This cemetery is surrounded by a beautiful rock wall over waist high. The wall is at least 2 feet thick, the rocks on the top are flat, long and wide. Cemetery is about 100 yards from the highway on a knoll back of a very dilapidated house. I wondered if it was one of the Lovelace houses! There is not a tree near the cemetery, except one small persimmon on the north, I think this is unusual for a cemetery of this age. It is in a very good condition, a little grass, and a few plum sprouts are there. The corner where Mrs. Tabitha Lovelace is buried is very overgrown with a Cherokee rose and grass. Her marker was broken and hard to read.

My cousin, Mrs. Ola Miller Johnson, and my sister, Miss L. C. Lovelace and I made these notes June 29, 1953.

West Point, Ga.
Troup Co.

Great-great-great grand daughter of William Lovelace

Nov. 14, 1958:

My second visit to the cemetery. The old house is gone, a slab over the grave of George H. Lovelace, and the cemetery in better condition. Brambles have been cut from Mrs. Tabitha Lovelace's grave. I do not know anyone in this area connected with this Lovelace family.
