

[REDACTED]

Reserve Officers' Training Corps

University of Georgia, Athens, Ga.

To all who shall see these presents, greeting:

Know Ye, that reposing special trust and confidence in the fidelity of

_____
HUGH SMILEY STANLEY I do hereby

† _____ of RESERVE OFFICERS' TRAINING CORPS to rank as such from the _____ day of _____ one thousand nine hundred and _____ He is therefore carefully to discharge the duty of _____ by doing and performing things thereunto belonging. And I do strictly charge and require all noncommissioned and Cadets under his command to be obedient to his orders as _____

And he is to observe and follow such orders and directions from time to time, as he from his Superior Officers and noncommissioned Officers set over him, according to discipline of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps.

Given under my hand at _____ ATHENS, GEORGIA

this _____ day of _____ in the year of our Lord one hundred and _____

_____
CHAS. M. SNELLING

CHANCELLOR.

_____
JAMES E. WARD
LIEUT. COLONEL. U.S. ARMY. RET.

PROV.

[REDACTED]

State of Georgia

County of Clarke

We,

we are

I, the undersigned, do hereby declare that I am personally familiar with the facts concerning the birth of Thomas Pace Stedley, Jr.

who was born July 30, 1902 in Atlanta Clarke Ga.
Month Day Year City County

Full name of Father Thomas Pace Stedley

Full maiden name of Mother Louise Laura Gordon (Mother's name before Marriage))

Signed _____ Relationship
to child _____

Signed _____ Relationship
to child _____

Signature _____

Title _____

My commission expires _____

MISS SALLIE POPE STANLEY BURIED HERE MONDAY

Funeral services for Miss Sallie Pope Stanley, who died at midnight Saturday, were conducted from the First Methodist church at 11 o'clock Monday. Miss Stanley was in her seventieth year. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. S. E. Wasson, pastor of the First Methodist church, of which she was a lifelong member.

The following friends of the family acting as pallbearers: Prof. R. C. Wilson, Mr. A. W. Dozier, Mr. M. G. Nicholson, Mr. J. C. Jester, Mr. J. G. Paine, Jr., Mr. Tom Gomer, Mr. R. S. Crane and Mr. E. D. Sledge. Interment was in the family lot in Oconee cemetery, with Dorsey's funeral directors in charge.

Miss Stanley was a native Athenian, having been born in the Stanley home that stood on the lot where the postoffice is now located. She was educated here, attending Lucy Cobb Institute. Only one brother, Mr. T. P. Stanley, with several nephews, survive her.

JUDGE STANLEY IS BURIED HERE IN OCONEE CEMETERY

Funeral services for Judge Thomas P. Stanley, who died at his home on Milledge avenue Monday evening at six o'clock, were conducted from the home Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock by Rev. W. P. King, pastor of the First Methodist church and Dr. E. L. Hill, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Interment was in Oconee cemetery. Bernstein Brothers funeral home in charge.

The pallbearers at the funeral services were Messrs. W. L. Erwin, L. C. Rucker, E. I. Smith, Jr., E. E. Lamkin, C. O. Middlebrooks, R. M. Soule, Olin Dozier, and John N. Carlton.

Judge Stanley is survived by his widow and three sons, Messrs. Thomas P. Stanley, Jr., Hugh S. Stanley and Burwell P. Stanley. He was a member of the First Methodist church and one of Athens' most respected citizens. Judge Stanley was born January 26, 1860. He was an alumnus of the University of Georgia.

THE CONSTITUTION, ATLANTA, GA., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1930

JUDGE STANLEY BURIED IN ATHENS

Athens, Ga., December 11.—Funeral services for Judge Thomas P. Stanley, who died Monday, were conducted from the home Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock by Rev. W. P. King, pastor of the First Methodist church, and Dr. E. L. Hill, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Interment was in Oconee cemetery.

The pallbearers at the funeral services were Messrs. W. T. Erwin, L. C. Rucker, E. I. Smith, Jr., E. E. Lamkin, C. O. Middlebrooks, R. M.

Soule, Olin Dozier and John Carlton. Judge Stanley is survived by widow and three sons, Messrs. Thomas P. Stanley, Jr., Hugh S. Stanley and Burwell P. Stanley. He was a member of the First Methodist church, one of Athens' most respected citizens. Judge Stanley was born January 26, 1860. He was an alumnus of the University of Georgia.

MISS "MILLIE" CA TO HER ETERNAL

The passing of our loved Miss Millie ran Athens landmarks, when the summons came day night. She held old South and has the traditions so dear had a golden heart and mind, starred with her church and the were paramount with of a cultural family, a rare and rich man urged her versatile achievements. She was passing with unusual until her long illness activities. As an old long service at Lucy C great fruitage along with that was happily on her last and recent.

Her South History Book are cherished a of her great intellect. did efforts were un right Southern history true to her convictions always for honor an everything; she was or rare persons everybody filed an important pi community, without playing a part in the of Athens, the radiance illumined the Southland so fondly. Work with pleasure. She was so great warm heart pul love for everybody.

Athens has sustained measurable; but she w in the hearts of count and devoted relatives. bright star which has to rise in a world more which will be glorified presence and leaving radiance of a life well lived. The passing is deepest sympathy from loved ones in their irreparable loss which all Athens and land feels.

Mr. Thomas P. Stanley, who died at his home in this city Monday evening, was one of Athens' most prominent and respected citizens.

He was a member of an old Southern family who helped to make history for Georgia and the South. A graduate of the University of Georgia, he entered the profession of civil engineering to which he devoted his life work. He was an engineer of much prominence and an authority on road building. Recent months, however, he has served as judge of the municipal court, having been elected to that office by the mayor and council during the past summer. He was a man of many noble traits of character, possessing the spirit and amiable manner of the old school type of the southern gentleman. His passing will bring sorrow and grief to hundreds of friends and the deepest grief to the members of his beloved family.

* * *
The beautiful early morning wedding of Mr. R. M. Stevens, of Waynesville, and Miss Lou Morton, one of the most lovable young women in Brunswick, was the event of the week. The ceremony was performed at St. Marks Episcopal church and the happy couple left immediately on a wedding trip to Alabama.
* * *

The wedding of Mr. R. M. Stevens and Miss Lou D. Morton occurred at the Episcopal church at 1:40 p.m. and Rev. R. M. Lucas officiated. The bride was clad in a handsome gray traveling costume. The happy couple went from the church to the First System train and left for Alabama, the former home of the groom.

A., THURSDAY, DECEMBER

Olin Dozier and John N.

Stanley is survived by his and three sons, Moses, Thomas, Jr., Hugh S. Stanley and H. P. Stanley. He was a member of the First Methodist Church, and Athens' most respected citizens. Stanley was born January 26, 1860. He was an alumnus of the city of Georgia.

MISS "MILLIE" CALLED TO HER ETERNAL REST.

The passing of our dearly beloved Miss Millie removes one of Athens landmarks, who was ready when the summons came Wednesday night. She belonged to the old South and has kept alive all the traditions so dear to her. She had a golden heart and a brilliant mind, starred with Christianity. Her church and the Confederacy were paramount with her. Born of a cultural family she possessed a rare and rich mentality which urged her versatile pen to great achievements. She worked without ceasing with unusual endurance until her long illness cut short her activities. As an educator her long service at Lucy Cobb brought great fruitage along with a devotion that was happily expressed on her last and recent birthday.

Her South History and Scrap Book are cherished achievements of her great intellect. Her splendid efforts were unceasing to right Southern history. She was true to her convictions and stood always for honor and truth in everything; she was one of those rare persons everybody loved. She filled an important place in our community, without ostentation playing a part in the culture of Athens, the radiance of which illumined the Southland she loved so fondly. Work with her was a pleasure. She was so human, her great warm heart pulsated with love for everybody.

Athens has sustained a loss immeasurable; but she will live on in the hearts of countless friends and devoted relatives. She was a bright star which has gone down to rise in a world more beautiful which will be glorified by her presence and leaving behind the radiance of a life well spent and a heart full of love. The deepest sympathy goes out to her loved ones in their irreparable loss which all Athens and the Southland feels.

JUDGE THOMAS P. STANLEY DIES AT HIS HOME HERE

The death of Judge Thomas P. Stanley at his home on Milledge Avenue Monday afternoon at six o'clock carries to the hearts of a large circle of friends the deepest sorrow.

While not in the most robust health, he had attended to the duties of his office with regularity and only on Saturday night had been stricken with an attack of angina pectoris, from which he never rallied.

Judge Stanley was born in Athens January 26, 1860, the son of Major Marcellus Stanley and Mrs. Julia Pope Stanley, and had spent his entire life in this city. He secured his early education in the private schools of Athens and later on entered the University of Georgia, from which institution he was graduated in the class of 1882.

He was by profession a civil engineer and during the earlier part of his life had been actively engaged in that line of work. Recently he was elected to the position of judge of the municipal court of Athens, in which position he was serving with marked ability at the time of his death.

Judge Stanley was for the greater part of his life a member of the First Methodist church. He was a fond husband and father, a loyal and true friend, an upright and honest man, and the best interests of his community and state.

He is survived by his wife, who prior to their marriage was Miss Margaret Morton, of this city, and by his three sons, Thomas P. Stanley, Jr., Hugh S. Stanley and Burrell P. Stanley.

The funeral services will be conducted Wednesday morning at eleven o'clock at the residence on Milledge Avenue, and interment will be in Oconee cemetery. Rev. W. P. King and Rev. E. L. Hill will conduct the services. The following persons will act as pallbearers: Messrs. W. L. Erwin, J. C. Tucker, E. I. Smith, Jr., Edgeworth Lankin, C. G. Middlebrooks, R. M. Soule, Olin Dozier and John N. Carlton.

TOUCHING PRAYER AT MRS. LYLE'S FUNERAL

SERVICES LARGELY ATTENDED AT THE FIRST METHODIST CHURCH; BURIAL IN OCONEE.

At the funeral services of Mrs. Clara Morton Lyle, which were conducted by the pastor of the church, Rev. C. C. Jarrell, at the First Methodist church Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, was a most appropriate and touching feature as a part of the service.

The preacher read the prayer below. It appeared in the Wesleyan Advocate some time ago, the official paper of the church of which Mrs. Lyle was a member. It was written by Rev. Archibald Alexander, D.D. Mrs. Lyle had some time before her death cut it out and kept it with other specially helpful things she read and referred to. It was requested that the prayer be read at her funeral:

"Oh, most merciful God, cast me not off in the time of old age; For-sake me not if my strength faileth. May my hoary head be found in righteousness. Preserve me from dotage and imbecility, and my body from protracted disease and excruciating pain. Deliver me from despondency in my declining years, and enable me to bear with patience whatever may be Thy holy will. I humbly ask that my reason may continue to the last, and that I may be so comforted and supported that I may leave my testimony in favor of the reality of religion and of Thy faithfulness in fulfilling Thy gracious promises. And when my spirit leaves this clay tenement, Lord Jesus, receive it, send some of the blessed angels to convey my inexperienced soul to the mansions which Thy love has prepared; and, oh, may I have an abundant entrance ministered unto me into the kingdom of our Lord and Father, Jesus Christ."

The services formed a fitting tribute to the life of the good mother in Israel—crowned with good works, glorious in its character, sweet and inspiring in its faith and loyalty. The words said, the songs sung, the prayers said, the beautiful flowers laid upon the casket and surrounding chancel, the large number of loving friends present—all were evidences of the hold she had on the hearts of those among whom she lived.

The burial was in Oconee cemetery.

LOCAL COTTON

1 INCH MIDDLING .. ..	10 1/2c
15-16 MIDDLING .. ..	10c
7-8 INCH MIDDLING .. ..	9 1/2c

Vol. 108, No. 282.

Mrs. Julia Ashton White Is Taken By Death At Home

Services For Beloved Woman To Be Held Saturday At 3 O'clock

Mrs. Julia Ashton White, one of Athens' best loved women and wife of the late Captain James White, died early this morning at her home on Prince avenue.

Several weeks ago Mrs. White underwent an operation and for a time her condition was most encouraging. However, complications followed and her condition became critical a number of days ago, death coming at one o'clock this morning.

Services will be held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock from First Presbyterian church, of which Mrs. White was long a devoted member. Dr. E. L. Hill, pastor of the church and long time friend of Mrs. White, will officiate. He will be assisted by Dr. David Cady Wright and Dr. Peter Plume of Louisville, Ky.

Interment will be in Geones Hill cemetery, Bernstein Funeral home in charge and pallbearers will be Alexander Snodden, Robert P. White, Hugh White, Charlie Eckford, Albert Snelling, Hugh Stanley, George Hart and Jack Wilkins. An honorary escort will be comprised of the Elders of First Presbyterian church.

Surviving Mrs. White are two children, James White, president of The National Bank of Athens, and Mrs. Rosena White Bradshaw, wife of the late William Francis Bradshaw, of Louisville, Ky. Grandchildren are Mrs. Frederick H. King of Scarsdale, N. Y.; Miss James White and James White, Jr., and Susan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James White, the latter being the former Miss Elizabeth Spalding of Atlanta; great-grandchildren, Rosena Rahr and Frederick Rahr, Jr., of Scarsdale.

Born In 1866

Julia Devereux Ashton was born in 1866, daughter of Colonel John Devereux Ashton and the former Miss Sally Janet Roberts. Colonel Ashton was a member of a prominent Virginia family from Warrenton, in that state. Miss Roberts lived at Hadesville, Ga., and was a descendant of one of the Southern outstanding families. Col. and Mrs. Ashton made their home and pedestrians, while we must not expect or ask too much of the city fathers for traffic light signals, this section, however, is a necessity and one that a point should be stretched to, add to the present system. With a traffic light at this point and the paving of Baxter street, we will say: "Well done, thou good and faithful servants."

(Continued on page four.)

Mrs. Julia Ashton White Is Taken By Death At Home

(Continued from page one.)

in Waynesboro, Ga., and it was there that Julia Ashton grew to young womanhood. She had one brother, John Devereux Ashton, Jr., who died many years ago.

She studied and received her education at Wesleyan College in Macon and Lucy Cobb Institute, when those institutions were at the height of their fame and were attended by the daughters of representative families from all parts of the South and the nation, because they not only provided sound educational facilities but also because they preserved the glories of the Old South in marked degree.

In the spring of 1884 she became the bride of Captain James A. White, member of one of Georgia's most prominent families, a leader in the business, civic and social life of Athens, and who served for many years as president of The National Bank of Athens.

Three children blessed this union, Mrs. Bradshaw and James White, who survive, and another daughter, Julia, who died in early girlhood.

Mrs. White's first interest was in her home and family and the White residence was always open to both friends and to strangers, where each found the warm cordiality that was so characteristic of the woman who presided within its doors.

Mecca For Many

Scene of many of Athens' most brilliant social affairs, the White home likewise was the mecca for those who enjoyed sparkling wit and conversation, the gathering place for the well-informed who often met to discuss the events of the day. Highly educated and cultured, Mrs. White devoted much of her time to reading the great literature of the world, keeping herself informed of current world events. She had a keen interest in music and the other arts and these interests, together with the fact that she traveled extensively, made her at all times a most entertaining as well as hospitable hostess.

Her second interest was in her church, First Presbyterian, its many activities and its welfare, and in all of the causes for good towards humanity. For a number of years she performed outstanding service as member of a class of young women in the church, young women who came from homes in all parts of the state to attend that was then the State Normal School. The class was organized by her in answer to a need she felt should be filled and so vital was her interest in these young women that she provided a scholarship fund which was administered by her good friend, the late Miss Nellie Sprunt.

Her long years of effort to advance the cause of education among young women were officially recognized when Governor Thomas H. R. Spalding appointed her a trustee of the State Normal School and she served on the Prudential Committee of that institution, being the first woman to fill such a post in Georgia.

Mrs. White was a member of other organizations. She was past president of the Athens Association, an organization which flourished under her administration and was given the impetus which helped greatly to make the important cultural agency it today. In addition to her many other activities, her keen interest in developing the girls and young women of Georgia and Athens, led her to take an influential role in the establishment here of the Young Women's Christian Association.

News of the passing of Mr. White will bring sorrow to the hearts of hundreds of women, not only in life, who came to love her in the days when they were students at the Normal School as members of her Sunday School class and from whom they received valuable inspiration for the future that life held for them.

Broad Understanding

Although well along life's road Mrs. White was possessed of broad and sympathetic understanding of youth, its problems, its cares, and many were the young people who sought her counsel and advice. They never found her tattered in other interests, duties to discuss their trouble help work out solutions.

The influence for good which she wielded during a long and useful life here is known to all but the have been throughout those many years innumerable instances which she provided material aid individuals and to worthy causes, those benefiting not only themselves knowing the identity of their Good Samaritan.

The passing of Mrs. White leaves the entire community saddened, the loss of one for whom it is the highest measure of respect and admiration and love.

Now PALACE

EXTRA
MARCH OF TIME
"LIFE IN UNCLE SAM'S
NEW CITIZEN ARMY"

GEORGIA

NOW PLAYING
HENRY FONDA

in
"THE RETURN OF FRANK JAMES"

With
GENE TIERNEY
JACKIE COOPER

JOHN WAYNE

in
"TELEGRAPH TRAIL"
Plus
"WINNERS OF THE WEST"

Now Playing

STRAND

NECROLOGICAL.

Death is sad in any form, notwithstanding the Christian promise of a life beyond. To the aged it comes like the closing of a long day with a promise of peace and rest after the turmoil of life. To the young it bears nothing but the outting off an existence filled with prospective happiness and power for good. The life of a babe is like a fragile flower which springs from the green of the meadow and aways every breeze which ruffles its surface, and it oftentimes ends when the future is bright with the promise of a lovely life.

Such a life closed Tuesday when Matilda Jeanette, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Stanley, passed into eternity.

The little girl was only sixteen months old, bright and bonny, all smiles and dimples, a ray of sunshine in a happy home, a divine strain of that melody of childhood to which all hearts respond.

The affection of the family circle which the baby exemplified and the sincere sympathy of the community will help the broken-hearted parents to bear their loss with Christian fortitude.

The little girl had only been sick for about three weeks, and for the last week had been so much better that the doctor had pronounced her out of danger and was going to dismiss her case in a few days.

Wednesday afternoon, however, she was taken suddenly worse and after a night of suffering and pain, on Thursday morning at eight o'clock passed silently away.

Little Matilda was an unusually bright and beautiful child, winning in disposition and lovable beyond expression, filling the life of her father and mother with golden sunshine, and lighting up their home with gladsome mirth and tender, babyish ways, and like most babies wrapped herself about the hearts of her parents with a tightness and closeness of embrace which even the grave will never unloose. But God saw fit to take her to Himself, and though we sorrow for her here, we do not mourn without hope, for we know she has not gone forever, but only a little while to wait for us. We fancy her with God's other little ones singing praises around His throne.

"Oh! what do you think the angels say?"

Said the children up in heaven.
"There's a dear little girl coming home today."

She's almost ready to fly away from the earth we used to live in.
Let's go and wait by the gate of pearl, which is opened wide for the dear little girl."

Said the children up in heaven.

"God wanted her here, where His little ones meet,"

Said the children up in heaven.

"She shall play with us in the golden street;

She has grown too fair, she has grown too sweet,

For the earth we used to live in.

She needs the pure light, this dear little girl."

That guide this side of the gate of pearl.

Said the children up in heaven.

"So the King called down from His throne."

LOCAL COTTON

1 INCH MIDDLING .. 10 1/2c
15-16 MIDDLING .. 10c
7-8 INCH MIDDLING .. 9 1/2c

Vol. 108, No. 282.

Mrs. Julia Ashton White Is Taken By Death At Home

Services For Beloved Woman To Be Held
Saturday At 3 O'clock

Mrs. Julia Ashton White, one of Athens' best loved women and wife of the late Captain James White, died early this morning at her home on Prince avenue.

Several weeks ago Mrs. White underwent an operation and for a time her condition was most encouraging. However, complications followed and her condition became critical a number of days ago, death coming at one o'clock this morning.

Services will be held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock from First Presbyterian church, of which Mrs. White was long a devoted member. Dr. E. L. Hill, pastor of the church and long time friend of Mrs. White, will officiate. He will be assisted by Dr. David Cady Wright and Dr. Peter Plume of Louisville, Ky.

Interment will be in Geonce Hill cemetery. Burial in the home in charge and pallbearers will be Alexander Souder, Robert P. White, Hugh White, Charlie Eckert, Albert Snelling, Hugh Stanley, George Hart and Jack Wilkins. An honorary escort will be comprised of the Elders of First Presbyterian church.

Surviving Mrs. White are two children, James White, president of The National Bank of Athens, and Mrs. Rosena White Bradshaw, wife of the late William Francis Bradshaw of Durham, Ky. Grandchildren are Mrs. Frederick A. Rahr of Scarsdale, N. Y.; Miss Anne Whitcomb Jones White, jr.; and Susan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James White, the latter being the former Miss Elizabeth Spalding of Atlanta; great-grandchildren, Rosena Rahr and Frederick Rahr, jr., of Scarsdale.

Born In 1856

Julia Devereux Ashton was born in 1856, daughter of Colonel John Devereux Ashton and the former Miss Sally Janet Roberts, Colonel Ashton was a member of a prominent Virginia family from Warrenton, in that state. Miss Roberts lived at Halesyondale, Ga., and was a descendant of one of the Southern outstanding families. Col. and Mrs. Ashton made their home

(Continued on page four.)

not expect or ask too much of the city fathers for traffic light signals, this section, however, is a necessity and one that a point should be stretched to add to the present system. With a traffic light at this point and the paving of Baxter street, we will say: "Well done, thou good and faithful servants."

Mrs. Julia Ashton White Is Taken By Death At Home

(Continued from page one.)

In Waynesboro, Ga., and it was there that Julia Ashton grew to young womanhood. She had one brother, John Devereux Ashton, jr., who died many years ago.

She studied and received her education at Wesleyan College in Macon and Lucy Cobb Institute, when those institutions were at the height of their fame and were attended by the daughters of representative families from all parts of the South and the nation, because they not only provided sound educational facilities but also because they preserved the glories of the Old South in marked degree.

In the spring of 1884 she became the bride of Captain James A. White, member of one of Georgia's most prominent families, a leader in the business, civic and social life of Athens, and who served for many years as president of The National Bank of Athens.

Three children blessed this union, Mrs. Bradshaw and James White, who survive, and another daughter, Julia, who died in early girlhood.

Mrs. White's first interest was in her home and family and the White residence was always open to both friends and to strangers, where each found the warm cordiality that was so characteristic of the woman who presided within its doors.

Mecca For Many

Scene of many of Athens' most brilliant social affairs, the White home likewise was the mecca for those who enjoyed sparkling wit and conversation, the gathering place for the well-informed who often met to discuss the events of the day. Highly educated and cultured, Mrs. White devoted much of her time to reading the great literature of the world and in keeping herself informed of current world events. She had a keen interest in music and the other arts and these interests, together with the fact that she traveled extensively, made her at all times a most entertaining as well as hospitable hostess.

Her second interest was in her church, First Presbyterian, its many activities and its welfare and in all of the causes for good towards humanity. For a number of years she performed outstanding service as teacher of a class of young women in the church, young women who came from homes in all parts of the state to attend that was then the State Normal School. The class was organized by her in answer to a need she felt should be filled and so vital was her interest in these young women that she provided a scholarship fund which was administered by her good friend, the late Miss Nellie Sprout.

Her long years of effort to advance the cause of education among young women were officially recognized when Governor Thomas Hardwick appointed her a trustee of the State Normal School and she served on the Prudential Committee of that institution, being the first woman to fill such a post in Georgia.

Mrs. White was a member of past president of the Athens Association, an organization which flourished under her administration and was given the impetus which helped greatly to make it the important cultural agency it is today. In addition to her many other activities, her keen interest in developing the girls and young women of Georgia and Athens, led her to take an influential role in the establishment here of the Young Women's Christian Association.

News of the passing of Mrs. White will bring sorrow to the hearts of hundreds of women, now well along in life, who came to love her in the days when they were students at the Normal School and members of her Sunday School class and from whom they received valuable inspiration for the futures that life held for them.

Broad Understanding

Although well along life's road, Mrs. White was possessed of a broad and sympathetic understanding of youth, its problems and cares, and many were the young people who sought her counsel and advice. They never found her too engrossed in other interests or duties to discuss their troubles, help work out solutions.

The influence for good she wielded during a long and useful life has been known to all but there have been throughout those many years innumerable instances in which she provided material aid to individuals and to worthwhile causes, those benefiting not even themselves knowing the identity of their Good Samaritan.

The passing of Mrs. White leaves the entire community saddened by the loss of one for whom it held the highest measure of respect and admiration and love.

Now PALACE

EXTRA
MARCH OF TIME
"LIFE IN UNCLE SAM'S
NEW CITIZEN ARMY"

GEORGIA

NOW PLAYING
HENRY FONDA

in
"THE RETURN OF FRANK JAMES"

With
GENE TIERNEY
JACKIE COOPER

JOHN WAYNE

in
"TELEGRAPH TRAIL"
Plus
"WINNERS OF THE WEST"

Now Playing

STRAND

The little girl was only sixteen months old, bright and bonny, all smiles and dimples, a ray of sunshine in a happy home, a divine strain of that melody of childhood to which all hearts respond.

The affection of the family circle which the baby exemplified and the sincere sympathy of the community will help the broken-hearted parents to bear their loss with Christian fortitude.

The little girl had only been sick for about three weeks, and for the last week had been so much better that the doctor had pronounced her out of danger and was going to dismiss her case in a few days.

Wednesday afternoon, however, she was taken suddenly worse and after a night of suffering and pain, on Thursday morning at eight o'clock passed silently away.

Little Matilda was an unusually bright and beautiful child, winning in disposition and lovable beyond expression, filling the life of her father and mother with golden sunshine, and lighting up their home with glad some mirth and tender, babyish ways, and like most babies wrapped herself about the hearts of her parents with a tightness and closeness of embrace which even the grave will never unloose. But God saw fit to take her to Himself, and though we mourn for her here, we do not mourn without hope, for we know she has not gone forever, but only a little while to wait for us. We fancy her with God's other little ones singing praises around His throne.

"Oh! what do you think the angels say?"

Said the children up in heaven.

"There's a dear little girl coming home today.

She's almost ready to fly away from the earth we used to live in. Let's go and wait by the gate of pearl, which is opened wide for the dear little girl."

Said the children up in heaven.

"God wanted her here, where His little ones meet."

Said the children up in heaven.

"She shall play with us in the golden street;

She has grown too fair, she has grown too sweet,

For the earth we used to live in.

She needs the pure light, this dear little girl.

That glides this side of the gate of pearl."

Said the children up in heaven.

"And the King called down from His glorious throne,"

Said the children up in heaven.

"My little darling, arise and come To the place prepared in my Father's home.

The home that My children live in."

"Then let us stand at the gate of pearl, Ready to welcome the dear little girl."

Said the children up in heaven.

"Far down on earth do you hear them weep!"

Said the children up in heaven.

"For the dear little girl who's gone to sleep,

As the shadows fall and the night clouds sweep.

O'er the earth we used to live in,

But we'll watch beside the gates of pearl,

Oh! why do they weep for their dear little girl?"

Said the children up in heaven.

"Fly with her quickly, ye angels dear,"

Said the children up in heaven.

"See, now she's coming; oh, look, look there at the golden light on her beautiful hair,

Where the veiling clouds are riven.

But hush—hush—hush, all the swift angels fear.

For Jesus Himself, at the gates of pearl, Is taking her hand, dear, tired little girl,

And leading her into heaven.