Lineage.—There are grounds for believing that this family may descend from the Ouseleys, of Courteenhall, Northants, previously of Shropshire, of whom was Sir Thomas Ouseley, of Co. Salop, 1486, whose great-great-grandson, Sir John Ouseley, of Courteenhall, was killed at the siege of Breda, in 1624. His son, Richard Ouseley, b. 6 Nov. 1594, who sold Courteenhall, m. Mary, dau. of Mark Parker, of Underwood, Bucks, and had a younger son, Jasper (b. 12 Sept. 1630), who settled in Ireland, where his descendants resided for three generations. It is believed that the ancestor of the American family was a member of this Irish branch, who emigrated prior to 1700. Owing to the destruction of the early records of Stafford County, Virginia, his name cannot now be established. A direct descent can be traced from

EDWARD OURSLEER, of Baltimore, b. 1708; m. 21 Nov. 1734, Ruth (b. 1710; d. 1795), dau. of Richard Owings, of Maryland, and d. 1789, leaving issue,
