rays of a morning star beaming so brightly the while and then fading into the glorious light of day. While on yonder hillside lies the perishing form of her we loved so well, and the green sod upon her grave receives the tribute of many tears, yet we would not call back her radiant spirit from the shining shore, where she stands with hands outstretched to welcome us home, and enjoys that which she craved most of all, eternal rest in the presence of a glorified Redeemer." They have two children:

MRS. EUGENIE CASSITY HURLBUTT,

wife of Wm. D. Hurlbutt, Meridian, who with their two bright, noble children, Guy and Jennie, are members of my congregation. And wife of Mr. Dixon, of Terry, Mississippi. They have six promising, pretty children.

These are all a noble posterity of Howell Bozeman, fine-looking, intelligent, cultivated, pious, well-to-do, and married into the best families of the State. They are Baptists, and ornaments to their denomination, their kindred, and their country. An intimate acquaintance of six years has only tested and confirmed their many virtues.

(c) Chester, born December 31, 1830, married first Mrs. Sallie York, ~~nee~~ Davis, by whom he had two children, Lilly, born 1867, and William, born 1869.

(e) Hastings, lives unmarried in Hinds county, where he was born May 24, 1834. A farmer.

(f) Linda, born October 7, 1836, married J. Augustus Dunn, of Hinds county; moved to Texas, where both died, leaving three children, Ferdinand and Augustus, born 1860—one of my correspondents—Frank, born 1862, and William, born 1863. I have been informed that they are excellent people.

Dr. John E. T. Gourlay, of Jackson, Louisiana, was a prominent man. The Gourlay family were originally from Burgundy, France, thence to Scotland, then to Ireland, and finally to America.

(k) James, born in Hinds county June 1846, where he still resides—unmarried.

4. Thomas Jefferson, son of Howell and Nancy Cook Bozeman, was born in Hinds county, Mississippi, September 2, 1808, married Rachel Parker in the same county in 1835. She died and was buried there in 1841. There were three children from this marriage—John Walton, born 1836, Preston Dodds, born 1838, Julia Ann, born 1841. In 1842 he moved to Louisiana, Caddo parish, where he married his second wife, Elizabeth Ford, in 1845. There two children were born, Melissa A., October 30, 1846, and William Thomas, April 5, 1848. In 1849 he moved to McLennan county, Texas. While there two other children were born, Euretacy, December 26, 1849, and Henry Richard, April 25, 1852. In 1854 he moved with all his family across the plains to California, Fresno county, and while crossing the plains in New Mexico their daughter Susan was born, July 4, 1854. Three other children were born to them in California—Martha, January 9, 1856, who died in her seventh year, Mary, December 22, 1860, and Charles, April 5, 1864, who died less than a year old. Thomas J. Bozeman was a farmer all his life, a member of the Baptist church, an upright, honorable, and pious man. He died in Fresno county, California, September 4, 1870, leaving a widow, four sons and five daughters in that State.

THOS. J. BOZEMAN'S CHILDREN IN CALIFORNIA.

(a) John Walton Bozeman, born in Hinds county, Miss., August 31, 1836, married Susanna Hendrey in California, December 13, 1864. He is a farmer and stock raiser in Tulare county, Cal., not a member of the church, but holds the Baptist doctrine, a Democrat all over, eyes and complexion dark, weight 140 pounds, one of my correspondents, in good circumstances financially, does not drink or swear. They have at this date, 1885, eight living children, three sons and five daughters, Preston Leander, born 1865; Julia Ann, born 1868; Armazilla Eumatilla, born 1871; Jesse Davidson, born 1873; Melissa A., born 1876; John Wesley, born 1879; Hattie Belle, born 1881, and Rachel, born 1883. All of them have dark eyes and complexion. He says that his grandfather, Howell Bozeman, built the first State House in Milledgeville, Ga.; whether as mechanic, contractor, or architect I do not know. It is said to be a fine Gothic edifice, erected between 1800 or 1806. John Walton Bozeman with his wife and eight children live at this time, 1885, in southeast California, Tulare county, Lemoore Post-Office.

Ross', where he and his wife had stopped for the night, at White Springs, Fla., November 10, 1848, in the 56th year of his age. He had eaten a hearty supper and then died after a few minutes' illness, and was buried at Swift Creek Church, three miles from his residence in Florida. He was a man of noble qualities, energetic, public-spirited, wealthy and popular. When a young man he was for years Superintendent of the Georgia penitentiary and Colonel of militia. He married three wives. The first was Miss Elizabeth Murphy, of Georgia, April 25, 1818, in her 20th year, born December 25, 1798. Soon after their marriage her father sent them ten likely young negroes as a present, which she sent back with spirit, because her father had said to Col. Bozeman that he (Murphy) never made his bed till he was ready to lie down, meaning that he would not make his will till he came to die. She departed this life February 20, 1836. Col. John and Elizabeth Murphy Bozeman had eight children.

4. Sarah Francis Bozeman, born December 25, 1825, married Samuel Buffington, her brother-in-law, in 1849, had two children, both of whom died. The date of her death is not known to me.

5. Milton Bozeman, born April 18, 1827, died in Yankee prison in Elmira, N. Y., about the close of the war, 1865. He was never married.

6. Amanda Melvina Bozeman, born April 18, 1830, died December 26, 1834, a little child.

8. Albert Bozeman, born February 15, 1834, died March 10, 1853, in his 20th year.

These eight are all dead.

Col. John Bozeman's second wife was Miss Rebecca Jewell Pratt, a Yankee lady from New Hampshire, born April 23, 1808, married February 4, 1837, died February 17, 1838, one year after her marriage. Her mother was a Miss Jewell and Miss Pratt: was a double first cousin of Hon Marshall Jewell, Governor of Connecticut for three terms, Minister of United States to St. Petersburg, Russia, in 1873, and Postmaster-General of United States of America from 1874 to 1876, whose daughter married Arthur M. Dodge, son of the noble William E. Dodge, of New York, renowned for his wealth, his piety and his benefactions. Col. John and Rebecca Jewell Pratt Bozeman had but one child.

1. Henry Marshall Bozeman, born in Hayneville, Ga., November 1, 1837. He was raised in Hawkinsville, Ga., where he now resides, owning a residence worth three or four thousand dollars, and engaged in bookkeeping as a profession, a sober man, drinking no kind of liquors, and a member of the Methodist Church. He has married twice. His first wife was Miss Abbie Willcox, daughter of Capt. Thos. L. Willcox, of Irwin county, Ga., whom he married March 30, 1868. She died February 3, 1869, leaving an infant son--Abbie Murdock Bozeman. His second wife was a sister of his first named India Willeox, whom he married November 4, 1869. Their first child is Franklin McCrimmon Bozeman, born September 7, 1870. Their next living child is Sarah Rebecca Bozeman, born October 12, 1879. Henry Marshall Bozeman, of Hawkinsville, Ga., and Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge, of New York, are second cousins. Miss Sarah B. Pratt, from Vermont, Col. John Bozeman's third wife, was a first cousin of his second wife and a lady of fine culture. He married her in 1838. After Col. Bozeman's death she taught in the higher departments of the Female Baptist College, Cuthbert, Ga., in 1854-5, Rev. A. T. Holmes, President. He was afterwards my own teacher, honored and beloved. Later in life she married Maj. I. F. Baxter and lived in Memphis, Tenn., where she died December 13, 1882. She was one of my valued correspondents.

V. Sally Bozeman, daughter of Meady and Chloe Nelson Bozeman, born about 1795, married her second cousin, David Bozeman, son of my great uncle. Luke Bozeman, thus connecting the Meady Bozeman branch again with the Samuel Bozeman branch. She died in Florida in 1835, forty years old, leaving four children. The first, Elisha Ward Bozeman, born 1823, died 1863, left nine children in Madison county, Florida. The second, Mary Ann, a twin, born November 25, 1825, married C. F. Reichert about 1850 and died February 7, 1880, leaving five children, near Monticello, Fla. The third, Matilda

Caroline, a twin, born November 25, 1825, married James Edward Bozeman, a twin, her first cousin, a son of Luke Bozeman, Jr. She now lives in Terrell county, Ga., near Dover, and has two sons and four daughters, genuine Bozemans I should say; for their father and their mother, also their grandfather and their grandmother, were all Bozemans. The fourth, Luke Bozeman, born 1827, lives now, 1883, in Cedar Keys, Fla., and has seven children.

VI. James Bozeman, son of Meady and Chloe Nelson Bozeman, born 1796, died of Tyler Grip in Hawkinsville, Ga., November 28, 1843, forty-seven years old. He was never married.

VII. Nancy Bozeman, daughter of Meady and Chloe Bozeman, born about 1798, married Jesse Webb. They had a son, Samuel Bozeman Webb, who moved to Amite county, Miss., where his sons, W. Y., Dr. John W. and Pleasant Webb, now live, carrying on the drug business in Liberty. A large family connection reside in that county. They are people of worth and influence.

VIII. Elizabeth Bozeman, daughter of Meady and Chloe Bozeman, born 1799, died 1823, August 12th, at the age of 24. She married a gentleman named Barron. More of her history I have not learned.

This is the sum of my present information of the Meady Bozeman family, April 28, 1885.

CHAPTER V.

SAMUEL BOZEMAN, OF RICHMOND COUNTY, N. C.—A. D. 1758.

Within the last year I have heard of the above Bozeman and have traced his family by corresponding with several of its members. He had the same name as my great grandfather, lived in the extreme southern part of North Carolina, 1782, about the time my great grandfather, Samuel Bozeman, was in Bladen county of the same region. He was born in 1758, two years after my grandfather, Joseph Bozeman and the exact date of his brother Samuel. Is he that brother? See page 67. Samuel Bozeman married Miss Esther ——. Seven children were the fruit of this marriage.

1. Samuel Bozeman, born 1782 in Richmond county, N. C., married Miss Mary Herrington, of North Carolina—afterwards spelled Harrington by some of the family. He moved to Alabama, Monroe county, in 1820, and died there in 1839. He was a farmer, a Democrat and a Methodist. His deep and true piety was a marked feature of his character.

CHILDREN OF SAMUEL AND MARY HERRINGTON BOZEMAN.

(a) Wylie Bozeman, born in North Carolina about 1816, lived in Monroe county, Ala., either Pine Apple or Monroeville in 1875. His sister, Mrs. Brown, writes me that Wylie had lived in the above county fifty five or sixty years.

(b) Caroline Bozeman, born in North Carolina, about 1818, married in Alabama to Mr. McKay and moved back to North Carolina. After his death she married Mr. Robbins and lived in 1882 in Wilmington, N. C. She was a member of the Baptist Church and one of the writer's correspondents, from whom he has learned a good deal about this branch of the family.

(c) James Bozeman, born in North Carolina about 1820, lived in Mississippi, Copiah county, before the war of '61.

(d) Elizabeth Bozeman, born in Alabama in 1822, married Benj. Brown, lives now in Texas, Angelina county, Homer Post-Office. She is a correspondent of the writer, from whom much information has been obtained. Five children live near her.

(e) Henderson Bozeman, born in Alabama in 1824, lived before the war in Mississippi, Lauderdale county, Marion Station. He had two sons, James and Floyd Bozeman.

(f) Julia (or Juda) Bozeman, born about 1825 in Alabama, married Anthony Forrest and died in Texas, Angelina county, Homer Post-Office, March 1879. He died November, 1881.

(g) Dulany-Sewell Bozeman, born in Alabama about 1826, died a young man, unmarried.

HERRINGTON OR HARRINGTON.

Samuel Bozeman, of Richmond county, N. C., married Miss Mary Herrington about the year 1815. Some of the Harrington family afterwards moved to southwest Mississippi. Franklin county. Mrs. Dr. S. S. Montgomery, of Meadville, an elegant, cultivated lady of fine personal appearance, educated at Salem, N. C., is a niece of Mary Herrington Bozeman. I saw her daughter, Miss Lorena Montgomery, graduate at Central Institute, Dr. Walter Hillman President, Clinton, Miss., at the time my first son, Albert Snead Bozeman, graduated there from Mississippi College June, 1883. I preached the commencement sermon for both Institutions jointly at that time. The Harringtons are a family of high tone and indomitable will, proud and brave, but kind-hearted and benevolent. Mrs. Montgomery's brother, Maj. P. C. Harrington, is a graduate of Chapel Hill, N. C., and her brother, James Harrington, was educated at Washington Lee University, Va. They were raised in Mississippi. Their father, James Harrington, spent $10,000 employing the best legal talent, such as Judges Sharkey and Vannerson, to defend his negro man Pete, falsely charged with murder, in the courts of Mississippi. The family came to spell the name Harrington in later years.

2. Josiah Bozeman (Sias), the second child of Samuel and Esther Bozeman, of North Carolina, was born in North Carolina about 1790, married Aggie Bowen and moved to Alabama, probably Monroe county, where he raised a family. His sons were Brown Bozeman, born about 1816, Hill Bozeman, born about 1818, and Crisenbery Bozeman, born about 1820. This last name may be Quisenberry, a noted name in Virginia.

3. Winnny Bozeman (Wincy), the third child of Samuel and Esther Bozeman, born in North Carolina about 1792, married Sion Blackburn and moved from Montgomery county, N. C., to Tennessee or Mississippi. I know nothing further of her. Her given name is also reported as Winifred.

4. William Bozeman, fourth child of Samuel and Esther Bozeman, was born about 1795, married Elizabeth Herriek, of Bladen county, N. C., about 1816. They had eight children.

* (a) Amos Bozeman, born about 1817, in North Carolina, married and moved to Georgia, was a Baptist preacher, died in Georgia.

(b) Nellie Bozeman, born in North Carolina about 1819, married Joseph Deaton. Both dead.

(c) Betsy Ann Bozeman, born in Carolina about 1821, married Zacharias Hogan. She died leaving one child.

(d) Samuel Bozeman, born in North Carolina about 1823, a Methodist preacher, died unmarried.

(e) Janette Bozeman, born in North Carolina about 1825, married Robert Harris. She died leaving twelve children.

(f) Sophia Bozeman, born in North Carolina about 1827, married Taylor Harris, moved to Hardiman county, Tenn., not far from Grand Junction. They had six children.

(g) William Bluit (or Blewet) Bozeman, born in North Carolina about 1829, married Elizabeth Crouch and moved to Mississippi or Tennessee, where he died, leaving one child.

(h) Mary Bozeman, born in North Carolina about 1839, married first Claiborn Green, by whom she had six children; married second R. T. Steele and now lives, 1883, in Montgomery county, N. C., Pekin Post-Office. She is one of my esteemed correspondents, from whom I have received much information, and a granddaughter of Samuel and Esther Bozeman.

5. James Bozeman, the fifth child of Samuel and Esther Bozeman, born in North Carolina about 1797, married Lottie Bowen, of North Carolina. His older brother, Josiah (Sias or Siras), married Aggie Bowen. James moved from North Carolina somewhere South or West about 1820 or 1825.

6. Dicy Bozeman, sixth child of Samuel and Esther Bozeman, died unmarried at Sion Black-burn's in Montgomery county, N. C., about 1820.

7. Celia Bozeman, born in North Carolina about 1800, the seventh child of Samuel and Esther Bozeman, married Mr. Briant and moved South or West.

Notice that this Samuel Bozeman, born 1753, had children named Samuel, James, Winny and Celia. My great grandfather, Samuel Bozeman, born about 1730, had children named Samuel, born about 1758, James, Winny and Celia.

Elizabeth Bozeman, granddaughter of the above Samuel Bozeman, Sr., and daughter of Samuel Bozeman, Jr., says: "I cannot tell you anything about my great grandfather, though I have been told he was a Frenchman and came from France. I have been informed that the Bozemans came from France to America and settled in North Carolina." Her information is hardly correct. The Bozemans, in my opinion, are not French. Yet that may be a clue.

ETHELDRED BOZEMAN—A. D. 1762—BRUNSWICK COUNTY, N. C.

This Etheldred Bozeman went to Columbus county, in the south-east corner of North Carolina, on the coast, from the eastern part of the State—probably the Neuse river—soon after the Revolution. He served in that war at the age of 16 as orderly sergeant on the side of the Colonies. He married Miss Polly Crawford, a Scotch lady. The brothers of Etheldred Bozeman were James, Burton, Jesse, Josiah and Meady. There is the name "Meady" again. Where did it come from? The sisters of Etheldred Bozeman were Martha and Dicy. Josiah Bozeman was drowned when a young, unmarried man, at Crusoe Island, in Brunswick county, N. C., in the south-east corner of the State. Of the other brothers and sisters I have learned nothing more than their names. Etheldred Bozeman finally moved to Brunswick county, where he died and was buried.

Notice that I had never heard of this branch of the family till the year 1882, and that my great

(d) Peter Bozeman, born Oct. 5, 1835, in Brunswick county, N. C.; died in 1858 at the age of 22.

(e) Benjamin Bozeman, born Sept. 28, 1837; died April 22, 1882, in the 45 year of his age.

(f) Mollie Bozeman, born May 22, 1840; married James Spitzer, Nov., 1864. They moved to West Tennessee about 1872 and she died in 1880.

All of these Bozemans are in and about Knoxville, Tenn. They are the descendants of Etheldred and Polly Crawford Bozeman, of Brunswick county, N. C. I have no further information about this branch of the Bozeman family up to date, April 26, 1885, unless it is that,

(g) A. G. Bozeman, North Carolina, Brunswick county, Shallotte postoffice, may be a brother.

CHAPTER VII.

LEWIS BOZEMAN—1760—1850.

Lived in Anderson, S. C., north-west part of the State, where he died in 1850, at the age of ninety years. His son, Dr. John J. Bozeman, of Ninety Six, S. C., writes that Lewis Bozeman was originally from Virginia. He had three brothers, David, Phil. and Dan., who emigrated to Alabama and Louisiana. I have not learned whom Lewis Bozeman married. His children were as follows:

1. William Bozeman; died in South Carolina in 1850.

2. Capt. Toliver Bozeman; Captain of C. S. A. in the famous Hampton's Legion. I am informed that his company was called "The Bozeman Guards." He is dead.

3. Tillman Bozeman; a soldier, C. S. A., and is now dead.

4. Dr. John J. Bozeman; surgeon C. S. A., and practicing physician since the war at Ninety Six, Abbeville county, S. C. An active member of the Baptist Church, and one of my valued correspondents. At last accounts he was a widower with four children.

5. David Bozeman; soldier C. S. A.; dead.

6. Sarah Bozeman; dead.

7. Eliza Bozeman.

One of Lewis Bozeman's brothers (I have not learned his given name) has the following posterity—five sons and two daughters:

1. William Bozeman, born 1785; died 1869, at the age of eighty-four; married Matilda —.

Their children,

(a). David Bozeman; killed in the war.

(b). Winnie Bozeman; died during the war.

(c). John Bozeman; died since the war.

(d). Lewis Bozeman; killed in the war.

(e). Baines Samuel Bozeman; lives A. D. 1883, in Mississippi, Pontotoc county, Poplar Springs P.

(f). He is one of my correspondents

(g). Miss T. N. Bozeman; lives in South Carolina.

(h). Z. T. Bozeman; lives, 1883, in Texas, Cass county, Viola P. O.

2. Cooper Bozeman, another son of the aforesaid brother of Lewis Bozeman, lives in Newberry county, S. C. His wife was Catharine —.

[COOPER AND CATHERINE BOZEMAN'S CHILDREN.—Frances, William, Edmond, Grant, Washington, Elizabeth, Joseph, Winnie and Lila—nine in all.]

3. Whit Bozeman; lived in Shreveport, La.
4. Baines Bozeman; moved to Alabama. One of his sons was named Thomas.
5. Hugh Bozeman; came to Hillsboro, Lawrence county, Ala., from Carolina, and lived there all his life; married Miss Martha Moseley Hill. From this union there was but one child, David J. Bozeman. Hugh Bozeman died in Hillsboro, Ala., in 1883. He was a farmer and a merchant at different times. The son, David J. Bozeman, is a merchant, and travels extensively on business. He married Miss Agnez Vaughn. His home is in northern Alabama, at Hillsboro. I presume the town took its name from his mother's family. The above Hugh Bozeman is a first cousin of Dr. J. J. Bozeman, of Ninety Six, S. C. David J. Bozeman is connected with Rev. Enoch Winds, of Tennessee, from whom I received some items.

PHILEMON BOZEMAN,

Born at Edgefield, S. C., about 1758, where he married Susan Holloway. From thence he moved to Monroe county, Ala., where he died. He had one brother, David, who lived at Edgefield, S. C., but of that brother's family I know nothing.

CHILDREN OF PHIL. AND SUSAN HOLLOWAY
BOZEMAN.

David, Lewis, Dan., Annie, Nancy and James.

1. James Bozeman, of the above list, was born in South Carolina, 1787, married Miss Rachel Roe, moved to Monroe county, Ala., where he died, leaving seven children. They were:

- (a) John Bozeman, born in 1812, married Eliza Jordan and died in Florida.
- (b) William Bozeman, born 1814, married Elvira Bozeman, his first cousin, and was killed by runaway negroes, Dec. 7, 1856, near Spring Ridge, Caddo parish, La.
- (c) Susan Bozeman, born 1816, married Hiram Morris, Dec. 18, 1856, and died in Texas.
- (d) Mary Bozeman, born 1818, married Jonathan Carter, and died in Covington county, Ala.
- (e) Tillman Bozeman, born 1820, married Elizabeth Ogden. She died in Texas, and he in Florida.
- (f) David Bozeman, born 1822, died at Vicksburg, Miss., in 1863; I presume in the siege as Confederate soldier.

(g) James Bozeman, Jr., born Sept. 9, 1825, was an infant at the time of his father's death in Monroe county, Ala. His father's name was James. In 1847, Jan. 15, James Bozeman, Jr., married Sarah Rice, of Covington county, Ala. He then moved to Louisiana, Caddo parish, where he still resides. He is of medium size and light complexion, is a farmer, a Democrat, a Baptist, and a leading member of the Masonic fraternity. Spring Ridge is his post office.

JAMES AND SARAH RICE BOZEMAN'S CHILDREN.

1. Daniel Bozeman, born July 16, 1848; died June 2, 1877.

2. Mahulda Ann, born April 21, 1851; married Jacob Sistrunk, Dec. 22, 1874, and has seven children: Samuel Anthony, 9; Marcellus Levi, 8; Jacob Rice, 7; Sarah Inez, 6; Thomas Joseph, 4; Warren, 2; Amerza Penelope, 1.

3. Jacob Bozeman, born August 23, 1854; married Georgietta Andrews, May 25, 1881. She died, Nov. 8, 1883, leaving one child, Susan Virginia Bozeman, aged 2 years.

4. James Monroe Bozeman, born Dec. 29, 1856; married Mattie Stafford, Jan. 1876. Their children are Jacob Whitfield Bozeman, 4; Sarah, 2. His post office, Keachie, La.

5. David Warren Bozeman, born Feb. 28, 1860.

6. Andrew Jackson Bozeman, born May 31, 1862.

7. Sallie Bozeman, born June 28, 1864. My interesting correspondent, from whom I have received all the items I give about Philemon Bozeman and his posterity. I am much pleased with the style and sentiment of her letters.

8. Armentia Adeline Bozeman, born Aug. 29, 1866. The youngest child. These all live in Louisiana.

My opinion is that Lewis Bozeman, of Anderson, S. C., mentioned on a preceding page, born 1769, died 1850, and this Philemon Bozeman, of Edgefield, S. C., are brothers; because those who have written to me about Lewis Bozeman, especially his son, Dr. Jno. J. Bozeman, of Ninety Six, S. C., in 1881, say that Lewis Bozeman had three brothers, David, Phil. and Dan, who emigrated to Alabama and Louisiana. Now, Miss Sallie Bozeman writes me in 1885, from Spring Ridge, La., that her great grandfather was named Philemon, and that he had a brother David. One of Lewis Bozeman's sons was named Tillman. One of Philemon Bozeman's grandsons was named Tillman. Both families have the name Daniel. Philemon Bozeman's sons were named David, Lewis and Dan.

CHAPTER VIII.

CAPT. PETER H. BOZEMAN, 1817—1867.

Lived and died in Lauderdale county, Miss., near Toomsuba; came to that place in 1839, where he married Miss Oshellie C. Everett the same year, and resided till his death in 1867; when a youth, he lived in Clarke county, Ala.; was born in South Carolina, Sept., 1817. He was a farmer and merchant, a magistrate eight years, a Democrat, a Baptist in sentiment, though not a member of any church, was Captain of the Almutcha Guards, 13th Mississippi regiment C. S. A., and was very popular with his soldiers and fellow officers. Three of their children reached adult age.

1. Peter Edwin Bozeman, who married Miss Mattie Kelly, Jan. 9, 1875, has four children. Jessie Gertrude, born 1876; Virgie Iola, 1878; Effie Clifton, 1880; Almeady Everett, 1881. He lives now, 1885, at Akron, Ala.

2. Jesse James Bozeman, who married Miss Lois Calhoun, at Toomsuba, Miss., Oct. 20, 1878, has one child, Everett Annie, born 1879.

3. Mary Almeady Bozeman, a bright, beautiful young lady, who married George Lafayette Blanks, at Toomsuba, Jan. 4, 1885, a brother of Dr. J. H. Blanks, of Meridian, Miss.

Capt. Peter Bozeman's father was Meady Gee Bozeman, of Cheraw, S. C., near the Great Pedee river. Here we have the name Meady again. We find it in various branches of the Bozeman family. It tells the relationship. "Meady." Where did this name come from? It is a thread by which we may yet be led farther into the past of our history. I hope the name will be retained in the family in all the coming generations. The distinguishing names of the Bozemans are: Meady, Etheldred, Luke, Nathan, James, Joseph, Winnie, from Winifred, Celia and Dicy.

Capt. Peter Bozeman had brothers in Montgomery county, Alabama. His uncles were named Peter, Henry and Jesse; his father, Meady Gee; his grandfather, Peter Bozeman. They lived near the northern border of South Carolina, not far from the home of my ancestors in the southern part of North Carolina. The correct spelling of all the Meady Bozemans is with an "e," thus: Boze-man.

MORDICAI BOZEMAN—1735.—DARLINGTON CO., SOUTH CAROLINA.

A native of North Carolina, born about 1735. His sons were;

1. Peter Bozeman, born about 1758; a soldier in the Revolution on the side of American independence. Moved to Alabama.

2. John Bozeman, born about 1760; soldier in the Revolution with his brother.

3. James Bozeman, born about 1766; lived in Darlington county, South Carolina; married Elizabeth Flowers.

CHILDREN OF JAMES AND ELIZABETH FLOWERS BOZEMAN.

(a) Henry Bozeman, born about 1800; married Elizabeth Norwood; lived in Darlington district, S. C.; died in 1874. Children of Henry and Elizabeth Norwood Bozeman are: Henry Bozeman, Jr., born in 1833; married Martha Flowers in 1852; lived in Darlington county, S. C.; died in 1866; a carpenter by trade; had five children: Edwin Bozeman, born 1856; a farmer. Zach. Norwood Bozeman, born 1858; farmer. Rowena Bozeman, born 1860. John Henry Bozeman, born 1862; farmer. James Brunson Bozeman, born 1864: student for the Baptist ministry in Furman University, S. C., in 1883; one of my correspondents.

(b) Jesse Bozeman, son of James and Elizabeth Flowers Bozeman, and grandson of Mordicai Bozeman, born in 1802, married a Miss Beck, and lives at this date, 1884, in Darlington county, S. C. The three children of Jesse Bozeman were: William

Bozeman, born about 1825, killed in the Confederate war; Peter Bozeman, born about 1827, killed in the Confederate war; George Washington Bozeman, born about 1830, lives in South Carolina.

The above is all I have learned about the Mordicai Bozemans, of Darlington, South Carolina. I should think from the names, Peter and Jesse, that they are the same branch as Capt. Peter H. Bozeman, of Lauderdale county, Miss., whose ancestors lived about Cheraw, S. C., whose grandfather was named Peter Bozeman, and brother named Jesse Bozeman, and sons named Peter Edwin and Jesse James Bozeman.

CHAPTER IX.

COL. JOHN BOZEMAN - 1833-1862-BOZEMAN CITY, MONTANA.

In my correspondence about the name above, Virgil P. Bozeman, of Poseyville, Ind., writes me, April 2, 1882, as follows: "Bozeman City, Montana, was named after a Bozeman from Georgia. He was a very wealthy man when the Indians killed him. But no relations could be found and others captured his wealth." So it seems here is a claim the Bozeman family may look after. It certainly is worth investigating. Mr. S. S. Bozeman, another kinsman in Poseyville, Ind., writes me, Jan. 14, 1883: "I went to Montana Territory in 1878 and visited Bozeman City, which was named for Col. John Bozeman, who was from Georgia. Farther I know nothing of his native town, or of his parents. Col. John Bozeman laid out the famous Bozeman Trail from Cheyenne, Wyoming Territory, to the Yellow Stone River, of Montana, and to Bozeman City and the Yellow Stone Park. Bozeman City is situated in the Gallatin Valley, within six miles of the Yellow Stone River and fifty-six miles from the Yellow Stone Park. Col. John Bozeman was a man that was well liked, and was noted for his courage as an Indian fighter, and as one of the best scouts that was ever on the frontier. He was killed in the summer of 1862, on the Yellow Stone River. He and a man named Coover left Bozeman City for the purpose of going to a government sale on the Crow Reserve. Before leaving Bozeman City, Col. John Bozeman told a friend that he had a presentiment that he would never return alive, and instructed him how to administer on his estate. After the Indians had killed Bozeman, they drove his knife through his ear, a sign that he had not given up his life without a struggle. His remains were taken up in 1862, and interred in the Bozeman City cemetery. A granite monument marks the spot where the founder of Bozeman City sleeps, far from home, but among the people that cherish his memory."

The Century (magazine) of Sept. 1882 speaks of him as "the brave Montana pioneer." Who were his ancestors? Who got his estate? He married Melissa Ingram in 1855. She, with several children, still resides in Georgia or some State east of Montana. Who can tell me where his widow and children reside? There may be a great fortune for them to recover in Montana, especially at Bozeman City. Dr. Nathan Bozeman, who visited Yellow Stone Park, Montana, in 1882, writes me that he was struck with the frequent occurrence of the word Bozeman in that mountain region, as Bozeman Trail, Bozeman Pass, Bozeman City, etc.

CHAPTER X.

BOZEMANS AND BOZEMANS.

1. Marietta, Ga.—Information reached me that a gentleman named Bozeman, a silversmith by trade, lived in the above town in 1880, but I could never get correspondence with him, or about him.

2. Eufaula, Ala.—It is said by Dr. T. B. Sport, 1880, that a family of Bozemans live near this place, named James, Whit, Robert and Babe.

3. Burnt Corn, Ala.—I hear that Bozemans have long resided in this community.

4. Union Springs, Ala.—There were two Misses Bozeman from this place who attended Mary Sharp College, Winchester, Tenn. One of them afterwards married Mr. Davis, about 1878, in Union Springs.

5. Carrollton, Miss.—Mrs. Reditt, of this county, or her mother, was a Miss Bozeman, from North Carolina.

6. Syracuse, N. Y.—A young man from Iowa called on Dr. Nathan Bozeman, 296 Fifth Avenue, N. Y., in 1872, to know if the Doctor had seen in the city, William Bozeman, whom he claimed to be his brother. The young man said that his father moved from New York State to Iowa many years ago, and that his grandfather Bozeman was then living, at the age of 90 years, not far from Syracuse, New York.

7. Bay City, Mich.—In 1878, a young man named Armstrong called on Dr. Bozeman in New York City, and stated that his mother was a Bozeman. The family he said emigrated many years ago from Maryland to Michigan. His grandfather was Peter Bozeman, who was then living near Bay City, Michigan.

8. University of Tenn.—There was a student in this institution at Knoxville, in the winter session of 1846, named James Bozeman.

9. Providence Baptist Church, Dallas Co., Ala.—On a tombstone is the following inscription: "Agnes Bozeman died March 8, 1826, in the 76th year of her age."

10. South Carolina.—Elizabeth Bozeman married Solomon Hitt, Catherine Bozeman married Hamilton Quarles, and Agnes Bozemon married John W. Berry. All these were sisters and married from 1812 to 1815, in South Carolina. I presume they were daughters of Mrs. Agnes Bozeman who was buried at the above Providence Church.

11. Knoxville, Tenn.—Charles B. Bozeman lives in this city now, 1885, a young man, 21 years old, who says his father, McKager Bozeman, moved from North Carolina to Virginia and married there, and thence to Tennessee, and that George Bozeman, another son of McKager Bozeman, moved to Georgia, where he married and died. Charles B. Bozeman has two brothers living, Thos. J. Bozeman, Rasberry P. O., Knox co., Tenn., and James Bozeman, Springhouse P. O., Granger co., Tann.

12. Covington County, Miss.—Mr. Cole, of Hattiesburg, informs me that Steve Bozeman lives near Hugh McLeod's Store, in said county, and that he is a fine man.

CHAPTER XI.

LEVIN BOZMAN—PLYMOUTH, N. C.

There were at the time of the Revolution, three Bozman brothers named Levin, Joseph and John, who lived on the eastern shore of North Carolina. Levin resided in Washington county, Joseph in Chowan, and John in Tyrrel or Washington. I cannot learn authentically when they came to North Carolina, or where they came from. Col. J. A. Bozman, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., a grandson of Joseph Bozman, thinks their ancestors came over to Maryland from England, with Lord Baltimore, and that they are of the same family with John Leeds Bozman, the author of a history of Maryland and other works. These all spell the name without an "e," thus: Boz-man. A great majority of the name, my own branch included, spell it with an "e," thus: Boze-man.

I. LEVIN BOZMAN, 1750—1820.

Born about the year 1750; place not known. He married twice. The names of the ladies are not known to the author. One mile and a half from Plymouth, Washington county, N. C., is the old Bozman homestead, the residence of Levin Bozman, standing (1885) just as he built it 80 or 100 years ago, and now occupied by his grandson, Levi F. Fagan. Levin Bozman was a man of prominence, engaged in mercantile and shipping interests. He was in the North Carolina legislature in 1804-5-6-7, and in the senate in 1811, from Washington county, as I learn from Wheeler's History of North Carolina, page 443.

LEVIN BOZMAN'S CHILDREN.

1. Harriet W. Bozman, daughter of his first wife, born 1799, married William Chesson. She is still alive, aged 86. Never had any children. Her home is, Plymouth, North Carolina.
2. Ann Eliza Bozman, daughter of second wife, born about 1810, married Franklin F. Fagan. Had two children. First, a daughter, who married Hon. J. H. Martin, lives in Williamston, N. C., and has five children. Second, a son, Levi F. Fagan, who lives in the Bozman homestead, near Plymouth, N. C., and has two children. Ann Eliza Bozman is dead. Her posterity are the Fagans and Martins, of North Carolina.
3. Emily L. Bozman, born about 1812, married Richard Wood, of North Carolina. She died, leaving four children; their names not obtained by the writer. So far as I can learn, Levin Bozman had no son. His descendants are the Fagans, Woods and Martins, of North Carolina.

II. JOSEPH BOZMAN—1752—1837—EDENTON, N. C.

Born in 1752; died in 1837, aged 85; buried in St. Paul's churchyard, Edenton, N. C. Col. J. A. Bozman, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., his grandson, writes of him as follows: "My grandfather, Joseph Bozman, was in the Revolutionary war, and was severely wounded while fighting the British on shipboard. The ball having entered his side passed through his body to the opposite side, and remained just beneath the skin until his death. It was plainly visible and could be moved from place to place. No amount could have purchased it. Indeed, it was the pride of his life. We have regretted that after his death we did not have it extracted for preservation as a family relic of the great Revolutionary struggle. After our independence had been achieved, Joseph Bozman married in North Carolina, and settled in Edenton, on Albemarle Sound. He and his brother, Levin Bozman, engaged in mercantile and commercial pursuits, owning several ships and carrying on both a coasting and foreign trade. At the time of his death, in 1837, he had acquired a fortune."

JOSEPH BOZMAN'S CHILDREN.

1. A son, name, age, etc., not known to the writer. It may be that it was William A. Bozman, who was a member of the North Carolina legislature from Washington county, in 1821-6-7, as I see from Wheeler's History, page 443. If not this son, who was William A. Bozman?

2. James Bozman, born in Edenton, N. C., about 1800, married Miss Ann Sorsby, of Nash co., N. C., in 1821. Moved to Greene county, Ala., about 1830, and engaged in planting. In 1828, he was a member of the North Carolina legislature from Chowan county. He was a man of wealth and prominence, and gave his children the very best opportunities of acquiring an education, sending his daughter to Salem, N. C., four years, and then to Madam Shegarey two years, in New York City. His two sons he sent to the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

JAMES BOZMAN'S CHILDREN.

- (a) Harriet Bozman, an elegant, cultivated lady.
- (b) Joseph Bozman, born 1828. Educated at North Carolina University. A planter in Louisiana. Died of malarial fever in Tuscaloosa, Ala., Sept. 17, 1881, in his 52d year. Left only one child, a daughter.
- (c) James A. Bozman, born about 1830, married Miss Sue Dearing. Lives in Tuscaloosa, Ala. A man of culture, wealth and position. Educated at North Carolina University. One of my correspondents. Has one child. If my information is correct, he is the last Bozman of his entire family in all its branches. I cannot find any other male member named Bozman. The following was published June 17, 1885:

Special to the Times-Democrat.

TUSCALOOSA, June 16.—One of the most brilliant social events in the history of Tuscaloosa occurred here this evening in the marriage of Miss Dedie Dearing Bozman, daughter of Col. and Mrs. J. A. Bozman, to Wolsey R. Martin, Esq., of Fort Smith, Ark. The Rev. J. H. Stringfellow, officiated. The bride is one of the most noted belles of Alabama and the groom is a talented and a promising young gentleman, who recently removed from this place. He is a son of Congressman John M. Martin, of this district, and a grandson of the late ex-Gov. Joshua L. Martin. The happy couple will leave for Fort Smith on Thursday.

III. JOHN BOZMAN, TYRREL OR WASHINGTON COUNTY, N. C.—1754—1816.

Born about 1754. From his granddaughter, Mrs. J. Valentine Madre, of Edenton, N. C., I have received a few facts about John Bozman and his brothers.

JOHN BOZMAN'S CHILDREN.

1. Sallie G. Bozman, born about 1790. The name of the gentleman she married is not given. Her daughter, Mrs. J. Valentine Madre, one of my correspondents, now lives, (1885) in Edenton, N. C., aged 70 years, a noble, cultivated lady.
2. Sovereign Bozman, born in North Carolina, about 1792, moved South.

1.3: Ragdon Bozman, born in North Carolina about 1795, moved South.

4. John Bozman.

5. Joseph Bozman.

No other items of this Bozman family have been given to the author, to his regret.

CHAPTER XII.

JOHN LEEDS BOZMAN—1753—1823.

Born Aug. 25, 1753, on the eastern shore of Maryland, at Oxford, Talbot county. His mother's maiden name was Miss Leeds, daughter of the distinguished John Leeds, Esq., of Maryland. The lands at Bay Side, Talbot county, held by Hon. John Leeds and his grandson John Leeds Bozman, were purchased from Zachery Wade, one of Wm. Clayborne's men. The Hon. John Leeds was Clerk of Talbot county, Md., under the Proprietary Government, and one of the commissioners to run the line between Maryland and Pennsylvania, i. e., Mason & Dixon's line. Governor Sharp said that "he was the only person within reach of the Proprietary Government of Maryland, capable of supervising the returns of Messrs. Mason and Dixon in the controversy with Pennsylvania in view of Lord Baltimore's interest." John Leeds was born May 18, 1705, and died March, 1790, in the 85th year of his age. He was buried on the patrimonial estate in the Bay Hundred of Talbot county, Md., "Wader Point," on St. Michael's river, by the side of his father, Edward Leeds, and by his grandfather, Wm. Leeds, who had been Commander of Talbot county, a civil and military office combined, known to early Maryland and Virginia. The Kerr family, of Talbot county, Md., are descendants of the Hon. John Leeds, and related to John Leeds Bozman.

John Leeds Bozman, grandson of the above John Leeds, graduated at the Pennsylvania University in 1783. After a sojourn in London, England, studying law, as a member of the Middle Temple, he returned to Maryland, a ripe scholar and gentleman of the old school, to devote the remainder of his life to the quiet pursuits of literature. Besides many valuable brochures on subjects of law and government, he wrote a history of Maryland in two volumes, which is a standard work. He was an honorary member of the Massachusetts and of the New York Historical Societies, and also of the Northern Antiquarian Society at Copenhagen, Denmark. There is a sketch of him in the Encyclopædia Americana. He died in Maryland, April, 1823, in the 70th year of his age. The writer has seen a design of his coat of arms with the following motto: "Sine virtute vani sunt honores."

For further information, see life and character of Hon. John Leeds in American Biography; also, Life of John Leeds Bozman, in the same work. See, too, the Life of John Leeds Kerr, and of John Bozman Kerr, in the Dictionary of Congress. "Sicut patribus sit Deus nobis."
